FLANDERS FIGHT LOST

Allies Fleeing; 3 French Armies Circled

FIRST OF ARMY BACK IN BRITAIN, LONDON HEARS

Warships and Planes Help in Flight.

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Maps on back page.)

LONDON, May 30, Thursday.—The evacuation of Flanders by the British Expeditionary force already is under way. The Daily Telegraph today says that some British troops already have landed in this country.

A contingent of wounded soldiers arrived after a harrowing passage home. They embarked from a port in northern France in fishing boats and small craft of any kind and were afterward picked up at sea by British vessels. Many had to wade out to the boats.

British naval vessels covered the embarkation as well as they could with their guns and a Scottish regiment fought off tanks which harassed the wounded Britons as they took to the boats. One wounded man told of a young German officer who jumped from an enemy tank and shouted in perfect English: "You may as well surrender before it is too late." Scot soldiers replied with all their guns and put the tank out of action.

Planes Harass Embarkation.

German airplanes were reported to be making the scene of embarkation an inferno with dive bombing and machine gunning. They even pursue British ships across the channel.

London newspapers continue to emphasize the difficulties confronting the B. E. F., either in being withdrawn by way of the channel ports or in attempting to break thru to the south toward the main French lines on the Somme river.

While the British and French troops caught in the German trap were striving to extricate themselves against overwhelming odds, meager information from official sources here did nothing to relieve anxiety as to their fate. The exact position of the British expeditionary force was not revealed. Altho announcements issued here claimed that the B. E. F. "still is intact," it was admitted that troops "have been withdrawn some miles toward the coast."

Report Fight Goes On.

Reports published in London newspapers at midnight said the B. E. F. was in a compact wedge and still battling German attacks. Anglo-French naval forces held the fortified area at Dunkirk and allied planes maintained an intensive bomb barrage of the enemy lines of communication to aid the troop withdrawals, it was added.

The air ministry last night claimed that 22 German planes were shot down by the British yesterday evening in air combats near Dunkirk.

Fear of Invasion Grows.

The collapse of Belgian resistance appears to have brought home to the inhabitants of Britain's East Kent coast the growing menace of a German invasion. Women and children from the danger areas were reported tonight to be anticipating a government order by evacuating the region.

The conviction that Britain would defeat a German invasion was expressed by Harold Nicolson, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of information in a broadcast last night. He said Germany "may be able to land in Great Britain some thousands of their troops," and added:

"But do not imagine that a virile and unbending race of 45,000,000 people will for long allow some thousands of enemy troops to remain upon our shores."

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—While their troops fought against annihilation in a German trap in Flanders, Britons were told today that half a million soldiers especially equipped for mechanized warfare are ready for action.

Part of a million and a half men actually under arms in England, they can be sent to join the French on the Somme river in France in any smash at the Nazis, it was said.

Nazis Say Rome Makes Last Try to Effect Truce

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 29.—Efforts are being made in Rome for a last desperate attempt to bring about a truce between Germany and the allies, it was learned here tonight. However, it is emphasized here that "any surrender will have to be as unconditional as that of King Leopold of the Belgians."

Meanwhile Nazi propagandists were directing unceasing appeals to the French army and the French people. Every half hour the call, "Down Your Arms," was sounded in French over German radio stations, alternating with the stations of occupied Brussels and Luxemburg.

Play on Mass Emotions.

The same impassioned fanaticism and cool reckoning of mass psychology that marked the speeches of Hitler and his aides in the days when they fought their way to power in Germany marks the present appeals of the Nazi propagandists to France to surrender.

Whether the French will respond, as well the Germans did to the Nazis' speeches, remains to be seen. The Germans are sparing no efforts in this direction.

The Nazi propaganda men play on the distrust which always exists among allies by denouncing "plutocratic England," which they say "compels the French to sacrifice their lives, and land, and property."

At the same time threats are made that France will be devastated, "the flower of her young manhood annihilated, and a butchery of unparalleled bloodiness will take place unless France comes to terms with Germany."

Describes Death in Flanders.

Thus radio stations such as Brussels, Luxemburg, Frankfurt, Stuttgart, Bremen, and Berlin attack the air waves of France along the entire western front. The speakers, to judge by their accent, usually are Frenchmen and Belgians who have identified themselves with the Nazi cause.

D. N. B., the German official news agency, echoed these warnings today. "Whoever fails to lay down arms voluntarily in Flander must die," it said. One of its official war correspondents wrote describing a flight over Flanders under the heading "We Have Flown Death to Flanders."

While the radio war against England has not reached the same proportions, similar warnings are sounded by the Germans in their threats to take reprisals for English attacks on what the Germans call "nonmilitary objectives" in Germany proper.

Threaten Bomb Reprisals.

While the Germans assert that despite the great number of British flights over German territory the English bombers failed to hit their objectives with the same accuracy as the German bombers do, German official sources today stated:

"We Germans have started lists recording every person killed, every one injured, and every damage done by the British bombers in their night flights over Germany. England beware! Haughty England must know that we forget nothing—when the hour of reckoning comes there will be a multifold retaliation for every bomb. Then England will notice that German flyers are well in a position to avenge German blood."

U. S. PILOTS NOW MAY FLY PLANES ACROSS CANADA, FOR BRITAIN

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—Secretary Cordell Hull, making a ruling designed to speed delivery of American warplanes to the allies, held today that United States citizens may travel in belligerent aircraft over the Canadian provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island. Previously this was forbidden by a neutrality regulation.

Hull's action means that American pilots now may fly American made planes to the Canadian border, where transfer of title takes place and the planes are pushed across the border. The same pilots then can reënter and fly the planes across Canada to New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island in the easternmost part of Canada.

From there they can be loaded on ships or flown—not by American pilots, however—across the Atlantic. Previously an American pilot had to bring a plane down west of the eastern provinces, and a Canadian pilot had to pick it up for the last lap of the journey.

Bill to Deport Bridges Given Right of Way

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—Legislation for the summary deportation of Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. leader, won the right-of-way to the house floor today by unanimous vote of the rules committee. Informed members predicted speedy passage.

No such action ever before has been taken against an individual, but bills to prevent deportation of individuals have been passed by congress. Members of the committee said it was as consistent to pass a bill to deport an individual, but it was admitted that if passed it undoubtedly will be taken to the Supreme court.

The rules committee approved the legislation in less than five minutes.

Menace to U. S., Says Report.

"Bridges is regarded by the framers of this bill as a menace to the interests of this country," the committee reported. "His close association with known communists was brought out and admitted by him in the government's warrant hearing in his deportation case during the summer of 1939.

"It is felt that in these days, when national interests are in jeopardy and our nation may at any time become involved in war, it is not a time to equivocate, but it is the primary duty of congress to act promptly in the interests of the people of these United States, disregarding the personal desires or interests of one who, it must be admitted, has been a disturbing element in our midst, and whose loyalty and attachment to the constitution is open to serious question."

Arrest to Be Ordered.

The bill would direct that Bridges be taken into custody and deported to Australia, of which he is a subject. He has started proceedings to become an American citizen.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins dismissed deportation proceedings against Bridges after Dean James M. Landis of the Harvard Law school conducted a hearing and reported there had been no showing that Bridges advocated violent overthrow of the government or was a member of the communist party.

BULLETIN.

New York, May 30, Thursday (AP).—A broadcast in German on the wavelength of the Berlin radio today proclaimed that "now the German people has started to finish up forever this eternal disturber of its peace"—France. It said France had "sabotaged the German will for peace," and added "France will have to feel the punishment until she has lost all desire for further assaults on Germany."

BERLIN, May 29.—The biggest battle in the world's history has entered its final phase. Many Germans believed that with the end of the battle, Fuehrer Hitler's next move would be a drive toward Paris.

About 500,000 French and British troops, encircled in French and Belgian Flanders, hopelessly outnumbered and inferior in equipment, were reported to be in a desperate position today after the Germans had driven a wedge thru Lille splitting the trapped enemy forces in two pockets.

[After the surrender of an estimated 300,000 Belgians, early reports had estimated that 700,000 British and French troops were left in the German trap. Berlin sources, however, believed that a considerable number of the allied forces already had been withdrawn thru English channel ports.]

By concentric attacks from the west and east, the Germans captured the fortress city of Lille, France's industrial metropolis of the north which had a peacetime population of 200,000.

French in Small Pocket.

The barrier thru Lille shut off in a pocket to the southeast, about 12 miles square, the First and Seventh French armies and the remaining parts of the Ninth French army which was the victim of the disastrous break thru on the Meuse in the early days of the campaign. In the words of the German war communique:

"Their fate is sealed. Their resistance has collapsed."

The pocket southeast of Lille runs east from Lille to the Belgian border, then southward west of Orchies, then westward north of Douai and north along the Amiens-Lille railroad back to Lille.

The bulk of the British expeditionary force is trapped in a larger pocket northwest of Lille, tapering from an apex five miles wide at Lille to a base about 25 miles long on the coast. The encircling line extends southeastward from the coast south of Ostend, approximately to Roubaix and Lille,

PRISONERS FILL MILES OF ROADS PLODDING TO BARBED WIRE CAMPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 29.—While death again rules the fields of Flanders, long columns of French, Belgian, Dutch, English and colored colonial prisoners are trudging along the roads in Belgium and Germany on their way to prison camps. The march to "encampments behind barbed wire" must be made on foot, German officials said today, because "the railroads cannot be used yet and the transport columns must attend to more important duties."

Scenes showing miles of these prisoners were shown to the foreign press in a new 45 minute newsreel. The film was shown to the accompaniment of the deafening roar of guns used in the conquest of Antwerp and Brussels.

Burned and burning cities and battles in Belgium and northern France, were pictured, along with an occasional glimpse of charred human remains in an enemy bullet riddled or burned out tank.

Fires Rage; Planes Clash in Clouds in Free-for-All; Bomb German Tanks.

(Maps on back page.)

PARIS, May 29 (A. P.)—The allies tonight gave up as lost the battle of Flanders and, in a great retreat, opened the flood sluices around Dunkirk to guard their last port of escape on the sea.

The bloody conflict in the north was all but over. The Germans thus were left substantially in control of France's northern industrial region and her northwest coast, across from England.

At least, however, the battle had given the allies time to build a strong southern front along the Somme and Aisne rivers for 200 miles across France.

The virtual collapse of the allied cause in Flanders—precipitated by the surrender of the Belgians and the consequent laying open of the allied flanks—came amid scenes of fire and flood.

Waters Rise Steadily in Streams.

While the waters rose steadily in the vast system of streams around Dunkirk, French divisions fought across the tortured landscape to hold the rear while British troops defended the principal points of passage for the main forces seeking the coastline. (The first of the retreating British troops have reached England, according to dispatches from London.)

The allies brought on the inundation by opening the locks southwest and northeast of Dunkirk, on the great canal that flows by the city and follows the coast for many miles.

In Dunkirk the last allied resistance was rallied under Vice Admiral Jean Marie Abrial, 61 year old commander of the port. The allied armies, navies, and air forces fought together in an effort to save as much as possible from the wreckage of Flanders.

(Other reports from Paris said that, under the direction of Gen. Maurice Blanchard, Gen. Rene Prioux is striving to fight his way to the coast in the direction of Dunkirk. Gen. Prioux was a corps commander at the beginning of the war. He is 61 years old.)

The retreat was harassed by heavy German fire. Some Belgian units, refusing to lay down their arms despite King Leopold's order to capitulate, were reported still fighting beside the British and French.

A single French division which had been stationed with the Belgians as the backbone of their front tried to hold back the Nazi rush in the Nieuport-Dixmude sector, a world war battlefield on the coast northeast of Dunkirk.

Suicide Squads Hold Out.

Suicide squads also held out on the eastern and southern sides of the allied path to the sea. Some allied units had to fight thru German columns. Dunkirk, manned by French sailors, was the last island of solid allied positions.

The French commander at Dunkirk reported that he was "satisfied with the supply situation." At the same time ships were bringing more and more food and munitions.

The rest of the battlefield was a maelstrom of free-for-all fighting, lighted up by blazing fires.

Airplanes tangled in the heavy clouds hanging over the battle area. Low flying allied navy dive bombers plunged down on powerful German tanks.

The Germans made Lille, the industrial center of northern France, and Calais, on the channel straits of Dover, particular battlegrounds. They claimed the capture of both, altho the French said some of their troops still were holding out at Calais.

The German advance was slowed by allied sharpshooters waging guerrilla warfare in the fields and fighting in the streets of the cities. French troops were reported offering resistance in the streets of Lille, but it was admittedly only a last ditch fight to help the bulk of the allied forces reach the coast.

French Troops Are Cut Off.

The Germans, in addition to claiming the capture of Lille, said they had cut off in a subsidiary pocket to the south French troops previously isolated in the larger triangle held by the Germans.

Thus these twice isolated Frenchmen apparently had no specific objective toward which to fall back, but merely to retreat somewhere or anywhere.

On the front along the Somme and Aisne rivers a war office spokesman said the "quite heavy" offensive actions launched yesterday had resulted this afternoon in wiping out the last German held bridgeheads on the south side of the Somme, with many Nazis taken prisoner. Three villages were recaptured before the destruction of the last German bridgehead.

Dunkirk, which disputes with Bordeaux the right to be known as France's third ranking seaport, is the northernmost city in France. It lies 10 miles from the Belgian border and is only 45 miles from Dover and 108 miles—by water—from London.

Repeat Strategy of 1914.

In flooding its environs to cover their retreat the allies of 1940 thus repeated the tactics of 1914. It was in October, 1914, after the fall of Antwerp and the first battle of the Marne, that the Belgians opened the sluices along the Yser river, a bit east of the present flooding. That permitted the Belgians to hold the Yser line and save their channel ports from German occupation.

In the world war Dunkirk was important to the allies as a base for antisubmarine operations and as a subsidiary base for the Dover

Air raids and shellfire took some 1,500 lives during the world war and also destroyed the roof of the church of St. Eloi. The 290 foot belfry of this church also has served as a signal tower. It was St. Eloi who, in erecting a church in the waste of sand dunes close to the sea in the seventh century, both started the town and gave it its name, a compound of the Flemish "duin" [dune] and "kerk" [church].

REFUGEES CLOG ROADS

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 29—Three million Belgian refugees, or about 35 per cent of that country's population, now are estimated to be south of France's defensive line along the Somme and Aisne rivers. This figure naturally is not exact or final, since weeks will have to elapse before an accurate census can be taken of the Belgians who fled in front of the German advance.

Inextricably mingled with the Belgians who now are spreading out in fan shape all over France from Paris, are some hundreds of thousands of French from the invaded region.

Influence on War Moves.

The influence which this horde of refugees has had on allied military operations certainly has been considerable. Now the same influence is being felt all over the country at a moment when all means of communication and public transport are required for an enormous military effort.

Travelers coming to Paris from the south report that highways south and southwest of Paris, even beyond the Loire river, have become almost impassable.

Cities Are Overwhelmed.

Stories of congestion and confusion among this distraught mob come in from provincial cities. Tours, Poitiers, Limoges, Vichy, Bourges and Nevers are overwhelmed. From Bordeaux come stories of not a single bed being available even in private homes, and of people sleeping in railway stations.

Even as far as the foothills of the Pyrenees, the peasants have had to make room for refugees in houses and barns.

FIRE HUGE COAST GUNS AT N. Y.; 1ST TIME SINCE 1935

New York, May 29 [Special].—Fired for the first time since 1935, the two 16-inch coastal defense guns of the seventh coast artillery at Fort Tilden at Rockaway point on Long Island, today shot 14 shells weighing more than a ton apiece across 17 miles of sea.

Not more than one or two of the gun crew, including officers, had ever fired a 16 inch gun, army officials at the fort said.

Each of the two guns was fired in rotation, employing crews of 36 men for each gun beside a staff of 50 additional army men stationed in the underground plotting rooms. They fired at an 18 foot target towed by army tugs, at a range of 27,000 to Able at maximum range to send 2,100 pound projectiles a distance of more than 25 miles the 16-inch guns exploded $42,000 worth of powder and shell today, at a cost of $3,000 for each of the 14 shells, according to Col. Forrest E. Williford, commanding the seventh coast artillery.

50 JAP BOMBS HIT UNIVERSITY AT CHUNGKING

CHUNGKING, China, May 29 (AP).—Chungking university was reported struck by more than fifty bombs today in continued Japanese air raids against the provisional capital of the central Chinese government. Several buildings and valuable equipment were said to have been damaged, but there were few casualties.

Three groups of bombers, more than fifty in all, made four attacks on the district west of the city, dropping incendiary bombs which started fires.

[A Japanese naval spokesman said at Hankow that the Japanese plan daily air bombardments on Chungking until its "spirit of resistance" is broken.]

Sun Han-pin, dean of Fuhtan university, a graduate of Washington and Harvard universities, and a well known writer, was among those killed when Chungking was bombed yesterday.

INDUSTRY READY FOR DEFENSE JOB; SEEKS FREEDOM

American industry, thru the board of directors of the National Association of Manufacturers, pledged its "knowledge and experience and the utmost energy of its members" yesterday to the building of national defense, but called for the removal of unsound legislative and administrative restrictions on production.

The association's directors met here in the Drake hotel and released their statement under the name of H. W. Prentis Jr., president of the association. Mr. Prentis said:

"Handicaps to industry in production for the nation's protection are as dangerous as fifth column intrigue. Barriers to economic efficiency will imperil the nation as much as outright sabotage. Obstructions to industrial production will give aid and comfort to a potential national enemy."

Retreating Allies Flood Dunkirk Area

then back west and northwest thru Hazebrouck to a point on the coast between Gravelines and Dunkirk.

The Germans declared that the attempts of Gen. Maxime Weygand, the allied commander in chief, to bring relief to the trapped armies from the south had failed. Referring to these efforts on the Somme and Aisne rivers front, the German high command said:

"Attacks by the enemy infantry and tanks were repulsed."

German guns of all calibers, including those of the largest bore, are keeping up an incessant bombardment of the French and British compressed in the two pockets. From above come the mass attacks of German bombers and the dread Stukas [dive bombers].

Drop Rain of Bombs.

The horde of planes showered quarter ton bombs upon pillboxes of the little Maginot line, upon marching columns, upon clusters of trees and strategic bits of terrain—upon every point where allied troops could hope to make a stand.

These tactics were being repeated today on the trapped British and French forces with a "hell of fire and an inconceivable rain of bombs descending on the allies," German reports said.

The German war communique, referring to operations of yesterday, told how, as a result of the capitulation of the Belgian army, the Germans were able to advance rapidly along the Belgian coast, taking Bruges, Ostend, Dixmude, Ypres, Kemmel, and Langemarck, and maneuver the allies into the pockets.

It was in the flooded areas around Ypres that the German onslaught of 1914 was halted.

Plant Flag on Historic Field.

The war communique stated that the German war flag was hoisted on the monument erected in honor of these Langemarck dead.

Street fighting was reported in Dunkirk [presumably between the allies and advanced Nazi armored columns].

Dunkirk, the Germans say, has been burning for three days. It remains the only port where it is barely possible to embark British forces.

Armentieres Captured.

While Armentieres was captured by the Germans, fighting still is in progress at Bailleul and also farther north at Wormhoudt.

Allied air activities seem to have weakened, according to the German communique. It was claimed that 24 enemy planes were shot down while the German losses were given as numbering only three in yesterday's air fights.

German bombers were busy over the English channel and along the Belgian and French coasts. It was claimed that three destroyers, two transport vessels and two merchantmen were heavily damaged by bombs.

All German nationals in Eupen and Malmedy have been made citizens of the reich. The two eastern provinces of Belgium, taken from Germany after the world war, were reabsorbed to Germany after recent conquest of Belgium.

ALLIES CHALK UP FIRST VICTORY IN FALL OF NARVIK

BULLETIN.

STOCKHOLM, May 30 [Thursday] (AP).—German troops today were reported fighting a rearguard action after withdrawal from the Norwegian ore port of Narvik, but were in danger of being trapped by Norwegian forces deployed along the Swedish frontier to bar the Nazis' escape into Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 29.—Official reports from both London and Berlin show the allies scored their first substantial victory in Norway when they captured Narvik last night and occupied the head of Narvik peninsula, lying between Rombaks and Beis fjords from Forsneset in the north to Fagerness in the south.

The strategically and economically important iron ore port of Narvik, the struggle for which was largely responsible for plunging Norway into the war, fell into the allies' hands after a bitter conflict that lasted 50 days.

Taken by Men of Four Lands.

Narvik was captured when Norwegian, British, French, and Polish troops, supported by allied warships, launched a double offensive against the town from both the north and the south, it is reported here. Norwegian troops, supported by British units and French Alpine chasseurs, crossed Rombaks fjord from the north under the protection of allied warships and got a foothold on the iron ore railway at Forsneset, on the southern bank of the fjord, despite heavy German air bombardment.

Polish Force Victorious.

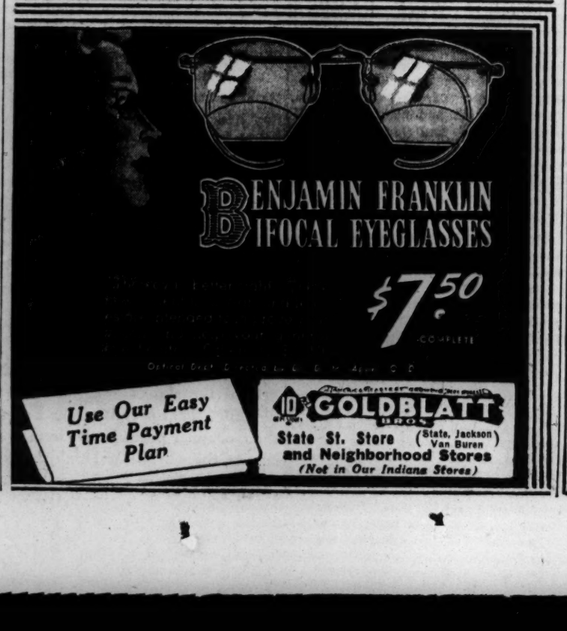
The bulk of the German expeditionary force, estimated at 5,000 to 7,000 men, had left Narvik some time ago and had massed for a last stand between Hundalen, at the eastern end of Rombaks fjord, and Bjoernfjell, on the Swedish frontier.

New Italian Ambassador Takes Up Post at Holy See

VATICAN CITY, May 29 (AP).—The New Italian ambassador to the Holy See, Bernardo Attolico, presented his credentials today and for an hour conferred with Pope Pius. Attolico, former ambassador to Berlin, delivered a brief speech expressing joy at his new post.



FORMER KAISER'S GRANDSON BURIED WITH ARMY RITES

BERLIN, May 29.—Prince Wilhelm of Prussia, 34 years old, eldest son of the former crown prince, was buried at Potsdam this afternoon with the military rites due a first lieutenant who dies as a result of wounds received in battle.

This means that the coffin was carried by noncommissioned officers and one company of soldiers paid final honors. Potsdam was crowded, many people having journeyed from Berlin for the service. About 200 officers of former Kaiser Wilhelm's army, led by Field Marshal August von Mackensen, who is 90, were on hand in their imperial uniforms. In addition there were 20 younger generals of the contemporary German army.

The service was held in Peace church and among many wreaths was one from the exiled former kaiser in Doorn, the Netherlands. Air Minister Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering also sent a wreath, and Adolf Hitler sent condolences. The crown prince and his two other sons were present, and Wilhelm's widow walked on the arm of her father-in-law.

PARIS, May 29.—Saddened by military disasters and the capitulation of their king, Leopold III., emigre Belgians in France today set about the task of reorganizing their nation's government on French soil.

The start of the national reconstruction naturally was in Paris, where the Belgian cabinet of Premier Hubert Pierlot has been in close touch with French authorities.

One of the first official governmental acts, however, will take place Friday at Limoges in west central France, a town famed for its porcelain. Limoges apparently is to play the same rôle as Angers does for the Poles, becoming a provisional capital of the Belgians.

To Fix Status of King.

The two houses of the Belgian parliament—or as many members as can be brought together—will meet there in solemn session to fix the status of Belgium, which now is almost entirely in the hands of the victorious invading German army.

It was announced the parliament would determine exactly where King Leopold stands with relation to the Belgian government, altho their decision may not be acceptable to Adolf Hitler whose generals accepted Leopold's surrender of the Belgian army yesterday.

Premier Pierlot already has disowned the king and his capitulation and the senate and chamber of deputies was reported to have approved the action at a meeting in Paris.

Opposed to Republic.

Belgians prominent in the government, when discussing the proposed new status of Belgium, dismiss the idea that the parliament at Limoges will vote to continue Leopold as king. It seemed practically certain that he will be deposed and possibly that the whole dynasty will be ousted.

At the same time little enthusiasm for the idea of a Belgian republic is expressed. Many Belgians assert the republican form of government was a fad of the 18th and 19th centuries and is out of date—at least for the present. If they cannot have a kingdom, these persons say they want something more dynamic and streamlined than a republic built on the French or American models.

The main topic among Belgians here is King Leopold's surrender, to which the mildest adjective applied is "strange." Interrupted communications and censorship left the Belgians here completely in the dark as to the reasons for or the circumstances accompanying his surrender. The French press takes the view it was treason, carefully planned long before hand.

Cabinet, King Disagree.

Some light was cast on the subject by statements of Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak in tonight's issue of L'Intransigeant, a Paris newspaper. Spaak asserted that members of the cabinet, including Premier Pierlot, last talked to King Leopold on Saturday in the chateau of Wynondal near Thourout, Belgium. Spaak declared there was complete disagreement between the cabinet and the king all along the line.

"We left him with the feeling that all was over between him and us," says Spaak. There was no disagreement, however, on the subject of surrendering the Belgian army because, according to Spaak, the question was not raised. Spaak concluded by saying that any separate peace which Leopold may sign with the Germans will be null and void.

Belgian informants said the king's decision to surrender was taken on the advice of Gen. van Overstraten, a known Nazi sympathizer.

Returns to Brussels Castle.

Leopold was reported in dispatches from Belgian and other sources to have returned to his Brussels palace. His mother, Queen Elizabeth, had refused to leave this castle even when Brussels was occupied by German troops.

The newspaper Paris Soir said the three royal Belgian children, motherless since Queen Astrid was injured fatally in an automobile accident in 1935, have been taken to Lisbon, Portugal, for the duration of the war. The Belgian legation in Lisbon, however, denied they were there or going there. The Lisbon legation described the king as a German prisoner.

From the estimated 3,000,000 Belgian refugees in France the Belgian government proposes to recruit a new army under Gen. Henri Denis, defense minister. Premier Pierlot estimated that between 400,000 and 500,000 Belgian soldiers surrendered under the king's order. It was asserted also that in the first eight days of the war 10,000 Belgian soldiers were killed. There were no figures on later casualties.

There was uncertainty tonight about the status of foreign diplomats in Belgium, especially that of American ambassador John Cudahy who remained in Brussels. Like other diplomats he was accredited to the court —which the cabinet has repudiated.

Leopold Cartooned as Snake.

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—One British newspaper cartooned King Leopold as a snake today and an editorial called him a skunk. Some high authorities, however, asked for a stay of judgment on his surrender to Germany until all the facts are documented.

RED PAPER CRITICIZES ALLIES FOR RAPPING LEOPOLD'S SURRENDER

MOSCOW, May 29 (AP).—An article in the army newspaper Red Star said today British and French leaders knew for days that Belgium would be forced to capitulate, but now were trying to heap full responsibility for the Belgian surrender on King Leopold III.

Discussing the situation of the French general staff, the newspaper said: "Obviously the confusion before the sudden blow of the enemy was not incidental, but deep reasons of a political character defined the inefficiency of the French command and the removal of Gamelin." [Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, commander in chief of the allies, was superseded by Gen. Maxime Weygand.]

The article said the idea of capitulation was increasing among leaders of the "bourgeoisie" both in France and Britain.

French Flyers Find Weak Spot in Germany's Tanks

PARIS, May 29 (AP).—Allied flyers have found a vulnerable spot on the tops of German tanks, military experts declared today. This top armor, it was said, is thinner than that on the sides, and allied pursuit planes have pumped shells into the German tanks from newly mounted cannon. It was estimated that Germany has lost at least 2,000 of its estimated 5,000 tanks since the war in the west began.

EVEN WAR CAN'T HIDE BEAUTY OF LA BELLE FRANCE

She's Still Colorful, Altho a Bit Subdued.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—Color is the first thing that strikes you in Lisbon. There are pale pink, cream, and sky blue houses, bright yellow, stubby little trolley cars that bob about like bumble bees, open air restaurants with red and yellow chairs, and women with trays of fish on their heads.

First Real Touch of War.

At the station at Hendaye, France, where we went thru the scrutiny of the French customs, the war first really touched my consciousness. There several French poilus, one with a fixed bayonet, stood on the platform. A stiffness about their mouths and blackness in their eyes spoke of the battle that is taking away and laying waste the north of their country.

Then the train moved on toward Paris. "What is that blue paint around the edges of the windows?" I asked, and was told it was for the blackout.

All parts of the panes that might emit a crack of light at night were painted blue. Street and station lamps had blue glasses, and factory windows and house windows had blue panes. A blue motif had colored the eyelids of France. The little locomotive and the short French cars, each with brass trimmings and looking handmade like everything in France, clicked toward Paris.

"We'll Fight . . . and Beat Them."

I struggled with my vocabulary. "Do you think the war will last long?" I asked a gaunt, middle aged Frenchman in my second class compartment.

"It is very serious," he said. "The Germans got Amiens today and may soon have all the channel ports. But we'll fight them and beat them. They may take Paris. They may even take all of France. Still, we'll beat them. But what do you think of the war in America?"

Brilliant poppies along the track, reddish tile roofs, farmhouses built of field stones and mud, long rows of poplars, all told that this, indeed, was La Belle France, and one could see in French faces the truth of the statement that every inch of French soil is sacred to the heart of every Frenchman. Some passengers talked of a still blacker time in 1914 and again in 1918. Some referred to bygone centuries when France was completely overrun by her enemies. All seemed conscious of the woes of history which France always has overcome. They had faith to spare this time. Their backs were not yet to the wall.

Refugees Camp in Stations.

In the stations thousands of Belgian refugees camped. One woman told of having walked all of the way from her Belgian home to Soissons, France. Five of her seven children had been killed by air attacks along the roads. A trainload of trucks and ambulances passed, headed south along with train after train of refugees.

Beside the railroad one noticed women or old men driving automobiles laden with baggage to the south. There were no young men except for occasional soldiers. Old men leaned on their hoes in the fields watching the express roar past. France's beauty was everywhere despite the hints of war. The greenness of the spring and ripeness of the earth were everywhere evident.

Beauty Even in Stones.

The buildings seemed to have beauty in their stones and in the towns the massed roofs had a delicate irregularity that led my eye to the pinnacle of some ancient gothic cathedral on a hill. Each house had trimmings and a particular lean of its own. Yet all had earthy colors in their walls and roof tiles. The little vegetable gardens on the outskirts of each village were incredibly small and furthered the impression of the dearness of every inch of France.

As our train approached Paris it halted more frequently. Probably military trains were using the tracks ahead. After dark I was surprised that the window shades were not pulled down. A dining car waiter shrugged and said: "It is not dangerous." Then I noticed lights blazing in the stations despite the fact they were military objectives and within easy bombing reach of the enemy.

Paris, too, was only dimmed to a silvery softness that retained an easy visibility. The cathedral of Notre Dame slid by like a ship in the moonlight as I went to my hotel.

Offer Bribes for Boat Tickets.

In the morning I took a train for a channel port. All passenger air transportation between Paris and London had been stopped. Desperate crowds stood at the station gates and bribes were offered for a few tickets. The women and children had to tote all their earthly possessions in their own hands.

At the port I was unable to get a ticket on the crowded boat until a British friend helped me with a letter from the president of the steamship line. Then the boat, fully loaded, remained at the dock for 24 hours before dashing across the English channel in the darkness with all the passengers in life belts.

The passengers, mostly British, were nervous during the eight hour crossing and few went below decks, except to eat. Beef, biscuits, marmalade, and tea and also ample butter were available on board.

BANISH POLITICS FROM DEFENSE, DEWEY DEMANDS

Rips Roosevelt for Giving New Dealers Control.

Birmingham, Ala., May 29 [Special]. — Asserting that President Roosevelt is making no attempt to take the defense program out of politics, Thomas E. Dewey tonight called upon citizens of the country to demand the separation.

As an example of the President's attitude in the matter, Dewey, in a speech here, cited the appointment by Mr. Roosevelt yesterday of an advisory commission to the national defense council.

The Republican presidential aspirant acknowledged the capability of a majority of the persons named but protested they were given no powers and were merely "window dressing" to hide the fact that the real defense council is composed of New Deal politicians.

Referring to these politicians, he said "a brilliant red lining of communists, near communists, fellow travelers, and their kind shows thru the administrative fringe."

Raps at Henderson.

Dewey departed from the speech he had prepared for delivery here to take up the subject of the President's defense council and its advisory commission. In discussing the appointments to the commission, he termed Leon Henderson, New Deal economist, a parlor pink and said the other six members were "asked by the President to serve as messenger boys."

The defense council is composed of members of President Roosevelt's cabinet. The six persons in addition to Henderson named to the advisory commission yesterday are Ralph Budd, Chicago rail executive; Miss Harriet Elliott, dean of women at the University of North Carolina; William S. Knudsen of General Motors corporation; Edward R. Stettinius Jr. of the United States Steel corporation; Sidney S. Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, and Chester C. Davis of the federal reserve board.

"In effect," Dewey told his audience, "the President admits that they [the New Dealers] have kicked industry around for seven years. He admits it is in very bad shape. He refuses to admit that industrialists can do the job better than New Deal politicians and he declines to take politics out of it.

Ridicules Cabinet Members.

"Who are the people who now under the law are charged with the national defense? I want to tell you what they are. I want to ask with the utmost solemnity whether you are willing to trust the future of your country and its preparedness and defense to this group. These are the men President Roosevelt says are the bosses of the industrial geniuses of this country.

"There is the secretary of war, the secretary of the navy, who is busy running for governor of the state of New Jersey; Secretary Ickes is in charge of national defense, if you can imagine it; Henry Wallace, if you can imagine it, and our secretary of commerce, Harry Hopkins, who never made a pay roll in his life, has never manufactured a button, has never done anything but spend other people's money. And last of all, your national safety is in charge of Mme. Perkins."

"Now, in heaven's name, who can do that job? I speak to you as a plain American that if this job isn't taken out of politics and the President doesn't stop window dressing this job, we are going to be in a bad way.

Urges Citizens to Act.

Dewey appealed to his audience, particularly to the Democrats, with the words, "In heaven's name, use your influence to get this administration to stop playing politics with the safety of this country. Use your influence and every resource to say to this administration: 'You have got to put this job in the hands of competent men'."

Dewey came to Birmingham to make a plea for support of Alabama's 13 uninstructed delegates to the Republican national convention. A group from Winston county, the state's Republican stronghold, hinted the Alabama delegation, in its lead off position, might yield the floor to New York for immediate nomination of Dewey at the convention.

Coming to Canada

OTTAWA, Ont., May 29 (AP).—Mme. Englebert Dollfuss, widow of the Catholic chancellor of Austria who was slain in an attempted Nazi putsch in 1934, has been granted permission to enter Canada and intends to take refuge here, it was learned tonight. Informed sources said she is "likely to arrive in Canada shortly." She and her son and daughter went to England in July, 1938, after moving to residence in the Balkans when Adolf Hitler took over Austria in March of that year.

ITALY BARS USE OF FOREIGN CASH TO BUY IMPORTS

Cuts World Commercial Ties in Ominous Move.

ROME, May 29.—The ministry of foreign exchange issued an order today to all banks and industrial firms ending permits for importation and revoking permission to acquire foreign currency in order to pay for imports. Thus Italy cuts herself off commercially from the world, except in cases where she has barter agreements.

This is regarded as one of the most serious indications of the expectation of war. It is considered on a par with the postponement of the sailing of Italian vessels.

The United States will suffer most as a result of today's decision. Importers have been able to acquire dollars at a price far above the official rate of 19.80 lire per dollar, but such permission now is rescinded. If Italy is going to war the Mediterranean will be closed and there will be no way to send checks and drafts to the United States for collection.

The decision is considered of the utmost gravity to Italy, which depends on its imports of raw materials, some of which have to be paid for in cash.

Hint Italy Picks War Stage.

ROME, May 29 (AP).—Italy tonight still teetered on the brink of war.

Many foreign and Italian observers expected her to take the plunge within a few days, but in the Mediterranean and southward rather than directly against France.

The new view as to the potential theater of attack was supported by Nicola Marchitto, in the political review, Conquista D'Impero—Conquest of Empire.

Italy's Offensive Goals Set.

Marchitto said Italy's "offensive objectives" would be actions by the navy and air force in the Mediterranean and land war in Africa to conquer the British-French controled Suez canal and eventually in the Balkans to "protect" Italian interests.

Italian strategy is defensive, he wrote, on the frontiers of France proper and French protected Tunis, which fronts on Italian Libya. It has a different character, however, on the Egyptian frontiers of Italian Africa.

The writer spoke of the Greek port of Saloniki, take off point of the allies' Balkan campaign in the world war, and Djibouti, French Somaliland, sea outlet for Italian Ethiopia, as other possible objectives.

Italy's war fever rose with the surrender of Belgium's armies.

Russians Spurn British Trade Mission; Demand Ambassador

MOSCOW, May 29 (AP).—The soviet government today curtly turned down as "not acceptable" the mission of Sir Stafford Cripps, en route to Moscow as a special British trade envoy.

In a stinging rebuff to the British, the Kremlin informed London it could not accept Sir Stafford, a left-wing Laborite member of the British parliament, or any other "special" envoy on such a mission.

Suggests Negotiation Thru Envoy.

Furthermore, it informed Britain that if it really desired to conduct trade negotiations it should do so thru Sir William Seeds, British ambassador to Moscow, or any one who might be appointed in his place.

[A usually well informed source in London said Britain likely would yield to the soviet stand and name Sir Stafford to succeed Sir William, who has been on leave from Moscow since January. Britain's relations with Russia were cooled considerably at that time because of Russia's undeclared war against Finland, but London observers have reported an improvement since then.]

Sir Stafford, whose Socialist views were believed in London to weigh in favor of further improving relations of the two powers and ultimately to pave the way for a trade agreement, was a visitor to Moscow earlier this year.

Seeks to Block Nazi Trade.

He came in thru Russia's back door on a flight from Chungking, China, and was reported to have seen Josef Stalin.

Britain has sought to limit Russian trade with Germany in seeking a trade agreement with Moscow, but was rebuffed on this score May 21.

Russia gave assurances then, however, that proposed imports from Britain were intended for its own requirements and not for re-export, presumably to Germany.

FIND NAZIS HAVE SWISS UNDER AN UNSEEN THUMB

Americans See Little Nation Cowed.

BERLIN, May 30, Thursday (AP).—The German press charges today that Britain and France are urging Switzerland and Portugal to accept allied guarantees of security. It termed these alleged political maneuvers "another effort to bring more neutrals into the war."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NOVARA, Italy, May 22. [By Mail].—American travelers arriving in this Alpine town on their way from the war zone to Rome en route home report that the initial success of Germany in the Low Countries and northern France has about demoralized the Swiss.

Curb Anti-Nazi Writings.

These Americans who traveled across Switzerland in their flight before the advancing German war machine said they believe that the Swiss military defenses would give a good account of themselves if their country were invaded, but that the Germans have the country pretty well cowed.

The Swiss press, they said, is practically censored, so far as derogatory remarks about Germany are concerned.

Feel France Went to Sleep.

The impression of the Americans reaching here is that France went to sleep on the job. They admitted the Germans have a powerful war machine, but said the reich is very weak on the home front. They asserted that the outcome of the war depends entirely on the morale of the French and British troops.

U-BOAT SINKS SHIP CARRYING FLAG OF ARGENTINE REPUBLIC

BUENOS AIRES, May 29 (AP).—The 3,425 ton Argentine freighter Uruguay, first ship flying the flag of an American republic to be torpedoed since the outbreak of war, was sunk last night by a German submarine 140 miles off the coast of Spain, Foreign Minister José Marie Cantilo announced tonight. Cantilo declined to say what attitude his government would take.

The Uruguay was en route to Ireland with a cargo of cereals. The crew was ordered to abandon ship, Cantilo said, and a torpedo was then fired into the ship's hull.

It is understood 14 or 15 members of the crew are still afloat in a lifeboat. Thirteen were landed at La Coruna, Spain, by a fishing boat.

Ship Sunk; Another Fired.

VIGO, Spain, May 29 (AP).—German submarines today sank the French merchantman Marie José, 5,000 tons, and shelled and fired the British tanker, Telena, 7,400 tons, with the probable loss of 25 members of their crews of 87. Fishermen are towing the Telena to port. Others brought in 22 injured, 10 dead, and 40 uninjured.

40 N. U. SENIORS BECOME ENSIGNS IN NAVY RESERVE

3 Cadets Receive Tribune R. O. T. C. Medals.

Forty seniors in the Northwestern university naval reserve officers' training corps received commissions as reserve ensigns yesterday at a ceremony in Deering meadow on the university campus. The commissions were presented by Capt. E. A. Wollson, chief of staff of the 9th naval district, after an inspection of the battalion's 200 cadets.

Fourteen trophies also were awarded. Three of them were medals given on behalf of THE TRIBUNE by its editor and publisher, Col. Robert R. McCormick.

Receive Tribune Medals.

The recipients of the Tribune medals were Cadet Lieutenant James W. Liddell of Evanston, who won the Tribune gold medal for proficiency during the second semester, and Cadets Edward A. Sandor of Walsenburg, Colo., and Howard J. Nickel of Oak Park, who won the silver and bronze medals, respectively.

Liddell, as commander of the company winning the annual competition, also received the battalion colors and the Col. Philip Fox trophy. The navy department cup for scholastic standing went to Lieut. Fred H. Mamer, Benton Harbor, Mich.; the commandant's cup to Lieut. Robert N. Chatain Jr., 6810 Cregier avenue, and the bureau of navigation cup to Danforth D. Williams, 1425 Sherwood terrace.

Other Awards Made.

Other awards were:

Eugene P. Brown Jr. of Evanston, the rifle trophy; Robert E. Reisanz of Evanston, the manual of arms trophy; Lieut. Bernard T. Kelly, 4835 North Leavitt street, the Fleet Reserve association cup for leadership; Harold J. Christopher, Dwight, Ill., the American Legion medal; Leon Lenkoff, Louisville, Ky., the Lions' club medal, and Lieut. Robert E. Newmann, Evanston, the sextant sword.

Seven of the 40 seniors have been accepted as ensigns in the navy supply corps. They are Cadets Kelly and Nickel, Thomas L. Britton, Houston, Tex.; William F. Harvey, Lake Bluff; John L. O'Brien, 5868 North Kolmar avenue; Ross A. Porter, Wilmette, and Ollo Wallgren, Evanston.

SOVIET CHARGES KIDNAPING OF RED TROOPS BY LITHS

MOSCOW, May 29 (AP).—Premier Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov of Russia was reported today to have warned Lithuania that Moscow would take action unless the alleged kidnaping of soviet soldiers stationed on Lithuanian soil is stopped.

This announcement, made over the government radio, indicated Lithuanian authorities themselves were suspected of attempting to protect the accused abductors.

Russia gained the right to establish several garrisons in Lithuania and in return ceded Vilna and a surrounding area to the Kaunas régime last Oct. 10 thru a soviet-Lithuanian mutual assistance pact.

JAPANESE MOVE TO GUARD NAZIS IN DUTCH INDIES

TOKIO, Japan, May 29.—Masayuki Tani, vice foreign minister, has asked Gen. J. C. Pabst, the Netherlands minister, for information regarding German charges that the Netherlands East Indies government was maltreating German residents. Gen. Pabst undertook to obtain first hand information. It has not been announced that Japan is taking care of German interests in the Netherlands Indies and the motive for the foreign office action has not been explained. It at least indicated to observers that Japan intends to display an active interest in all international questions that might affect the Netherlands Indies.

GAMELIN KILLED HIMSELF, ITALIAN PAPER REPORTS

ROME, May 30 [Thursday] (AP).—Il Popolo d'Italia's correspondent in Berne, Switzerland, reported briefly today that the French generalissimo, Maurice Gustave Gamelin, is "understood to have killed himself following definite instructions of the French high command."

Gen. Andre Corap, who commanded the French ninth army which was overrun in the German break thru at Sedan, the correspondent said, had been executed.

Gamelin was removed from command and replaced by Gen. Maxime Weygand after the Sedan disaster to the French forces.

Swiss Officer Is Convicted for Copying Division Orders

BERN, Switzerland, May 29 (AP).—A Swiss military court sentenced E. M. Mutterer, an army captain, to six years' imprisonment today for having secretly copied orders and plans at divisional staff headquarters. A communique said: "It is not proved that Mutterer was guilty of espionage." It added, however, that copying of the documents violated the military secrets act.

French Submarine Near Brazil, Boat Crew Reports

BELEM, Brazil, May 29 (AP).—The crew of a small Brazilian boat was reported here today to have sighted a submarine, believed to be the French Pallas, off Oyapock on the Brazilian north coast near French Guiana. The 6,466 ton German freighter Koenigsberg sailed from here yesterday with $800,000 worth of rubber for Germany.

Warriors Tell Memories of Civil War.

Just a year ago today, as the survivors of the Grand Army of the Republic headed Chicago's Memorial day parade, there were some spectators who commented:

"This may be the last time we ever see these old warriors ride."

But they were wrong. The men who were hardy enough to go thru the fiercest war this country ever had known are hardy enough, they assert, to see a few more Memorial days. Twenty-one survive in the Chicago area and several of them will ride in today's parade.

Still Have Fighting Spirit.

Many have passed on since that day 75 years ago when the grand review was held in Washington, D. C. There were "21 miles of boys in blue, 50 abreast in the grand review." But those who remain still have the fighting spirit of '61-'65. Here are brief sketches of some of them and their memories:

Frank Munsell, a veteran of Vicksburg, Gettysburg, and the march thru Atlanta to the sea. Born in Wisconsin, he ran away at the age of 18 to join Company M, 2d Wisconsin cavalry. Munsell was a scout. Sherman he remembers as "kind, sensitive, and beloved by his men."

"Grant," he recalls, "was testy, stern, a great disciplinarian, and all soldier." Despite his age—almost 98—he retains his fire. An audience at a recent showing of "The Birth of a Nation" here was startled to hear a shout: "That's a lie!"

Blames Rebels for Fire.

It was Mr. Munsell taking issue with a sequence that represented Union soldiers firing cotton bales and warehouses in Atlanta. It was the confederates who set fire to Atlanta, he declared, to destroy supplies they couldn't take with them. The veteran lives at 3834 Washington boulevard.

Dennis Finley, at 94, tells with prideful vigor his experiences with Sherman at Atlanta, with Custer, and with Kit Carson in the Indian wars of the west that followed the civil war. He believes he is the only survivor of both the wars and wears a special war department medal along with his others.

Mr. Finley ran away at the age of 15 and joined Bridge's Independent battery, 1st Illinois artillery. His only wound was caused by a bursting shell at Kenesaw Mountain, Ga. He still carries the scar on his forehead. After that battle 2,700 dead were counted, 15 of them generals.

Hopes to Ride in Parade.

Mr. Finley lives at 4118 Monroe street and hopes to ride in the parade today. He has been a member of G. A. R., Thomas post, 48 years and remembers a parade in which 16,000 veterans marched here.

John Burke, at 7947 South Peoria street, remembers the day, when he was 15, that he joined the 108th Illinois Volunteer artillery. It was in Peoria. They were about to make a drummer boy of him, but Burke protested so vigorously that they made him a soldier.

He fought in nine major battles under Grant and numerous skirmishes. Vicksburg, he asserts, was "a nightmare. If we weren't in hell itself we certainly hit all its suburbs." There was insufficient clothing and often no food. When Burke was mustered out he was wearing a Confederate jacket and hat, with only blue trousers to indicate he was a union soldier.

In Every Parade Since First.

William Scott, who is 99 years old, has been in every Memorial day parade in Chicago since the first. He is a comrade at large in the Grand Army, having left the Kentucky plantation where he was born to join the 123d Illinois infantry when it marched in.

Scott, who lives with his wife, Violet, 79 years old, at 258 North California avenue, doesn't remember much about the war itself; his happiest memories are of those parades each May 30.

James Quigley, 91 years old, was another who enlisted at 15. He served as "powder monkey" on the federal gunboat Hibiscus off the Florida coast. Four hours on duty and four off he served, standing by his gun—a 24 pound howitzer—to watch for blockade runners.

Mr. Quigley, who lives at 7923 Harvard avenue, is a member of Thomas post of the G. A. R., which is the largest in the area. It has a membership of seven, surviving an original 1,275 men.

Under Fire at Pea Ridge.

Albert E. Gage recalled that he was the first member of his regiment to be under fire. It was near Pea Ridge, Ark., and Gage was out foraging for the men of his mess in the Jeff C. Davis division of the Army of the Frontier. He passed his comrade and went ahead, pulling up abreast of a union battery just as the enemy opened up on it.

"I went on a little way until I met members of the 1st Missouri battalion cavalry. They had just lost 17 men, shot out of their saddles. I then turned back and found my own regiment, which now also was under fire.

Mr. Gage, who soon will be 95 years old, is a member of Old Glory post of the G. A. R. He served with the army five years and left it a major. He resides at the La Salle hotel.

James Henry Lewis is another comrade at large of the G. A. R., and is 98 years old. About five feet tall, he stands straight as a ramrod because, he explains: "I have always lived a straight life." Altho he came thru the war without a scratch, Lewis was beaten by a robber and injured seriously eight years ago.

Captured Below Vicksburg.

His most unpleasant memory of the war is the guerilla fighting in Arkansas and Tennessee. "That was my bad time," he says. "They fought from the bushes and you never knew what was coming next. I was captured below Vicksburg but got away."

Lewis, who lives at 4409 Federal street, was with the 4th Illinois cavalry at Vicksburg. He asserts his great-grandfather was with Washington at Valley Forge and that his grandfather was with Andrew Jackson in the war of 1812.

Milton H. Myers, 98 years old, was 1st lieutenant of Company A, 110th Ohio Infantry, and now is a member of Thomas Post, G. A. R. At his home, 918 Crescent avenue, Park Ridge, he has started two ambitious projects: committing to memory the New Testament and learning to use a typewriter. This is because his eyesight is failing.

His most thrilling day of the war was May 4, 1864, when the 6th army corps was engaged in fierce fighting after crossing the Rapidan. He saw men shot down on all sides of him. After the battle he came upon bodies of many comrades and friends who had perished. A month later he was wounded at Cold Harbor, Va., when Grant was besieging Richmond.

At Surrender of Lee.

"The only time I ever gave three cheers," he recalls, "was at Appomattox Courthouse when Lee surrendered. I gave three times three cheers. It meant we were going home."

Ezra Peebles, 6707 South Halsted street, a comrade at large of the G. A. R., believes he is the sole survivor of Company B, 113th Illinois Infantry. He was with Grant's forces during the Vicksburg campaign and was engaged in a number of skirmishes in northern Louisiana and western Mississippi. Grant, Sherman, and Logan were familiar figures to him, but he insists he is one veteran who doesn't claim the distinction of having seen Lincoln.

Silas S. Nichols, 92 years old, is Lake county's last surviving Union veteran. His home is at 506 Poplar street, Waukegan. He enlisted at Sandusky, O., in 1864, giving his age as two years more than it was. For 18 months he served with Company I., 145th Ohio infantry.

In the last days of the war Mr. Nichols saw service in northern Virginia, fighting in the last battle of Bull Run. Afterward, he and a group of soldiers went to the White House and asked to see Lincoln.

"We heard a guard tell him: 'It's just some old soldiers,'" Mr. Nichols relates. "The President said: 'Never call them that.' Then he came and shook our hands."

Recites Gettysburg Address.

The veteran, who for 15 years has been commander of Waukegan post, No. 374, of the G. A. R., will recite the Gettysburg address at the memorial service in the courthouse square, as he has for 17 years.

The Rev. Charles O. Brown, 92, was 13 when he donned the blue and went to war as a bugle boy and orderly for his father, Maj. Oliver M. Brown, commanding the 2d battalion, 3d Ohio cavalry. At 16 he was the regiment's chief bugler, the youngest to hold that title in the entire army, he believes.

The Rev. Mr. Brown blew the notes that sent 3,000 men into battle at Lovejoy Station, near Atlanta, he says. He was beside Col. Horace N. Howland on the outskirts of Macon, Ga., when a messenger ran up shouting, "Don't charge; Lee has surrendered!"

For many years he was commander of Ulysses S. Grant post of the G. A. R. He lives at 831 Grove avenue, Oak Park.

Last Member of Post.

William Lockwood at 93 is commander and the only living member of Whipple post, No. 414. The things he remembers best about the war are his battles against Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, the confederate cavalry raider. "He was a red hot member," Lockwood comments. The veteran recalls that he was hungry many times and that when he was discharged his uniform was so ragged it was ready to fall off. Lockwood lives at 4457 Magnolia avenue and spends much time traveling.

Frank Alles, 1614 Wilmette avenue, Wilmette, barely missed death at the battle of Appomattox Courthouse, Va. A shell fragment tore thru his haversack and was stopped only by a metal mess cup. Alles also fought at Petersburg, and at Richmond and Strawberry Plains, Va., serving with the 39th Illinois Infantry. He once saw Lincoln near Richmond. "I thought he was a great man, but he didn't look it."

William Wright of 1554 Asbury avenue, Evanston, is 94. Thirteen members of his company lie buried at Shiloh, Tenn. They were killed all about Wright in the thick of the fighting. But he didn't get a scratch. Later he saw the evacuation of Corinth, Miss., and fought at Vicksburg. He is a member of Thomas Smith post.

Walks a Mile a Day.

James Crugom, at 89, walks a mile a day and plays regularly on the piano at his home, 7229 Rogers avenue. In 1861 he was a drummer boy with the 1st Wisconsin Infantry, but he spent most of his time carrying supplies to his father, the company surgeon. A shell burst over his head while he was carrying bandages at the battle of Perryville, Ky.

Henry Stanley, 91, of 10547 May street, was steersman on a Lake Erie steamer at 12. Idling on board one day he was approached and asked to enlist as a substitute for the district attorney of Erie county, N. Y. Stanley did so. The prosecutor was Grover Cleveland, later president. Stanley was wounded at Hatcher's Run, near Petersburg, Va., and was at Appomattox at the surrender. He was a block from Ford's theater the night Lincoln was shot and had shaken hands with the President at a reception shortly before.

Thomas Ambrose, 91, is state commander of the G. A. R., adjutant of the national organization, and grand marshal of this afternoon's parade. He succeeded on his third attempt to enlist in 1865, joining Company A, 52d Kentucky Mounted Infantry.

Fought Morgan's Raiders.

He had been under fire the year before, however, fighting unofficially with the Kentucky Home Guards against John Morgan's raiders. A shell ripped out a huge crater in front of him and its fragments whined about him. "I advanced after that with my knees knocking together," he says. Ambrose heads the college textbook department of the American Book company.

Thomas F. Dornblazer, who will be 99 next month, fought at Forts Henry and Donaldson, Nashville, Shiloh, Chickamauga, Chattanooga, and in many other battles. A member of Thomas post, he served with the famous 7th Pennsylvanic Cavalry, the saber regiment. After a close range rifle battle with a confederate officer, near Rome, Ga., Dornblazer determined to become a minister, which he did. He killed the southerner, then prayed for him as he died.

Dornblazer's regiment was one of those sent in pursuit of Jefferson Davis and the veteran was present at the capture. He now lives at 942 Belle Plaine avenue.

CAR CRASH KILLS FIVE IN INDIANA; WOMAN DYING

Bloomfield, Ind., May 29 (AP).—Five men were killed and a woman was injured seriously in an automobile collision tonight at the intersection of state roads 54 and 57, just west of here.

The dead were William Hermann, 35 years old, Mount Vernon jeweler and driver of one of the cars; Samuel G. Jones Jr., 21, of Mount Vernon; Louis J. Mann, 21, Posey county farmer; Thomas Mann, a brother of Louis; and Walter F. Carroll, 33, Bloomfield insurance man, driver of the other car.

A woman, identified as Alice Hermann, wife of the Mount Vernon jeweler, was brought to Linton hospital, where physicians expressed belief she would not recover.

Italo-American National Union Installs Officers

The Italo-American National union, a fraternal organization with 7,000 members in Chicago, last evening installed new officers for four year terms at a meeting in the Hotel Sherman. They are Lawrence N. Marino, Chicago attorney, president; D. Frank Coccia, supreme secretary; Vincent E. Ferrara, supreme treasurer; Dr. Sebastian Ingrao, medical director; Thomas H. Landise, general counsel; Frank Balzano, first supreme vice president, and Leo Bonaventura, second supreme vice president.

WIFE STABBED TO DEATH.

Mrs. Emma Le Mar, 18 years old, colored, of 872 Sedgwick street, died in the Henrotin hospital last night of injuries suffered when she was stabbed by her husband, Joseph, in her mother's home at 832 Sedgwick street.

50,000 MARCH IN TRIBUTE TO HEROES TODAY

72d Memorial Parade to Begin at 2 P. M.

In a tribute of martial movement and music to the city's heroic war dead, 50,000 Chicagoans will march today in the 72d Memorial day parade. Flanking Michigan avenue to add their own tribute will be a crowd expected to number 200,000.

The forecast is for clear and cool weather, but rain or shine, the parade will begin at 2 p. m. And rain or shine, leading the column, will be 11 veterans of the Grand Army, or Navy, of the Republic. Headed by Capt. Thomas H. Ambrose, grand marshal of the parade, the veterans will ride in open automobiles.

Youngest Veteran Is 90.

A decade ago more than 300 of the G. A. R. men marched on Memorial day. Last year 15 took part. The youngest of the dwindling group today will be 90. But their memories are as fresh as ever of the day in 1868 when Gen. John A. Logan, then commander in chief of the G. A. R., issued his famous General Order No. 11 establishing Decoration day, now known as Memorial day.

The paraders will assemble at Chicago and Michigan avenues. They will march south in Michigan avenue to Roosevelt road, passing, at 9th street, the statue of Gen. Logan. The parade will move west in Roosevelt road to Wabash avenue, where the marchers will disband. The parade is expected to last between three and four hours.

The reviewing stand will be set up on the plaza at Congress street and Michigan avenue. Among the reviewing officers will be Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the 6th corps area, and officials of veterans' groups. Mayor Kelly and United States Senators Scott Lucas and James M. Slattery will be present. Disabled veterans from Hines and North Chicago hospitals will be in the south half of the stand.

Other Veterans to March.

In the vanguard of the parade with the G. A. R. veterans will be the reviewing officers and members of Grand Army auxiliaries. Also in the first division will be veterans of the Indian wars. In the second division will march the Spanish War veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

World war veterans, including a huge turnout from American Legion posts, will parade in the third division. One picturesque unit of the many in the parade will be a color detail depicting soldiers of all the wars in American history, with authentic uniforms, equipment, and flags.

Services will be conducted in 120 cemeteries of Chicago this morning by military and patriotic organizations. The only naval Memorial day services will be held at 11 a. m. on the deck of the U. S. S. Wilmette at the foot of Randolph street by Naval post, No. 372, of the American Legion and the Fleet Reserve association.

Service at Water Tower.

The Harold A. Taylor post of the Legion will hold its services at the old water tower at Michigan and Chicago avenues before the parade.

Schools will be dismissed for the day and public offices and banks will be closed. Thousands of Chicagoans left the city last night for four day vacation trips. Railroads added extra trains. The highways were crowded.

There were many Memorial services and programs conducted yesterday. Gen. John V. Clinnin, speaking before employés of the Western Electric company, dwelt not only on the glories of the past but the problems of the present.

"With Europe plunged into another great war," said Gen. Clinnin, "and its backwash reaching our shores by way of sympathy upon the part of some of our people for one or the other of the belligerents, propaganda from the combatant countries, and subversive elements within our own country who seek to destroy our unity and constitutional government, there is great danger of our being drawn into the war.

"This must be prevented at all costs; that is, without loss of honor or national prestige among nations. It will require the united action of every citizen in the United States to prevent this catastrophe. No fifth column must be permitted to operate in these United States."

Boy Scouts of the Chicago council, following a Memorial day practice, will visit cemeteries today to decorate the graves of soldiers with red poppies.

VETOES BILL TO SAVE PAIR FROM BEING SENT BACK TO GERMANY

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—President Roosevelt today vetoed a bill to cancel deportation proceedings against Baron Karl Freiherr von Mauchenheim and his wife, who had convinced the labor department that they would face grave danger of death or imprisonment if sent back to Germany.

The baron and his wife live in Detroit, having entered this country in 1936 shortly after their marriage. At the time of their entry they represented themselves as political fugitives from Germany.

President Roosevelt said in his veto message that a state department investigation showed the pair made false statements regarding their activities in Germany before leaving there in 1935. He said their acts in Germany resulted in criminal proceedings against them for fraud and civil claims.

Senator Prentiss M. Brown's office said the bill was introduced at the request of Frank Murphy, former governor of Michigan and now an associate justice of the Supreme court.

BAR FOREIGNERS FROM RUMANIAN OIL FIELD AREAS

Decree Follows Discovery of Secret Machine Guns.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 29.—In a new effort to smother hidden enemies within the country, Rumania today barred the oil field areas to all foreigners and canceled existing permits for foreigners to go there. The army also mobilized all oil field engineers to help organize the protection of oil fields and refineries.

Noboby, either Rumanian or foreigner, except guards, may possess firearms in the oil field regions.

Behind the decrees was the alleged discovery of two truck loads of machine guns last week in a German controled plant in Ploesti. Rumanian authorities still deny the guns were found, but other sources contradict them. This quantity of arms was not important, but if that many were found in one spot there might be more elsewhere.

Restricted to Natives.

Under the order, British, French and other foreign companies must discharge their own guards and hire Rumanian citizens.

All automobiles and trains passing thru petroleum zones are being searched, and foreigners found in refining, shipping and production centers vital to the oil industry are to be sent to concentration camps.

The French and British, who own 70 per cent of Rumania's production, are reported to have made plans for destruction of their wells and refineries in event of a German invasion.

The oil ports at Giurgiu on the Danube and Constanta on the Black sea also were declared forbidden areas. Travelers may pass thru them but may not go within 150 feet of any pipe line, tank or other oil installations.

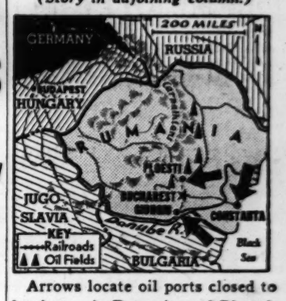
Engineers Under Military.

Rumanian engineers working in the oil fields were placed under orders of local military commandants "who serve in the interests of protection in the oil zone."

With the example of other countries fresh in their minds and remembering they have an organized German minority forming one-twentieth of the entire population, Rumanians are taking all the precautions they can against fifth column activities.

Oil Fields Guarded

(Story in adjoining column.)



Arrows locate oil ports closed to foreigners in Rumania, and Ploesti, where machine guns are reported found in German owned oil plant.

NAZIS CAPTURE 4 AMERICANS IN AMBULANCE UNIT

Ex-Chicagoan Is Among Those Seized.

New York, May 29 (AP).—The American Volunteer Ambulance corps said today that a German radio announcement picked up in Paris reported that four American drivers and their ambulances had been captured by Nazi forces.

James Wood Johnson, president of the AVAC in New York, tentatively listed the captured men as Albert Raymond, formerly of Chicago, but now a resident of Paris; Lieut. Louis Wehrle, Berne, Ind.; Murray Shipley, Cincinnati, O., and Jan Glowacki, Jersey City, N. J. They had been listed previously as missing—killed or captured.

Nazis Using Equipment.

Johnson said Col. J. V. Sparks, head of the AVAC in Paris, cabled this message: "German radio announced four drivers our group loaned to Miss Anne Morgan taken prisoners together with their ambulances. Trying to confirm."

Johnson said the men were in a group of 10 ambulance crews of the Benjamin Franklin section working in the Ardennes district. An unofficial announcement in Berlin last night said Nazi troops had captured numerous American ambulances and equipment and were using them for their wounded.

17 More Arrive in Paris.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 29.—Seventeen American youths, most of them college boys, arrived in Paris today to serve as drivers with the American Volunteer Ambulance corps attached to the French army. The drivers will participate in the Memorial day ceremonies tomorrow and then will go immediately to the front.

The American embassy is investigating reports that four American drivers have been captured and imprisoned by the Germans.

CITY RED CROSS COLLECTS $300,000 FOR WAR RELIEF

The Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross yesterday passed the $300,000 mark in its war relief fund campaign to raise a million dollars. Chicago's quota, according to James B. Forgan, chairman, is one-tenth of that in the national campaign.

The largest gift of the day was $12,500 from United States Steel corporation subsidiaries. Other substantial donations included $1,068 from employés of the Burlington railroad, $1,000 from Mayer, Meyer, Austrian and Platt, $700 from the Local Loan company, $500 from Reid, Murdoch & Co., and $500 from the Maybelline company.

The American Friends of France, headed by Miss Anne Morgan, sister of J. P. Morgan, has been given a million francs by the American Red Cross to help it continue its war relief work in France, Mrs. Blanche Mason Tellis, chairman of the Friends' Winnetka unit, reported yesterday. Word of the donation was received in a cablegram from Miss Morgan's Paris headquarters, Mrs. Tellis said.

Short Marriage

PRISCILLA LANE.

Hollywood, Cal., May 29 (AP).—The mother of Priscilla Lane disclosed today that her screen actress daughter, youngest of the Lane sisters, married Orin W. Haglund, assistant film director, at Yuma, Ariz., Jan. 23, 1939, left him the following day and obtained a divorce last May 3.

"They're young and they made a mistake," Mrs. Cora B. Mullican, the mother, said thru a studio representative. "They kept the marriage secret and had hoped to keep the divorce secret, too."

PROPOSES A LAW TO REGISTER ALL FIREARMS IN U. S.

Jackson Seeks to Curb Subversive Groups.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Attorney General Robert H. Jackson today asked congress to enact legislation requiring the registration of all firearms as a national defense measure.

While Jackson cited the use of firearms by criminals in his letter to Speaker of the House William B. Bankhead, he did not mention specifically the military nature of un-American groups, such as the German-American bund, or the arsenal found in the hideout of the Christian front in New York. He said, however, that such legislation would hamper accumulation of weapons by subversive organizations.

Would Cover All Firearms.

The law which Jackson suggested would cover all firearms in the hands of private citizens as well as those to be acquired in the future. It was pointed out that the national firearms act of 1934, requiring registration and imposing a tax on title transfers, applied only to certain types of weapons, including machine guns, submachine guns, sawed-off shotguns, sawed-off rifles, and silencers.

In recommending the legislation, Jackson said:

Denies Limit on Freedom.

"It is to be particularly noted that the legislation, the enactment of which I recommend, would in nowise improperly limit the freedom of action of peaceful, law abiding persons. The contemplated legislation would not hamper or hinder any person from purchasing or possessing a firearm. It would merely require him to register the firearm and to record any transfer of the weapon."

BLAME FOR AIR DEFICIENCY PUT ON GOVERNMENTS

U. S. Warned to Let Plane Makers Handle Job.

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—The plight of the British and French air forces, described recently by Prime Minister Winston Churchill as inferior to Germany's, was ascribed today by John H. Jouett, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, to part on full government ownership of their aircraft plants. He spoke before the National Aviation forum.

Stating the case for the American aircraft industry against any such move, Jouett said, "right now you hear talk of airplanes being produced in incredible quantities in a miraculously short time—of airplanes which blacken the sky, hurtling forth to defend the country.

Assails Federal Control.

"The cold hard fact, however, is that all you will see of American planes in those skies is just what our present, regularly organized, long established and experienced industry can produce—and no more. Any system other than orderly expansion directed by our air industry leaders will fail—and fail miserably."

Production of airplanes, said Jouett, discussing the possibility of establishing government built plants, cannot be obtained in time to be of value in this defense program merely by dumping public funds into brick and mortar in new localities regardless of the inevitably extravagant cost or the attractive political factors which government plants would involve.

With complete nationalization of French aircraft plants, Jouett said, in August, last year, "knowing that they were on the brink of an abyss, the French produced fewer than 100 planes." England's system he termed seminationalization, which resulted in delay and obsolescence. The plants of Germany and Italy, he said, were not nationalized in the sense that those of the allies were.

Says Airships Are Valuable.

On the same program Commander Charles E. Rosendahl of the navy said airships are decidedly valuable to defense, or offense, at sea because of their long range.

Ernest R. Breech, vice president of the General Motors corporation, told the forum that the democracies of the world, until the last year, have for the most part done little to encourage private flying, and have neglected to expand their flying military personnel.

Roosevelt's Son-in-Law Fractures Arm on Yacht

Seattle, Wash., May 29 (AP).—John Boettiger, publisher of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, fractured his left arm yesterday when on a yacht trip with Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission. Dr. H. T. Buckner, bone specialist, said Boettiger, President Roosevelt's son-in-law, was toastmaster at a dinner last evening after the bone was set. Later he entered a hospital. The fracture occurred when Boettiger tried to keep a skiff from damaging the yacht.

RECOVER BODY FROM LAKE.

Hudson avenue police yesterday recovered the body of Kenneth Laubner, 17 years old, 2237 Dayton street, drowned May 10 when his canoe capsized off Belden avenue. The body was found near a pier at North avenue and the lake.

$300 MINIMUM FARE WILL KEEP OVER 1,000 AMERICANS IN BRITAIN

LONDON, May 29 [Special].—United States embassy officials said tonight that after the liner President Roosevelt sailed Saturday there still would be more than 1,000 Americans seeking to go home who could not because they were unable to pay the minimum fares being charged.

It was generally assumed here that at least one other American ship would be sent over, but it was said that unless fares were reduced officials would be unable to get all Americans out of the British Isles.

Because of high insurance rates and the war-time bonuses being paid to the crew, the minimum fare for passage on the President Roosevelt is $300. This is three times the peacetime rate and twice what is being charged by British shipping companies. Since Americans under the neutrality act, are not allowed to sail on belligerents' ships, efforts are being made to revise fares and evacuate all Americans possible.

Altogether 755 passengers, or twice the normal capacity of the ship, will sail on the President Roosevelt from Galway, Ireland, Saturday.

MOUNTIES START CANADA ROUNDUP OF FASCIST AIDS

National Unity Party Leader Hunted

MONTREAL, May 30, Thursday (AP).—The Royal Canadian Mounted police, acting under defense regulations, moved early today to serve warrants for the arrest of Adrien Arcand, head of the National Unity party, and seven of his associates.

At an early hour, three members of the Fascist organization had been taken into custody. Arcand was reported in the Laurentian mountains.

Two Seized in Toronto.

At Toronto yesterday, Joseph Farr, party organizer, and John M. Lorimer, described by police as a member of the party, were arrested under defense regulations.

Those under arrest so far were listed as Maurice Scott, said to be the leader of the uniformed iron guard of the Canadian Fascists; G. R. Barck, organizer of the movement in Ville St. Laurent, and Marius Gatien. They were to be arraigned later in the day.

Defense Opposition Charged.

The eight were charged under sections of the defense of Canada act prohibiting the spreading of reports or making of statements "destined to, or likely to, cause dissatisfaction to his majesty the king or to interfere in any way with the success of his majesty's forces or to prejudice their security or training, safety of the state or prosecution of the war."

Specific accusations against the eight included the printing and publishing of such statements.

Issuance of the warrants followed raids last week on more than 20 homes and offices of alleged party leaders and members and seizure of tons of evidence.

Report Dutch Slew 7,000 of 10,000 Chute Troops

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—The British Broadcasting company reported today that of 10,000 German parachutists landed behind the lines in the Netherlands, 7,000 had been killed.

AMERICANS HIT AS BRITISH WIDEN ALIENS CURFEW

Order Curbs Foreigners Thruout Country.

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—The curfew for all aliens, including Americans, has been extended to cover the whole country, it was announced tonight. Heretofore it has affected only 29 maritime counties stretching from the Isle of Wight to northeast Scotland.

Under an order from the minister of home security, Sir John Anderson, effective on June 3, no alien more than 16 years old will be permitted to leave home between 10:30 p. m. and 6 a. m. without a police permit. In the London area the curfew will be operative from midnight to 6 a. m.

Anderson also barred aliens from owning or using a bicycle, an automobile, a seagoing craft, or an airplane without police authorization.

Hosts Must Report Guests.

If an alien wants to leave his residence for the night he must apply for police permission and state the object of his journey. Persons in whose houses or apartments an alien is lodged overnight must report his arrival and departure to the police. An alien seeking extension of the curfew must apply in writing to the police and inclose a letter from his employer.

It is estimated that more than 2,000 Americans will be affected by the order.

The fifth columnist scare that has gripped this country since Adolf Hitler's invasion of Scandinavia and the Low Countries resulted today in new measures to safeguard parliament from enemy agents. All members of parliament and persons having business with the house will be given special passes and none will be admitted without a pass. The subway leading from Westminster station toward the parliament buildings will be closed to the public and, after commons closes a session, will be kept open only half an hour for the use of members and officials.

Aliens' Record Clear.

Despite the tightening of restrictions on aliens, the home office undersecretary, Osbert Peake, told a questioner in commons that he could not recall that any alien had been proved guilty in the courts of action hostile to Britain since the war broke out.

The foreign office spokesman, R. A. Butler, disclosed that Britain was considering an appeal to the United States to accept as many war refugees as possible.

ELECTION BOARD WARNED ITS PLAN WILL VOID VOTES

Notice was served on the board of election commissioners yesterday that its plan for the conduct of next Monday's judicial election will, if followed, render the election illegal.

Edgar B. Elder, Republican nominee for the Graber vacancy on the Municipal bench, was the author of the protest filed with the board. Elder, who will be opposed by George L. Quilici, Democrat, told the commissioners that its decision to open only 648 of the city's 3,648 polling places on Monday would void the election.

Altho six Superior and one Circuit judge also will be elected on Monday, the Elder-Quilici race is the only contest on the ballot, because of a Republican-Democratic coalition for the other posts.

GERMANS ERECT FIELD HOSPITALS ON SWISS BORDER

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, May 29.—Information trickling across the German border says the entire district from Basel to Lake Constance is being converted into many field hospitals. River sentries report sounds of distress can be heard as new casualties are brought up.

It also is reported that the heavy German troop concentrations opposite Switzerland are being reduced and that the troops and materials are being moved to the western front.

Tighten Guard Against Traitors.

New orders from Berne require that all Swiss and foreigners in Switzerland carry identification credentials, including photographs. Any traitors discovered will be shot, officials warn, as the sounds of war echo thru this tiny nation.

After a day's lull the artillery duel between the French and German artillery down on the fortified lines along the Rhine opened up again this morning. The French target continued to be the railroad leading down the river from Basel. It was reported six civilians were killed and four wounded.

Church Observation Tower Hit.

The church tower on a hill in Tullingerhuger, used as a German observation post, was brought down. A German battery near Tullingerhuger opened fire on a target between Blotzheim and Sierentz and German shells were observed exploding in Alsace, not far from the Swiss border. The French batteries have been firing about four times as much as the Germans, but rain this afternoon quieted down both sides.

NAVAL AVIATION EXPANSION BILL WINS APPROVAL

Senate Committee Warns Allies May Lose.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Reporting a bill authorizing a 2¼ billion dollar naval aviation expansion program, the senate naval affairs committee today said the country must face the possibility "that the allies may be defeated and that we may have to defend ourselves in both oceans at the same time."

Admiral Yarnell.

The report of the naval affairs committee warned, however, against hysteria and repeated its assertion in a previous report that "the United States at the present time is not vulnerable to direct attack by any means whatever save those with which a thoroly modern navy and air force can deal adequately."

Statements Are Recalled.

The report cited the recent statement by Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, retired, that "the Atlantic ocean still remains a large body of water and the probability of plane attack from overseas on this country will remain remote for some time to come." Also it cited the admonition by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh that "the air defense of America is as simple as the attack is difficult when the true facts are faced."

One reason why the allied powers are in a precarious position today, the senate committee report said, is their failure to keep abreast of new methods of waging war.

New Explosive Offered.

"The committee has received many suggestions regarding new devices for our national defense," said the report. "For example, a reputable scientist has informed the committee that he has discovered an explosive approximately a hundred times more powerful than TNT. [This explosive is not the Barlow oxygen-carbon bomb.]

"The committee suggests that all new developments and new methods be given careful and serious consideration, especially in view of the fact that German success to date appears to be due, in some measure at least, to new developments in warfare.

"The committee is of the opinion that the American people are as competent as the citizens of any foreign country in scientific research and scientific methods and believes that we can develop new weapons and new methods for our defense."

10,000 Planes Proposed.

The bill reported by the naval affairs committee, passed by the house yesterday, increases the statutory limit on naval airplanes from 3,000 to 10,000; authorizes the establishment of training facilities for 16,000 naval aviators, and authorizes the completion or establishment of 20 naval air bases in the United States and its outlying possessions. The ultimate cost of such a program is estimated at 2¼ billion dollars.

Just recently, the Senate report states, the navy made a survey as to the number of naval planes that would be required in the event of war. It was found that 10,000 planes, including training planes, and 16,000 pilots would be required initially.

At present the navy and marine corps have a total of 2,958 pilots, including reserves, the report states. A total of 1,176 are undergoing training. Under the new program it is estimated that the navy will have a total of 3,850 pilots by June 30, 1941; 6,800 by June 30, 1942; 13,100 by June 30, 1943, and 18,500 by June 30, 1944.

FRENCH DEAL OUT DEATH SENTENCE TO PAIR OF SPIES

Baroness Condemned in Absentia.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 29.—A sensational espionage case involving mystery, treachery, and bribery reached its climax before the third military court today when Jean Gaston Amourelle, one time stenographer in the French senate, was sentenced to death for "attempted intelligence with the enemy."

Baroness Reisa von Einem described as an elegant and intriguing high society woman who fled to Germany when the police got on her trail, was condemned to death in absentia by the same court.

According to the evidence presented, the baroness was an attractive German agent who moved in Parisian high society and was provided with plenty of cash. With this money she is said to have persuaded the other defendants to deliver up secret documents dealing with the French national defense.

Served as Go-Between.

Leon Hirsch, an Austrian who served as a go-between, was sentenced to 10 years in prison plus a fine of 20,000 francs [about $360]. Arnold Perroux, alias Aubin, one time news editor of Le Temps, Paris newspaper, must serve five years in prison and pay 20,000 francs as a fine. He will also be deprived of his civil rights for 20 years. The accusation against him was coöperating with the agent of a foreign power.

Jullen Poirier, another defendant and a business manager of Le Figaro, another Paris newspaper, died in prison before the case came up for trial.

When all the defendants except the baroness were arrested last July, the event cause a nation-wide sensation, especially in view of the prominence of Aubin and Poirier, who both were officers in the Legion of Honor.

Gave Away Senate Documents.

Amourelle was caught upon his return from Germany. Testimony presented today indicated that he had tried to secure German propaganda funds for the purpose of publishing a revolutionary anti-French organ. He also was to have given the baroness important senate documents.

Since there are two decree laws dealing with Amourelle's offense he was tried according to the terms of both. In consequence two sentences were imposed—the death penalty and perpetual detention in a fortified prison, with the former taking precedence.

Royal Air Force Lists 14 Killed, 114 Missing

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—A royal air force casualty list compiled in the last seven days, but covering an unspecified period, today named 114 flyers as missing and 14 killed in action. These figures were given: In action — 14 killed, 32 wounded, 114 missing, bring the totals to date of 298, 101, and 566, respectively. On active service—11 killed, 2 wounded, 7 died, raising totals to 498, 94, and 246, respectively.

AIR RESERVISTS SEEK TO SERVE ON ACTIVE DUTY

Mail received at the office of Lieut. Col. Joseph H. Davidson, air officer of the 6th corps area, in the last two days indicates that a large number of air reserve officers are interested in the army's inquiry into their willingness to take one year's active duty with a regular tactical unit of the air corps. A survey of the air corps' reserve officers in this area, which comprises Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan, is being made to see how many would take such service.

Letters asking those who might be interested in this chance to take part in the defense expansion program were sent out on Monday evening by Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the area. The survey is not yet completed, army officials said last evening, and no specific information concerning the response may be given out here. Nevertheless, it was reported, the offers in response to the call have been considered remarkably large.

It is understood that a number of commercial air line pilots who are earning large salaries as captains of the country's finest transports have been among those who have volunteered.

CHICAGO'S BUND QUIETLY HEARS REPORT ON WAR

G-Men and Police Sit In on Anti-British Session.

BY BRUCE DENNIS.

The Chicago division of the German-American bund met in a hall at 3855 North Western avenue last night to hear the report of their chairman, Dr. Otto Willumeit, on the war in Europe.

Present were 125 persons, a majority of them women, with a scattering of boys and girls of high school age. In the crowd, seeking for evidences of possible fifth column activity, were agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; representatives of the United States attorney's office, the detective bureau, and the North Damen avenue police district, and Sergts. Dan Moriarity and George Michaels of the state's attorney's staff.

Speaker Assails British.

At the left of the stage, as the audience faced it, was a large American flag. There wasn't a swastika in the place, except for the one that showed on Hitler's left arm in the photograph.

The listeners sat in a tense silence as Willumeit spoke. There were housewives and grandmothers and workingmen. Occasionally the ring of a cash register in the adjoining tavern could be heard over the precise German of Willumeit's address.

Blames British for War.

Willumeit asserted the war was being waged by British gentlemen, regardless of cost, against the German system of social legislation and against everything that makes the working man an equal partner in the economic community.

"Col. Josiah Wedgwood let the cat out of the bag," said Willumeit, "when he suggested that to gratify the Germans' desire for colonies German prisoners could be sent to St. Helena or to the fever jungles of British Guiana. That shows the British soul in its true light."

"Phooey!" a Listener Says.

"Phooey!" injected a man in a rear row. It was the only sound from the otherwise impassive, but seemingly impressed, audience.

Denouncing Premier Churchill, Willumeit sought to justify German advances in the terms of the history of the British empire. "The destruction of Germany is needed to enable British plutocracy to enjoy the fruits of the robberies that built up their empire," he said.

When the speech ended there was brief applause and plates were passed for donations.

RUSH NEW TAXES AMID WARNINGS: MORE WILL COME

Call Defense Levy Bill Only a Stopgap.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—The Roosevelt administration's $656,000,000 tax bill began a speedy passage thru the senate and house today with the only criticism coming from legislators who said the measure is only a stop gap which must be succeeded by wholesale taxes to pay for the billions being spent by the government.

Representative Doughton.

Representative Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee which initiates all tax legislation, supplied the details of the national defense revenue bill which he will drop into the hopper tomorrow. From a political point of view the measure is a clever one, observers agreed, because it affects none except present taxpayers, and is therefore calculated to reduce election repercussions to a minimum.

Foresee Widespread Revision.

Senator William H. King [D., Utah] and other members of the senate finance committee said, however, that there must be a widespread revision of the present tax structure if the financial structure of the government is to be kept intact.

The estimated revenue from the new bill, they declared, will be only a drop in the bucket. Additional billions in revenue must be raised by bringing hundreds of thousands of citizens into the tax paying class, they argued.

However, few legislators thought that congress would take any action this year.

Bill's Provisions Set Forth.

Ten per cent horizontal levy on all 1940 income taxes	$226,000,000
Increase of 75 cents a gallon in tax on distilled spirits	91,000,000
Increas of $1 a barrel in tax on beer	46,000,000
Increase of ½ cent a gallon in federal tax on gasoline	112,000,000
Increase of 50 cents a thousand in tax on cigarettes	77,000,000
Twenty per cent increase in stock transfer tax	3,000,000
Increase in theater admissions tax by lowering exemption to 30 cents	25,000,000
Ten per cent increase on all other excise taxes	76,000,000
Total	$656,000,000

The raise in income taxes means that an individual who paid a $100 tax this year will pay $110 next year; a $50 tax this year will be increased to $55 next year, etc. All exemptions and other provisions in the law remain the same. No individual who was exempted from income taxes this year will be affected by the new tax bill.

Affects Neighborhood Movies.

The increase in theater admission taxes will affect most neighborhood movie houses who have been avoiding the present tax on all admissions in excess of 40 cents by charging 35 cent admissions and less. A 30 cent admission, under the new law, would be taxed 3 cents.

To the consumer the new taxes will mean that liquor will be about 19 cents a quart higher and cigarets an additional cent a package. Five gallons of gasoline will cost 3 cents more. Bars may get around the added $1 tax on a barrel of beer by serving smaller glasses.

Doughton said the committee will hear Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. on Friday. Further open hearings may be held if there is a public demand, he added, but they will be brief.

U. S. LACKS AIRPORTS TO STORE AND FLY 50,000 WAR PLANES

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—A senate subcommittee heard today that there were not enough airports and landing fields in this country to train the pilots or accommodate the 50,000 airplanes requested by President Roosevelt in his defense message to congress.

The witnesses, representatives of aviation interests, urged congressional approval of a bill by Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] authorizing an annual federal expenditure of 125 million dollars to speed construction of airports thruout the United States.

Al Near of Louisville, Ky., president of the American Association of Airport executives, testified that present airport facilities already are past the saturation point.

French Brothers Die in Air Within Period of 12 Days

PARIS, May 29 (AP).—Two aviator sons of former Air Minister Gen. Victor Leon Ernest Denain have been killed in action within 12 days of each other, it was reported today. Jacques Denain was killed in a dog fight May 13. His brother, Jean, was shot down May 25 while returning from a reconnaissance flight.

HOLD NEW DEAL TO ACCOUNT FOR WEAK DEFENSES

Urge Board Be Given Free Hand to Repair Damage.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—President Roosevelt today took steps to boost his 1¼ billion dollar emergency defense program to 2 billion dollars or more as signs multiplied that the record of the Democratic régime on preparedness for war will be a major issue in the presidential election.

The President's appointment of a seven member advisory commission—including E. R. Stettinius, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, and W. S. Knudsen, president of General Motors corporation—to coördinate armament production elicited from many Republican leaders the criticism that the industrial experts, under the plan, are not vested with the power to mobilize the vast mass production of aircraft and arms required by the program.

Hold New Deal to Blame.

There are abundant indications that the Republicans, in their Philadelphia platform, will hold the party in power responsible for the country's lack of preparedness and will appeal to the people to elect a Republican President and congress in order to speed the defense program. Inefficiency will be one of the principal counts in the Republican indictment of the Roosevelt administration.

A typical Republican viewpoint is that expressed by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, one of the leading candidates for the Republican nomination for President. It was Vandenberg who first proposed Knudsen as an expert on mass production who ought to be placed in complete charge of the effort to commandeer our industrial resources for the gigantic undertaking of producing war equipment in a few months that ordinarily would take years.

Demands Power to Function.

Speaking of the President's advisory commission and its personnel, Senator Vandenberg said:

"The utility of these appointments is entirely dependent upon the scope of their authority. If they are merely advisers without power to act, their appointment totally fails to meet the necessities.

"For example, Mr. Stettinius is one of the group. He had an advisory appointment of much the same nature last August as chairman of the President's war resources committee. He made a report which has been hermetically pigeonholed ever since. Even he is bound to secrecy in connection with it. Unless the new assignment is totally different in character, it is calculated to be no more useful than the last one.

Wants Brakes Released.

"The need is for civilian procurement administrators with capacity to do the job and a chance to function free of bureaucratic or political interference. I have repeatedly suggested Mr. Knudsen for this responsibility. The President has been very wise to recognize his unique genius as a mass production expert. But Mr. Knudsen cannot function for the government any more than he could run General Motors if he is confined to making speeches and writing impotent reports.

"This situation calls for action and then more action. It calls for the same technique that Mr. Knudsen and Mr. Stettinius use in their own great business enterprises. I hope they are to be given power commensurate with their abilities upon one hand and with the critical necessities of the country upon the other."

Asks Million for Expenses.

Mr. Roosevelt fixed noon tomorrow for the first meeting of the advisory commission. The members will meet with him at the White House for organization. White House secretary Stephen T. Early said that Henry Ford's claim that his company could produce 1,000 airplanes a day will be referred to Mr. Knudsen.

President Roosevelt asked congress to appropriate $1,000,000 immediately for the council of national defense, for "experimental work, investigations and coördinations." The appropriation could be used by the council, by the advisory commission whose members the President named yesterday, or by subordinate bodies.

It was requested that the money be made available so as to permit employment of experts and special advisers.

The President also asked $1,200,000, likewise to be made available immediately, for constructing and equipping a power generating plant at Langley field for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

Land for Bombing Range.

In a third request, the President asked $76,750 for the War department to acquire title to all privately owned land in the Choctawatchee National park in Florida for use as a bombing range. A total of 24,111 acres is involved.

Altho hotly denying Republican charges that the administration is floundering confusedly in a welter of preparedness plans, the White House announced that the President will ask congress for an additional 750 millions for army equipment that was not contemplated when Mr. Roosevelt submitted his 1¼ billion dollar army and navy program to congress two weeks ago. It was explained that the success of the highly mechanized German army in crashing thru Belgium had impressed the administration with the necessity of providing our army with similar equipment.

Spokesmen would not disclose details, but indicated that more planes, tanks, and antiaircraft guns are the principal features of the additional program.

The army at present has only 2,600 airplanes compared with Germany's 18,000. Of our army planes, 500 are bombers, 430 combat planes, 170 observation planes, and 130 reconnaissance planes. The reminder of the army airfleet consists of reserves and training planes.

Under the President's original program the immediate goal of the army was to be 10,000 planes. The supplementary request contemplates raising this objective to 13,000.

Of modern tanks the army has only 28. In addition there are 350 serviceable tanks of outmoded design. Under the President's proposal a fortnight ago, the army would get 800 up to date tanks. The supplementary estimate is for a larger number of tanks, including heavy types such as the German 80 tonners that crashed thru Belgium.

The supplementary program also provides for a larger number of anti-aircraft guns.

Battle Over Dog

Mrs. Jean Erel and Toke, which she was awarded after court battle.

Snowball II., an English bulldog, which has been the center of a legal battle for a year, was awarded yesterday to Mrs. Jean Erel, 30 years old, 3518 Adams street, in Probate court. She had petitioned Acting Probate Judge Harry McEwen for the dog as administratrix of the estate of her husband, Stuart Robert Erel Jr., who died June 7, 1939.

Attorney Clarence P. Smith, representing Erel's father, posted an appeal bond of $250 and said he would carry the matter to the Supreme court if necessary. The elder Erel, who operates a roadside restaurant in Batavia, asserted the dog belonged to his wife and became his property on her death. Mrs. Jean Erel said the dog, valued at $1,500, belonged to her husband and became hers as an asset of the estate.

Attorney Smith said court actions involving the dog had cost his client more than $1,000. Attorney Jacob Stagman, representing Mrs. Erel, said she had spent $500 in litigation.

FRENCH GENERAL WHO FLED POST GETS 6 MONTHS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 29.—Today's events in the French domestic war upon the fifth column follow:

Gen. Henri Bodet of the French medical corps was condemned to six months in prison by the Paris military tribunal for abandonment of his post [12 words censored] in the Sedan sector during the night of May 15. This was at the time the Germans broke thru the Meuse front on a drive that carried them to the coast.

At Nantes, Lucien Geoffroy, a French soldier, was sentenced to 10 years in prison on a charge of making "defeatist remarks." He also was fined $18.

At La Rochelle, Olivier Brillouet, one time communist municipal councilor, was interned in a concentration camp.

In Paris the military tribunal rejected the petition for a new trial filed by the four French youths condemned to death last Monday on a charge of sabotage. The four will face a firing squad.

NEW DEAL A BAR TO U. S. DEFENSE, TAFT DECLARES

Dissension in Ranks and Failures Are Told.

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—Senator Robert A. Taft [R., Ohio], said tonight that "if the American people want a national administration to carry out an effective program of national defense, there is no possible argument for the present administration."

In a radio speech Taft made these charges against the Roosevelt administration:

"It has failed to develop an army and navy with essential modern weapons.

"It has shown its complete incapacity in the field of finance.

"It has shown its unwillingness to abate by one jot or one tittle its hostility to industry, or its adherence to all the burocratic activities of the New Deal.

"It is proposing to destroy any possible unity in the United States by insisting on a third term, in violation of all the traditions and principles of the American republic."

Department at Odds.

The Ohio senator, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, also said that "there has been an obvious lack of coördination between the different departments of the government."

"Secretary [Claude] Swanson was ill for many months," he said. "Secretary [Charles] Edison was not appointed for a long time after he [Swanson] died, and now is running for governor of New Jersey. The secretary of war [Harry H. Woodring] and the assistant secretary of war [Louis Johnson] are not on speaking terms.

"Aggressive secretaries would have secured better consideration for the defense programs. Construction work in the navy apparently has been very slow, much slower, for instance, than the Japanese work on their new battleships.

Hampered by New Deal.

"It has been partly due to unnecessary New Deal restrictions, so numerous and hampering that many business men will not take a government contract except as a matter of duty."

Taft said that the people "ought to accept" the proposed new defense taxes "but they ought also to realize that the real cause of additional taxes is the tremendous deficit for ordinary peacetime expenditures plus the colossal size of the existing debt."

"Obviously," he continued, "we are not increasing the debt limit from 45 billions to 48 billions and borrowing 3 billions just to pay a supplemental defense expense of 1 billion.

"If our budget had been balanced since 1936, as it should have been, we could well afford to borrow for a year or two for extraordinary defense construction."

Bombay Holds All German Women Except Jewesses

BOMBAY, India, May 29 (AP).—All of Bombay's German women except Jewesses were arrested today in the government's vigorous new drive against the danger of a fifth column.

RECRUITS POUR IN 'AS IRELAND GOES ON WAR FOOTING

All Volunteers; Draft to Be Shunned.

DUBLIN, Ireland, May 29 (AP)—Reservists called back to military service today placed Ireland's standing army on a war footing while political factions found a new unity and the dail cast away party lines for the first time since the world war.

Here in Dublin there was no fuss or hysteria, but volunteers and regulars streamed into service.

The newspapers unanimously agreed that while two Irishmen may fight each other, they will unite against another foe.

Ready to Fight to Last Club.

"If invaded," said a high ranking officer in a statement that seemed to express the general view, "Ireland will fight to the last bullet, then use rifles as clubs.

"We left the bullet holes of 1922 in this O'Connel street building as a constant reminder to our people that our liberty was dearly bought. It will be more dearly surrendered."

Officials insisted there would be no conscription, for conscription is anathema to Irish. It was thru conscription in the last war that men sorely needed in the subsequent battle for independence were sent away to fight where 10,000 were killed and 30,000 wounded.

Supreme War Board.

A newly formed national defense committee will be in effect a supreme war commission. Although it will have no executive powers as such, it will have the power of recommendation and the responsibility for all major policy arising out of the country's present dangerous condition.

The acceptance by William T. Cosgrave, leader of the Fine Gael opposition, of Premier Eamon De Valera's solemn "unity call" had made this solid front possible.

Ireland has maintained her neutrality for nine months during which several small nations of Europe have become battlefields.

Envoy to Italy Sees King.

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger Keyes and Sir Wilfred Greene had an audience at Buckingham palace today with King George VI. Sir Wilfred has just returned from an economic mission to Rome to negotiate with Italian officials over the British blockade in the Mediterranean. Sir Roger was naval attaché maintaining liaison between the allies and Belgium before yesterday's surrender.

Asks New Zealand to Take 25,000 of Britain's Children

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, May 29 (AP).—A suggestion that New Zealand offer permanent homes to 25,000 English children to remove them from the war zone, in recognition of the aid which England extended to victims of the disastrous Napier earthquake in 1931, was made today by Mayor T. W. Herccock at Napier. The quake killed several hundred people, injured thousands more and left many homeless.

Our President Brings you
SANTA CLAUS on DECORATION DAY

An Important Message from Our President

Last Christmas time we ordered thousands of suits for this Spring's selling. We planned according to the calendar—but, in today's changing world, surprising adjustments are made in calendars, clocks, weather forecasts and general conditions.

With thousands and thousands of Spring, Summer, and All Year 'Round Suits on hand, I feel that this is the most opportune time to "give in" because so many men still want New Spring Suits, and because we must reduce our top-heavy stock.

I like the spirit of Yuletide, when giving and receiving are most magnanimous . . . and so we celebrate this super-event by bringing you "SANTA CLAUS on DECORATION DAY"—and the biggest gift bag of values that you ever saw.

A FEW THEORIES ARE SHOT DOWN BY ACE AIRMAN

Rickenbacker Tells Needs for U. S. Defense.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—Drawing from his war and peace associations with flying, Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker, world war ace and president of Eastern Airlines, today grounded several theories for America's air defense, which have received high sponsorship lately.

E. V. Rickenbacker.

In the same interview he proposed a new plan of training commercial pilots for war service.

Rickenbacker believes that the country has in commercial airline pilots the skeleton of a capable civil reserve force for an emergency. However, he fears that despite the high qualifications of airline pilots that they might have some difficulty adapting themselves to war time flying conditions.

Aggressive Attitude Required.

It would be difficult for pilots whose first thought has been safety of passengers and equipment to take on the aggressiveness needed for military flying, he believes. It would be difficult at first to fly without radio beams, weather reports, and all the innumerable aids upon which airline flyers have come to depend. For this he has a remedy, and also a scheme by which the number of such pilots can be increased.

"The present airlines' force can be multiplied 200 times" he said "and all given training in flying under conditions more nearly those of war time by hiring the airlines to carry all first class mail for distances of more than 100 miles. Give the commercial airlines bombers and fighting planes to fly this mail. Give the pilots a parachute, a map, a mail bag, and whatever instruments they find in the military planes and let them ride everywhere in all weather in these fast, tricky ships. Then they will be ready to step from airliners to military planes if the need arises.

A Job for Professionals.

Discussing recent proposals for air defense he said:

"There isn't much use in building 50,000 fighting planes [President Roosevelt's proposal]. By the time the last 10,000 were in production the first 40,000 would be outmoded.

"There isn't much value in giving primary schooling to thousands of amateurs. It would cost much tax money and man hours and the graduates would be toddlers in the air. Today's combat ship is a meteor; the bombers are cyclones, they can't be handled by neophytes.

"What we need is an enlargement of the plane production industry, a development of commercial facilities subject to ready conversion for war use, and a heavy recruiting of professional pilots with day by day assignments that would fit them to fight.

Opposes Political Control.

"For production, America has the best industrial brains in the world. I'm sure Henry Ford didn't exaggerate yesterday when he said his plant could be tooled to a production of 1,000 planes daily. Free these industrialists of political red tape and they'll go to town. We didn't do this until too late in 1917. We spent a billion dollars trying to build a plane industry and after the war all we had was junk—junk and taxes, taxes that will remain with us for many years.

"Chicago is a highly desirable site for the new industrial development, centrally located, good transportation, convenient to supplies and materials, and remote from any enemy invasion. About the greatest mistake that city ever made was in not building a lake front airport.

"After we have an adequate plane industry and an adequate force of capable pilots, we still need bases; bases with ground crews, underground service shops and bombproof hangars large enough to accommodate the entire fleet and at locations from Alaska to Panama. We could move the entire air fleet from one of these bases to another over night, but we couldn't move ground crews, shops, and landing fields big enough to fly in and out blind.

Defense Called Simple.

"Our defense tactics are simple, so simple that many folks are looking for something more complicated. Any invader would have to use a naval fleet. We would know of its embarkation immediately or in advance. Long range bombers would intercept the enemy a thousand miles from our shores. And any one who thinks a bomber can't sink a battleship isn't reading the news from Europe.

Canada and Britain to Buy 1,750,000 Tons of Sugar

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—Great Britain will buy the entire sugar exports of Australia, the Union of South Africa, Mauritius, Fiji, and the British West Indies, Undersecretary of the Food Ministry Robert John Graham Boothby told the house of commons today. Canada and New Zealand will be partners with the United Kingdom in the purchase, he said, involving 1,750,000 tons of sugar, of which the United Kingdom will receive 1,225,000 tons.

Allies Rally War Industries

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—With war expenditures increasing by leaps and bounds, "Work and Pay" was recommended by government spokesmen tonight as a new slogan for Britain's industrial masses.

Taxpayers, already saddled with the heaviest burden in history, were warned by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood that new taxes were on the way. Workers at the same time were urged by Labor Minister Ernest Bevin to give up their vacations this summer to keep the war factories at top production seven days a week.

$6,390,000,000 Budget Too Small.

Because of the "vast change" in the war situation, Wood told the house of commons tonight that the month-old estimate of 2 billion pounds [about $6,390,000,000] to cover war expenses of the current year was now out of date. He said the government intended to bring in a higher budget in the "near future," but promised the country a short breathing space in which to adjust itself to the burdens already imposed.

Wood also disclosed that the excess profits tax would be expanded from 60 to 100 per cent and applied to all businesses and trades.

Clear Way for Women's Jobs.

Bevin, in appealing to workers in industrial, technical, and clerical jobs to forgo their vacations, said the government was attempting to organize rest periods to maintain health and physical efficiency. "Every minute spent on production now is vital to the defense of the country and your homes," he said.

Final obstacles to the employment of women in men's jobs in war factories were overcome today when the national committee of the Amalgamated Engineering union decided to accept an agreement on wage rates concluded between union leaders and engineering employés. The agreement sets a wage scale starting at about $3.20 weekly for 14 year old girls and rising to about $5.60 weekly for those 21 years old.

Many delegates, however, demanded adequate safeguards that men replaced by women during the war would be given their jobs back when hostilities ended. The union president assured members he had a pledge from Bevin that the government would do everything in its power to insure that the status quo would be restored.

TAVERN BANDITS TAKE GUN AWAY FROM POLICEMAN

Four bandits armed with revolvers and a sawed-off shotgun held up a tavern at 356 West 45th street Tuesday night and included in their loot a policeman's revolver and $5 of his money.

The four found Policeman John McCarthy of the Stanton station, in uniform but off duty, sitting at the bar as they entered. One shoved a gun into his back and said: "This is a stickup, but there's not going to be any shooting." He added to his companions: "Don't start anything, we don't want a cop shot."

McCarthy was forced to surrender his gun and $5 and stand against the wall with three other patrons. The bandits took $14 from the other customers and $50 from Barney Toomey, part owner of the tavern, then escaped in a stolen car.

Robbers Interrupt Sales Meeting and Seize $1,100

Joseph Peskin, president of the Universal Automatic Music corporation, was giving a sales talk to nine salesmen last night when three bandits walked into the offices at 6408 Stony Island and forced him to surrender $1,100 from the safe. One had a handkerchief mask and a second wore goggles.

ALTERS VERSION OF 10 PER CENT CLUB IN INDIANA

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—Frank B. Bielaski, operator of a New York detective agency, withdrew today an assertion he made before a senate committee that a "10 per cent club based on kick-backs from contractors" existed in Indiana, but said that kick-backs had been made.

At the demand of Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.], Bielaski produced a report on which he said he had based his remark. It dealt with purported campaign contributions by contractors to the Democratic central committee in Marion county, Ind.

Bielaski told the committee, which is investigating wire tapping in eastern states, that his investigation in Center township, Marion county, had been made for the chairman of the Indiana Republican state committee. He acknowledged he was "in error" about the "10 per cent figure" but insisted "some kick-backs" were made.

ARMY CALLS AIR CORPS RESERVES FOR ACTIVE DUTY

2,000 Officers Asked to Report for a Year.

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—War department preparations to bring all available air corps reserve officers into active duty, to meet demands of projected expansion of flying forces, were disclosed today.

More than 2,000 officers—pilots and observers—have been asked whether they would be willing to accept a year's active duty. The canvass was undertaken, it was explained, in anticipation that congress will approve pending legislation authorizing active duty for air reservists above the grade of second lieutenant.

900 Already on Duty.

The air corps reserve numbers more than 3,000, of whom about 900 already are on active duty as flyers trained by the army. Of the remainder, hundreds have civilian jobs as commercial pilots, and officials said they could not anticipate how many would be available for military duty.

At the navy department it was announced that active sea training will be given naval reserve enlisted men, who might be called to active duty in event of emergency. The training will be for periods ranging from two weeks to a year, beginning July 1.

Seek to Fill Quota.

Calling for volunteers, the navy added that secondary considerations are to man the new ships recently built or building and to bring the navy's enlisted strength up to the full 145,000 peace time quota.

Under orders issued today by Rear Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, chief of the bureau of navigation, enlisted reserves will be encouraged to apply for not less than three months of active duty.

All commandants of naval districts were instructed to report by June 15 on the number of men who volunteer for active duty afloat and are ready to proceed on July 1. The enlisted reserves totaled 40,240 last month.

PROPOSES REDS WHO CAUSE LABOR STRIFE LOSE VOTING RIGHTS

New York, May 29 (AP).—A suggestion that communists "who attempt to foment trouble and strife" should be deprived of their right to vote was cheered to day by 650 delegates at the 24th convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union.

The suggestion came from Sol A. Rosenblatt, chairman of the cloak and suit industry.

"While we may not deprive these termites in our midst of their citizenship," he said, "laws may still be enacted, and properly, to deprive them of the highest exercise of that citizenship, which is the right of vote."

CHICAGOANS PUSH MERITS OF PLANE LABORATORY SITE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—A delegation from the Chicago Association of Commerce conferred today with Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson and Illinois congressmen on the proposed selection of Chicago as the site for a new government airplane engine research laboratory and aviation manufacturing plants.

Oscar G. Mayer, president of the association, said they got a "very fine response" from Johnson and that the Illinois delegation in congress is backing Chicago's bid for the laboratory.

An appropriation for the laboratory, to be used by the national advisory committee for aeronautics, is expected to go thru congress in the near future, under administration backing. The site for the 8 million dollar project will be selected soon after the appropriation is voted.

Johnson Favors Chicago.

While Johnson made no commitment, he reminded a group of Illinois congressmen the other day that two years ago he had proposed Chicago as the laboratory site because of its ideal location and facilities.

Mayer said that no offers have been made, but that it is believed land will be available without cost to the government.

"This is no time for suggesting anything not economic or sound, but I feel we have real advantages to offer," Mayer said. "We offered all the assistance that Chicago could give on the defense program."

Advantages Pointed Out.

The group, which included Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the association of commerce, and E. P. Querl, manager of the association's industrial department, told Johnson of Chicago's position as a great technological center, its supply of skilled labor, industrial facilities, and strategic defense location.

It has been pointed out that most of the airplane and engine manufacturing plants are vulnerable to attack. In the expansion program necessary to reach the government's production aim of 50,000 planes per year it is believed the government will stress more inland plants.

War Department Orders Rifle Output Doubled

Springfield, Mass., May 29 (AP).—Production of the Garand semiautomatic rifle at Springfield armory was ordered doubled by the war department today, Col. G. H. Stewart, commanding officer, announced. At present, daily production is 200. The stepup will be accomplished as fast as materials and trained workers are procurable, Stewart added. The present working force of 2,700 has to be expanded to 4,000 or more to handle the order.

PRIVATE PILOTS SEEK TO SHARE IN AIR PROGRAM

Private and commercial airmen in Chicago who are not now affiliated with military forces will hold a meeting tomorrow evening to plan a campaign to convince Washington officials that they should be included as a secondary air reserve force in any national expansion of the country's air units. The meeting has been called on behalf of all flyers by a committee headed by Arthur J. La Pointe Jr., and Robert A. Morrow.

The meeting is to be held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman at 8 p. m. Every person in Chicagoland who holds a federal certificate as a pilot is invited, according to the sponsors, who are coöperating with most of the aviation organizations in this area. Among these are the Aircraft Owners and Pilot's association, the National Aeronautics association, the Illinois Air Pilot's association and most of the flying clubs.

Fear They'll Be Ignored.

"We believe that we've got to get together with most of the other certificate holders in the country to get a place in the defense scheme," said LaPointe and Morrow last evening. "If we don't form some plans of our own we're going to be ignored just as we have been ignored by the army and the civil aeronautics authority up to this time.

"Frankly what we're after is the formation of an organization that will be able to go down to Washington as representative of all flyers here, and demand that the present certificate holders get some flying time.

Service in Wartime.

LaPointe and Morrow said that in wartime the certificated pilots quickly would be called up for service of one sort or another. Inasmuch as their services are certain to be demanded in an emergency, they declared, it is only right and fair that they should be given an opportunity now to gain some training.

They added that an important point in the program is that the age limits, fixed hitherto by the army at 27 years, should be broadened to take in flyers as old as 35 years at least. The older heads, they said, are proving their worth in the European war where most of the British and German aces are in their thirties.

NEW BOSS MOVES TO EXPEL TWO IN BARTENDER UNION

Charge Romano Purge of McLane Faction.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Notice was served yesterday by the Bartenders' union on two of its members that on Monday they would be given a hearing on charges that might result in their expulsion. The gravity of the charges was said to be increased by the relationship of the defendants to George McLane, business agent of the union, who was muscled out of his job as head of the bartenders and allied unions by Louis Romano and his backers.

At the hearing Monday, Romano, now president of the bartenders, will move to have McLane joined in exile by his brother, Mike McLane, lately a bartender at a tavern next door to the Chicago Stadium, and his brother-in-law, William Salvatore, former assistant business agent.

Accused of Being Informer.

Salvatore is charged with the misuse of influence he acquired thru his union connections. The charge, he was informed, grew out of his brief service as a whisky salesman after he lost a union position. He was informed that his acquaintance with bartenders was of some value to him as agent for a whisky distributing company. The McLane faction claims he was employed by the wrong company.

George McLane is under what amounts to a suspension from the union because of publicity given a scheme of Romano to charge each of the 4,800 members of the union $10 a year for hospitalization, whether they need it or not.

Purge of McLane Faction.

Last night, in behalf of the McLane brothers and of Salvatore, who is married to a sister of George McLane's wife, it was explained that the charges are just a technicality thru which Romano is purging the McLane faction. George McLane, a member of the union for 30 years, brought it back to life with the coming of repeal and fostered it thru its reorganization days.

Bartenders who normally are talkative and informative about most persons, places, and things, recently have been advised to say little about their union. However, a few of them who said they were taking chances told the story of what has transpired.

These men said they fear their $125,000 treasury is in danger of being looted. Their union is controlled, not by Romano, who is merely a figurehead, they said, but by Murray Humphreys, who is next in line to Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti as the boss gangster of the present day Capone syndicate.

Pet Brands of Liquor.

This syndicate, according to members of the union, has set in motion a program thru which they hope to dictate what brands of alcoholic beverages Chicago shall drink, who shall sell them, and how much the dealers and the consumers shall pay. The Nitti-Humphreys-Romano crowd has some pet brands of liquor and some favored breweries, the dispensers declare.

The McLane brand of rugged unionism was an obstacle the syndicate hurdled by first kicking out George McLane and then pulling jobs out from under his relatives, a bartender declared.

Romano was never a bartender, according to union members. When Bob Stanchi, president of the union, died in 1938, Romano was put into his place by the power of Humphreys and Danny Stanton, who for some years past has been in power in certain labor circles, according to the stories told. From that time on McLane's power waned.

PAROLES SWING CELL DOORS OPEN FOR 9 REPEATERS

Among 65 Chicagoans Set Free.

The state parole board yesterday opened the gates of three Illinois penitentiaries to 65 convicts sentenced from Cook county, including nine who, records at the Chicago police bureau of identification showed, had previous records at the time they were sentenced.

Malcohn Heaver—One of three members of a gang which committed 18 north side burglaries. Received in Pontiac May 6, 1938, on a sentence of from 1 to 10 years. Served two years. Arrested previously in 1938 in Milwaukee for larceny; no disposition of case; 20 years old.

Edward Solankowski—One of a gang of four which committed three robberies. Received in Pontiac May 5, 1936, on a sentence of from one year to life. Served four years and one month. Previous record: Sentenced to one year in the Bridewell Feb. 7, 1935, for tampering with a car. Grand jury refused to indict on Oak Park burglary charge March 21, 1936; 22 years old.

Edward O'Connor—Sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac Aug. 24, 1937, for violation of probation. Served two years and nine months. Granted one year's probation Nov. 16, 1936, on burglary charge; arrested nine months later for committing two more burglaries; 30 years old.

Peter Hallan—Arrested on four charges of robbery, sentenced to one year to life in Pontiac April 21, 1932. Served eight years and one month. Granted probation in 1931 on burglary charge; 25 years old.

Steve Vilentine—Entered Pontiac Sept. 12, 1935, on term of 1 to 10 years for larceny of automobile. Served four years and nine months. Granted probation for one year July 12, 1932, on robbery charge; 24 years old.

John Rogalski—Entered Pontiac April 11, 1929, on setence of one year to life for robbery. Paroled Oct. 11, 1932; returned for violation of parole in February, 1935, and has since served five years and three months. Sentenced in December, 1926, to 90 days in Bridewell for tampering with automobile; 33 years old.

Alfred Doral—One of a gang of four which held up a restaurant. Entered Pontiac Feb. 23, 1933, on term of 1 to 20 years. Paroled July 9, 1936, and returned for violation of parole Nov. 13, 1936. He has since served three years and seven months. In 1932 he served 30 days in the Bridewell; 27 years old.

Frank Urchell—Entered Joliet April 2, 1931, on a sentence of from one year to life for eight robberies. Served nine years and one month. Sentenced May 18, 1926, to Pontiac for six robberies and one burglary; paroled Dec. 1, 1930; 35 years old.

Emmerson Bolton, colored—Entered Joliet April 16, 1931, on a sentence of from one year to life for four robberies. Served nine years and one month. Sentenced May 3, 1929, to Joliet for five robberies, but conviction was reversed by the Illinois Supreme court on April 21, 1930. Four charges were reinstated, but were nol prossed; 35 years old.

Eighty-three convicts from counties other than Cook also were paroled by the board.

BOX OF ASPIRIN GIVES MR. GUIDI A BIG HEADACHE

Guidi, owner of a tavern at 4225 Harrison street, met a couple of men there two weeks ago who said they were searching for an honest man to distribute $5,000 left for charitable purposes. Guido would do for the job, they said.

Yesterday they came back to see Guido. Everything was arranged, they said, except that they would have to have some surety. Guido mentioned $3,520 which he had in the bank. The strangers said that would be dandy. They'd keep that while Guido got the $5,000 to deal out. Guido withdrew his money. He handed it to one of the strangers. The other promptly got a terrific headache, and Guido hurried to a drugstore to buy him some aspirin. When he came out his money and the strangers were gone. The headache, however, remained. Guido had it.

TOM PENDERGAST TO BE RELEASED FROM U. S. PRISON

Kansas City, Mo., May 29 (AP).—Tom Pendergast, dethroned Democratic political boss, spent his last day in Leavenworth penitentiary today.

Lewis J. Grout, chief federal probation officer, will receive Pendergast in the prison at 9 a. m. tomorrow and bring him here to begin his five-year probationary period. He will have served a year and a day of his 15 month sentence for evading federal income taxes. He also paid a $10,000 fine.

As soon as conditions of the probation are outlined, Pendergast will be turned over to county officers for arraignment on a state indictment charging that he bribed R. Emmet O'Malley, former state insurance superintendent, in the compromise of the $9,500,000 Missouri fire insurance rate case in 1935. O'Malley has completed a prison sentence for federal income tax evasion.

Wife Missing Two Days; Recently Hurt in Accident

Chicago avenue police began a search last night for Mrs. Fern Steele, 32 years old, reported missing since Monday night from her home in the Eastgate hotel, 162 East Ontario street, by her husband, Paul J. Steele. He said she may be suffering from amnesia as a result of an automobile accident May 10.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—George Scalise, ex-convict, white slaver, and former president of the Building Service Employés International union, was indicted today for the second time on 60 counts of grand larceny, common law larceny, embezzlement, and forgery. His thefts were alleged to total $60,000.

George Scalise.

Arraigned before Judge James G. Wallace in General Sessions court, Scalise's bail was set at $25,000. Unable to post the sum, he was sent back to his cell in the Tombs prison. He made the $20,000 bond on the first indictment, charging extortion, last Saturday night and was rearrested on theft charges when he left the jail.

Unlimited Expenses Charged.

Assistant District Attorney Murray I. Gurfein, head of the rackets bureau in the office of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, told the court that Scalise never performed any services for the union, but merely lived on the fruits of his larceny. Scalise formerly enjoyed a $25,000 a year salary and unlimited expenses as boss of the 70,000 dues paying union scrubwomen, janitors, porters, and elevator operators.

According to Gurfein, a total of $200,000 in thefts by Scalise had been uncovered. He said Dewey's office had been coöperating with State's Attorney Thomas Courtney of Chicago and that at least $100,000 in thefts had been disclosed as coming within Cook county jurisdiction. He charged Scalise with turning in false vouchers to cover up the amounts stolen, taking names from the telephone directory.

Chicago Witnesses Missing.

Gurfein said Scalise controls two officials at the international headquarters and these men have failed to show up in response to summons to testify before the New York county grand jury. They are Paul B. David, secretary-treasurer, and Kenneth Ashley, a bookkeeper. Ashley testified for two days, but never came back as he had promised to do.

Scalise is accused of committing some of the larcenies by pocketing funds he recorded as having been advanced to various New York unions. These included: Hotel employés union, $4,677 stolen; theater employés, $1,850 stolen; public school and library employés union, $2,325; hospital employés, $2,705; Chinese waiters, $3,525; also $13,832 stolen from locals in Pittsburgh and $1,764 from locals in Philadelphia.

Two Indiana Youths Go on Trial in Slaying Tomorrow

Gallup, N. M., May 29 (AP).—Lynn Fryback and Donald Combs, both 18 years old, of Fort Wayne, Ind., will go on trial Friday for the holdup slaying of a Gallup filling station attendant. Their case, scheduled for today, was carried over when court convened and then adjourned for two days.

TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answer which you consider best. The last problem counts 5 points. Then look for the correct answers on page 28.

1. Angora wool comes from Sheep Goats Camels Llamas
2. Of gainfully employed people in the U. S. A., the number belonging to trade unions is approximately 5% 20% 40% 70%
3. Plymouth Rock hens usually lay eggs whose shells are Brown White Blue Speckled
4. "Offset" is a common term among Dentists Carpenters Printers Athletes
5. If you adjust your auto carburetor to use a minimum of gasoline, the fuel mixture is called Dry Rarefied Wet Lean
6. A schoolboy placed five thermometers against the wall. One was resting on the floor, the second was hung 3 feet above the floor, the third was hung at the 6 foot level, the fourth at 9 feet, and the fifth at the ceiling. The temperatures varied. Try to match the correct temperature with the thermometer level indicated below. You get one point for each correct matching.

——At floor level [a] 74 degrees F.
——At 3 foot level [b] 68 degrees F.
——At 6 foot level [c] 70 degrees F.
——At 9 foot level [d] 66 degrees F.
——At ceiling [e] 72 degrees F.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

ADMITS RAPING HOUSEWIFE AND ATTACKING GIRL

Vernon Douglas, 22 years old, colored, was held yesterday by the Woodlawn police, who said he admitted raping a housewife and attempting to attack another young woman earlier in the day. Both victims identified him and said he threatened them with a revolver.

The housewife who was raped is 25 years old and lives in the 6400 block on Drexel avenue. She was taken to the Woodlawn hospital. Her daughter, 20 months old, was asleep in the room when the attack occurred.

The other young woman is Mary Kelly, 18 years old, 6501 Drexel avenue. She said that her screams frightened Douglas away from the vestibule of her home. Douglas was seized in his apartment at 359 East 50th street.

SEEK REHEARING OF APPEAL BY KIDNAP SLAYER

Further Argument Sought by Government.

Martin Ward, assistant United States attorney, yesterday said that the government will ask for a rehearing on a decision by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, handed down Tuesday. This ruling reversed the conviction last Nov. 22 of Jack Russell, Oklahoma kidnap-killer.

Russell had been sentenced to die last Jan. 5 for the slaying of William Scott Hamilton, a Kansas milling salesman. He has been held in the County jail on stays of execution pending the result of his appeal.

Evidence Called Improper.

The reversal was ordered on the ground that a federal fingerprint record card, shown the jury during the trial, was improper evidence. A notation in red ink on the reverse side of the card showed a previous arrest for rape. The defense contended that this had a prejudicial effect on the seven women jurors.

Ward said the government has 20 days to file a rehearing petition and that it also would ask permission to present further arguments. If the rehearing is denied an early retrial will be sought, he said.

Judge Evans Dissents.

Russell escaped last July 11 from the Oklahoma state penitentiary at MsAlester where he was serving a robbery term. He said he escaped because of a desire to see his wife, Mary, in Chicago. Evidence at the trial showed that en route to Chicago he kidnaped Hamiton in Kansas, and later slew him near Ringwood, in McHenry county, July 14. He was recaptured five days later in Arkansas.

Presiding Judge Evan A. Evans, in a strong dissenting opinion, disagreed with the decision of Judges Walter E. Treanor and J. Earl Major that there was a reversible error. He argued that the verdict should stand. His opinion, in part, said:

"The entire story, which is not contradicted, came from the defendant's own lips. He gave his own picture of a wilful, criminal, irresponsible personality devoid of human qualities. He pictured himself as a robber bold, a deliberate, cold blooded holdup gunman—a killer. No heat of passion prompted him, no grudge of long standing actuated him. He killed his victim without reason or excuse. He robbed other victims at the point of a gun to get money. He stole automobiles and levied tributes on their owners as a pirate of old. Yet his counsel now argues that the information which the jury obtained of an earlier felony with which he had been charged and which charge had been dismissed had affected their verdict."

100 Sticks of Dynamite Fished from Chicago River

Clyde Harris, 2134 Clifton avenue, a WPA worker, saw a wooden case floating down the north branch of the Chicago river near Rockwell and Addison streets yesterday. He fished it ashore and found inside its waterproof lining 100 sticks of dynamite. The police bomb squad destroyed the explosives by burning them in a quarry. There was no name of an addressee on the box.

REPUBLICAN VOTE LEADER ON STAND IN FRAUD HEARING

Attorney David Alexander, in charge of Republican workers in the 3d precinct of the 24th ward during the April, 1939, mayoralty election, was called yesterday as a defense witness in the trial of four persons charged with conspiracy to violate the election laws at that time.

The four are Joseph Schneidermann, Democratic precinct captain; Mrs. LaNora Roberson, Democratic judge, and George Martens and Mrs. Shirley Moser, Republican judges.

Alexander said he had been disappointed in the fact that Dwight H. Green, Republican mayoralty candidate, got only 15 votes, but that the Republican precinct captain, Thomas V. Murphy, who previously appeared as a state witness, had made no complaints to him. A recount of the precinct under court supervision found 90 votes for Green. The trial is before Judge James F. Fardy in Criminal court.

ASSAIL NEW DEAL REGIME AT STATE G. O. P. GATHERING

Planks Are Proposed for Illinois Platform.

Springfield, Ill., May 29 [Special].—The Roosevelt and Horner administrations were assailed at the Republican pre-convention committee meeting today at which rank and file citizens were given opportunity to present planks for inclusion in the platform to be adopted June 14 at the state convention here.

"The people of Illinois are looking to the Republican party to rescue them from a government headed by a governor, sick in mind and body," asserted Speaker Hugh Cross of the Illinois house of representatives and nominee for lieutenant governor. "The sick governor will be an important issue and will be considered by the people in determining their course."

Citizenship and favors to aliens will be an issue, State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, a candidate for lieutenant governor in the April primary, asserted.

Recalls Alien Bill Veto.

"You don't have to be a citizen, even, to get a job in the state government," Searcy declared, "I know because Gov. Horner vetoed my bill last session setting up this requirement. And another thing, aliens are flocking into this country and are being given government help in professions so they are crowding our American professional men down to relief rolls."

A variety of planks were offered for consideration by the pre-convention committee, headed by State Senator Arnold P. Benson of Batavia.

Judge Oscar Nelson of Chicago proposed in a letter planks indorsing the right of labor to organize freely, without government interference; urging shorter hours and higher wages as a cure for unemployment, and pledging support to proper social security and old age pensions as a protection to labor.

Advocate Mothers' Pensions.

The League of Women Voters, represented by Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer of Bloomington and Mrs. Jack Foreman of Chicago, asked indorsement of laws to permit Illinois to pay adequate mothers' pensions and to set up city manager plans in cities.

Probate Judge Benjamin S. Deboice of Springfield called for creation of a pre-primary convention plan which would eliminate to a large extent necessity for spring primaries by giving downstate a preponderance of nominees. "The key to the Republican vote is downstate, not in Cook county," he said.

State Senator R. G. Crisenberry of Murphysboro proposed a program in which government would quit interfering with business, experimentations would be halted, and confidence of business restored to such an extent wages would be raised. He advocated a program of useful public works, free from politics and including only needy workers, until private industry could absorb the unemployed.

Other Planks Proposed.

Other proposed planks included:

An adequate educational system, with more economy, administered by trained school men, and free from politics.

Annual audits of each department of state government.

Condemnation of the national administration's "partisan bungling and wasteful conduct of our tardy national preparedness program which can not be carried thru to completion in Democratic hands."

Exemption of all nonrevenue producing homesteads from taxation.

Ben L. Berve of Rochelle, state Republican chairman, urged a fight against the common enemy, waste and extravagance, and correction of evils of government by election of Republicans.

MILK PRODUCERS VOTE ON CHANGES IN MARKET RULES

A referendum among milk producers in the Chicago marketing area was started yesterday to determine whether they approve changing the federal order that has regulated the milk market since last Sept. 1. Ballots have been mailed to 17,000 dairymen in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan who supply Chicago's milk. Returned ballots must be postmarked by midnight, June 5.

Milk dealers also will be given a chance to approve the changes. If a majority does, the amendments go into effect as a marketing agreement. If a majority rejects the changes, the secretary of agriculture, with approval of the President, may put the provisions into effect as a marketing order.

The proposals deal mainly with prices to be fixed by the government for certain classes of milk and adjustments in the classifications themselves.

INSIDE WORKERS TALK CONTRACT WITH DAIRYMEN

Representatives of the inside dairy workers' union discussed disputed points in their working contract with a committee representing dairy companies yesterday in the office of the Associated Milk Dealers, Inc., 309 Jackson boulevard.

Paul Potter, executive secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers, said little progress toward settlement was made. Tomorrow dealers' representatives will resume negotiations with the milk wagon drivers' union at the Stevens hotel.

Dealers and union representatives will continue to meet until June 10 in an attempt to settle the dispute which caused the milk strike ended Sunday by a truce. Failure of negotiations will bring appointment of a board of arbitration.

Today's Features

ON W-G-N.
[Central Daylight Saving Time.]

The Chicago Theater of the Air, on W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network from 9 to 10 this evening, presents for the third operetta, "Blossom Time," starring Marion Claire, Igor Gorin, and Michael Bartlett.

Bob Elson.

At 12:15 p. m. W-G-N will broadcast an interview with Anna Neagle, film star and headliner of W-G-N's production of "Irene" from an American Airlines plane in flight over Chicago. Miss Neagle will be interviewed with other members of her party by Announcer Jess Kirkpatrick as the entire party takes in an aerial sightseeing trip over Chicago. "Irene" will be aired over W-G-N and Mutual from 7 to 8 p. m. tomorrow.

A play-by-play account of the double-header ball game between the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds will be offered by Bob Elson starting at 1:30 p. m. Swing It, Bill Anson's program of late baseball scores and music, will be heard between games at approximately 3:30 p. m. At 3:40 p. m. Bob Elson will interview one of the ballplayers on his Leadoff Man show.

Cartune-O, W-G-N's musical quiz, with Harold Stokes and the Dance orchestra, Master of Ceremonies Bill Anson, and Announcer Pierre Andre is scheduled at 7:30 p. m.

Win on Broadcast

John T. McCutcheon, famous Tribune cartoonist, saluted 600 Roosevelt High school students as custodians of the nation's future last night when he appeared on the Citizens of Tomorrow radio program broadcast from the main studio of station W-G-N. Mr. McCutcheon said:

"There are some folks who take a dark view of the future. These lugubrious elements are like the people who enjoy poor health. Whatever this country does in the future depends on the character of your ambitions and their fulfillment. The advice of the Mogul emperor Akbar to young people was: 'I have lived a long time, but I have yet to see a man lost on a straight road.' You can't improve on that."

Mr. McCutcheon said he became an artist after organizing a firm to paint houses and carriages, and two buggies which he was commissioned to paint never dried. Since then, he said, he has "ground out more than 1,500 pounds of cartoons" in the last 40 years, and a high percentage of them deal with youth and its problems.

Does Your Breath Shout 'FALSE TEETH'?

Stera-Kleen Prevents False Tooth Odor — Cleans Without Brushing

"False teeth odor" is the curse of denture wearers. Ordinary brushing or antiseptics often will not remove scum and food particles that collect on your plate or bridge. This uncleanliness gives off the most offensive of breath odors — you do not know it you have it — but others do.

Prevent this odor by using STERA-KLEEN and make sure of absolute cleanliness. STERA-KLEEN dissolves scum and food particles from the tiny crevices of your plate that brushing does not reach. It is safe—economical—easy to use.

Place your bridge or plate in water, add a little STERA-KLEEN, leave for a few minutes or overnight—can't harm. Rinse, and it is purified and clean, ready for use without brushing. Daily use prevents "false teeth odor." Get STERA-KLEEN today. Only 30¢ a package at any drug store.

Anna Neagle as she arrived in Chicago yesterday for W-G-N appearance.

Anna Neagle, often called the first lady of the British theater, arrived in Chicago yesterday to take the title rôle in "Irene," to be produced on Fifth Row Center over W-G-N and the Mutual network tomorrow night.

In real life Miss Neagle is Marjorie Robertson. She rose to fame as England's "perfect chorus girl" and later became a noted actress. In such motion pictures as "Victoria the Great" and "Edith Cavell," American audiences saw her dramatic ability.

When she stepped off the train last night, she wore a simply cut suit of Alice blue, the color of the famous "Alice blue gown" in "Irene." Since "Irene" was screened, it has become her favorite color.

NATIONAL GUARD TO HOLD SHOW IN SOLDIERS' FIELD

Combat cars, tanks, motorized infantry, and bombing planes will roar around and over Soldiers' field the nights of June 29 and 30 as the 33d division and attached troops of the Illinois National Guard stage a miniature war to raise funds for athletic and recreational equipment for the Guard. There also will be an exhibition of horsemanship, fancy drills by the infantry, formation and stunt flying by the 108th observation squadron and demonstrations of antitank guns and searchlights.

J. W. Embree Jr. Named Head of Committee of 15

J. W. Embree Jr., president of the Tittenhouse and Embree Lumber company, yesterday was elected president of the Committee of Fifteen, which attempts to suppress organized prostitution in Chicago. The election was held during the organization's annual meeting at the Union League club.

SENATE PASSES BILL INCREASING PENSION TO $40

Legislature Preparing for Adjournment.

Springfield, Ill., May 29 [Special].—Decks were cleared in the special legislative session today for probable adjournment next week. The senate did most of the work by approving bills already passed by the house, and there remains only house concurrence in a few amendments the upper chamber made to house bills.

Principal action taken by the senate was:

1. Passage of the house bill raising maximum old age pensions from $30 to $40 monthly—awards to be determined, as at present, on the basis of need. The vote was unanimous.

2. Approval of the $5,000,000 pegged levy for the Chicago sanitary district, which also was a house bill.

Bills Brought Into Line.

Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], floor leader and Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman, introduced a resolution for sine die [final] adjournment on June 5, but action on it was deferred until next week.

The house met perfunctorily and advanced the senate old age bill to second reading. But since the senate already had passed the house bill, the upper chamber's measure probably will be dropped. A needed amendment to the house bill—an emergency clause—was attached in the senate yesterday. Thus both bills have substantially the same provisions.

Quizzers Get Pension Data.

The Searle house committee, which is seeking information on how the state proposes to pay the increased pensions, elicited from Fletcher C. Kettle, superintendent of old age assistance, that about 11.3 per cent of the state's 137,770 pensioners now are receiving maximum benefits of $30 monthly.

Most, if not all, of these recipients are expected to apply for increases when Gov. Henry Horner signs the new bill into law. Kettle anticipated a rush of applicants, he told the committee. The average pension is now in the neighborhood of $20.

FORMER COUNTY OFFICIAL DIES.

Lincoln, Ill., May 29 [Special].—Esra E. Dean, 84 years old, of Elkhart, former chairman of the Logan county board of supervisors, died today at St. John's hospital, Springfield. The funeral will be held here.

'BLOSSOM TIME' FEATURED ON AIR THEATER TONIGHT

Michael Bartlett Will Be W-G-N Co-Star.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

"Blossom Time," Sigmund Romberg's enchanting operetta on the life of Franz Schubert, will have its first Chicago radio presentation over W-G-N from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight on the Chicago Theater of the Air program.

Loudspeakers on Tribune Tower and the W-G-N studio building will bring the music to those who wish to hear it outdoors in Tribune Square or on Michigan avenue. Fair weather has been forecast. The studio audience will of necessity be limited to ticket holders.

Invited Audience to Attend.

An invited audience of officials and members of the Tribune Chicagoland Music Festival committee and leaders of the festival luncheon will attend. The operetta will be broadcast over the nation-wide network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

As stars of the "Blossom Time" production W-G-N has brought together a talented threesome: Marion Claire, the famous soprano who will sing the role of Mitzi; Igor Gorin, internationally known baritone, who will take the part of Franz Schubert, and Michael Bartlett, young tenor, who has distinguished himself in many fields, who will have the rôle of Baron Franz Schobar.

The music for "Blossom Time" will be presented by the W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber. The dramatic cast which has contributed so notably to the first two Theater of the Air productions will be on hand. The entire production will be in the hands of William A. Bacher, producer-director, who also wrote the radio adaptation.

His First Chicago Air Show.

While Miss Claire and Gorin have appeared previously on the Chicago Theater of the Air, this will be Bartlett's first radio appearance in Chicago.

"I am looking forward to this performance with a great deal of anticipation," he said yesterday on his way to rehearsal. "I gave my first concert in American in Chicago in 1931 under auspices of the Friends of Opera."

Bartlett recalled that he had been invited to give this concert in 1931 by Claire Dux, the noted opera singer, who is Mrs. Charles H. Swift in private life. Prior to his American debut he had achieved a considerable reputation as an operatic singer in Europe. He is, however, American born.

Talents Are Varied.

Bartlett's talents are many and varied. In the last decade he has played in many musical pictures—with Grace Moore in "Love Me Forever," with Claudette Colbert in "She Married Her Boss," with Marion Talley in "Follow Your Heart," and in others. His stage successes include "Through the Years," "The New Moon," "The Cat and the Fiddle," which ran 12 weeks here, and the "Three Waltzes" in which he starred in New York City last year. Last year he appeared with the San Francisco Opera company, singing the title rôle in "Don Pasquale," and Capt. Pinkerton in "Madame Butterfly." He recently returned from Cuba where he was featured as vocal soloist with the Havana Symphony orchestra under the direction of Massimo Freccia.

Last week Bartlett made his debut in a new field of entertainment—television. His success resulted in a summer's engagement before the television camera by RCA and NBC in New York City.

TWO DAYS LEFT BEFORE PENALTY DATE ON TAXES

County Treasurer John Toman yesterday warned taxpayers that only two days, tomorrow and Saturday, are left to pay 1939 taxes without penalty. He announced that the treasurer's office will stay open until 4 p. m. Saturday to receive payments. All payments in person made after Saturday or mail payments postmarked later than June 1 will be subject to a penalty of 1 per cent a month or part of a month, he added.

Toman reported that 1939 collections are still running 25 per cent behind last year, altho yesterday's receipts of $5,452,395 were a new high for this year and nearly twice receipts for the corresponding day last year. Collections on 1939 bills thru last night totaled $38,526,801 against $51,439,906 in the corresponding period last year. Of the 1939 total $30,815,400 has been distributed to taxing bodies.

Real estate payments may be made in two equal instalments, one by June 1 and the second by Sept. 1, without penalty. Personal property bills are due in full June 1.

"WE'RE LEAVING TOMORROW"

"And the children are coming along, too.. Now we can all ride in comfort since we bought that bigger car."

Big-car roominess can be yours at a fraction of big-car original cost when you take advantage of the late model used car bargains advertised in the Tribune want ad section.

Year by year, designers add attractive new features older cars do not have. You'll find more headroom, bigger doors, wider seats, better upholstery, modern styling and more all-around value—and . . .

You will find all these and many more important improvements in the late models described in the Used Automobiles for Sale columns in the Tribune want ad section.

Look over these offerings now. Look over the cars themselves. Find out first-hand what a whale of a big dollar's worth of automobile you can buy now—how much money you can save—and how you can drive a bigger, better car than you now have for less per mile than you may now spend for less comfortable motoring. Your present car may be the only down payment required.

"THINK OF THE OVERTIME!"

"We've got to cut costs around here!"

Are you looking for ways to cut costs and step up the efficiency of your office? Modern equipment soon pays for itself in reduced costs and increased production.

Review the Typewriters and Supplies and the Office Furniture and Devices columns in the Tribune want ad section.

Typewriters, adding machines, billers, desks, files, calculators—these are just a few of the many aids which can help you handle a larger volume of work with the least possible expenditure of time and money.

ADVICE TO HOME-BUYERS

• Are you thinking of buying a home this year? It will pay you to know the trends in real estate values. Chicago's largest selection of home values is advertised in the Real Estate columns in the Tribune want ad section. Let these columns help you find the type of home you want at the price you want to pay.

Because they get better results, want ad users place more total want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

HOW TO DOUBLE THE FLEET IN A WEEK.

We are talking excitedly of armaments and congress is voting the money in billion dollar bills. War material is coming out of the mills on Capitol hill, but it is not coming out of the factories, and for a long, long time it will not be coming out of them. In the meantime we are neglecting to improve a situation affecting our Pacific frontier. The opportunity is there, and if this nation would make use of it it could double the power of its fleet and do more in a short time to increase the strength of its defenses than it can do in a year of production, even on a 24 hour day and a 7 day week.

The United States and Japan can come to a friendly understanding. There is no obstacle in the way except the determination of some Americans to dominate Japan's policy in China. Japan needs peace with the United States. Japanese statesmen may be looking at the future with as much uncertainty as prudent Americans. In a world rapidly changing from its old historical trends and whirling off its old historical foundations, Japan may feel quite as dubious as the United States. Many overtures have been made by Japan for an understanding which would deal with what is real in the relations of the two countries and avoid what is superficially conflicting.

The United States at this time cannot afford to conduct its foreign relations wholly on moral preconceptions. America may be able to aid China a great deal more effectively if it isn't quarreling with Japan than it can by keeping up a futile bombardment of threats and hard words which have done the Chinese no good and can do America a great deal of harm.

This country cannot afford to have an enemy in the Pacific. It is not necessary to have one there. Peaceable trade can be resumed and a peaceable understanding can be had. That understanding would rest upon material advantages which Japan would obtain from friendship with the United States and therefore would have the promise of an enduring understanding.

Japan need not be driven into the German-Italian camp. If events progress as they have been doing in Europe the British and French interests in China will be canceled out. Japan then will have won a major campaign. Its policy has been, in a way, a duplicate of our Monroe Doctrine. Japan has objected to the entrenchment of powerful European nations off its coast, just as we would object to the same thing in relation to our national life.

Japan would be disposed to be more reasonable if Chinese ports and forts were not in European hands. China itself will be better satisfied to know that the foreigner is out. The Japanese are more willing now than ever to come to a settlement in China which will relieve them of a protracted and expensive war. That may not be possible at once, but an understanding between the United States and Japan might do more to conciliate the Chinese question than can be expected from the present bellicose attitude of the American government.

If we intend to keep our Pacific front bristling with threats the Japanese will look for their associations in other quarters and we know exactly where that will be. If the people in Washington who are rushing to arms in fear of a danger to the eastern front are sincere, if they mean to take precautions and provide against the future, they'll protect the western flank by making a friendly arrangement with the power which controls the far east. They won't so manage American affairs that trouble in the Atlantic will be accompanied by trouble in the Pacific. While they are passing a billion dollar appropriation for the American navy they won't continue to make it necessary to keep the battle fleet on its Honolulu base.

By accepting the Japanese overtures they can double the strength of the fleet immediately. The best defense policy of the United States could be written within a few weeks in a renewed trade treaty with the Japanese. That peaceable treaty would immediately enable the United States to use its fleet in the Atlantic if that's where it is needed. It would not be tied as now to the Pacific. In effect the strength of the fleet would be doubled by cutting half its problem away.

TRAINING YOUNG AMERICA FOR DEFENSE.

THE TRIBUNE waged a campaign for the better part of a year to induce the Chicago board of education to install military training in the city's schools in 1916. As a result of that campaign Capt. Edgar Z. Steever, a regular army officer who, on his own time, had been giving military instruction to high school students in Cheyenne, Wyo., was brought to this city early in 1917 to take charge of the program. With the exception of Capt. Steever's volunteer efforts in Cheyenne, Chicago's program was the first of its kind in the nation.

THE TRIBUNE did not foresee at the time how widely the movement it had initiated would spread and what a vital part of our national defense system it was destined to become. The original cadet corps in the schools was made an R. O. T. C. unit in 1918, and the following year such units were installed in 20 Chicago high schools. There are now 64,000 students enrolled in junior R. O. T. C. units thruout the country, but Chicago still has the largest enrollment of any city, several times as large, in fact, as that in any other city.

It is significant that New York, which is roaring for war, has never put the R. O. T. C. in its high schools. The war mongers in the east expect the western boys to do the fighting, repeating the experience of 1917 when the volunteers in the middle west, in proportion to population, far outnumbered those on the seaboard.

THE TRIBUNE takes great pleasure in the constant support it has given the R. O. T. C. movement and the related Citizens' Military Training camps for nearly a quarter of a century. Our only regret has been that the administration's support of the movement has never been whole hearted and that appropriations have never been sufficient to train all the young men who offer themselves.

THE KNUDSEN COMMITTEE.

A number of things need to be said about the appointment by the President of a committee of seven to "correlate all civilian phases of the 3¼ billion dollar national defense program."

The first is that some of the men selected have been well chosen. Mr. Knudsen, who has been assigned to industrial production, is certainly a top-notcher. Mr. Stettinius of the Steel corporation is also a man of ability. Some of the others including Sidney Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and Ralph Budd of the Burlington railroad are men of proved competence in their special fields.

The second thing to be noted is that the committee has no authority to do anything. It is an advisory committee to the council on national defense. This council consists of Secretary Woodring, Secretary Edison, Secretary Ickes, Secretary Wallace, Secretary Perkins, and Secretary Hopkins. As before, the decisions rest with this group of persons of limited competence. The first-raters of the advisory committee can do nothing more than recommend to the fifth-raters of the cabinet. Mr. Morgenthau, who is in charge of airplane procurement, is not even a member of the council.

The third point to be noted is that the make-up of the committee, with its representatives of agriculture, consumer protection, price stabilization, and transportation, is a clear indication that the attention of the committee is not to be concentrated upon the pressing problem of acquiring the tools of modern war which this country lacks despite the billions which have been spent on the army and navy in recent years. If we are to engage in a war in Europe, we must, of course, arrange to increase the productivity of our farms and solve the immense transportation problems arising from the movement of men and supplies to the eastern ports. Likewise we must take steps to prevent an undue rise in the cost of living. But none of these questions need arise in connection with a speeding up of our procurement of equipment to resist a blitzkrieg. The railroads can readily move all the supplies needed without a committee to tell them how, and there is no conceivable reason for calling in Mr. Chester Davis to "supervise farm production so that supplies will be available for domestic consumption and export" unless we are going to go to war. Incidentally, Mr. Davis' task is an easy one. To obtain adequate supplies of farm products he need only recommend the repealing of all the restrictions on production and marketing introduced by Secretary Wallace.

If Mr. Roosevelt had been interested solely or even primarily in speeding up the production of tanks, airplanes, antiaircraft guns, etc., he would have chosen one man—and he could not have found a better one than Mr. Knudsen—to undertake the job. As Mr. Hoover suggested the other night, the way to get things done is to entrust them to a single responsible person and not to a committee, a notoriously inefficient method of accomplishing any executive task as any one who has sat on a committee knows. Mr. Roosevelt's contribution is a committee to advise a committee.

A useful purpose may be served by the appointments, however. It may be assumed that Mr. Knudsen and Mr. Stettinius, the full-time members, mean to do a job. They expect to procure the desired equipment as rapidly and as cheaply as possible. If they find themselves blocked by dunderheads in the army and navy who can't make up their minds what they want, if the pace of production is retarded by the Walsh-Healey act, government red tape, or something else, Mr. Knudsen and Mr. Stettinius can be expected to request the removal of the obstructions. If that fails, these men can be expected to resign and to tell the country why.

FURTHER PROOF.

Lieut. Gen. Hugh Drum, commanding the 2d army corps area, declared in a speech on May 15 that the United States was unprepared to defend itself. He pointed out that the army could place in the field on this continent on short notice only 80,000 troops. That would be a force perhaps a third as large as the Belgian army which has just capitulated.

Gen. George C. Marshall, the top officer of the army, told the national aviation forum in a speech on Monday that America now faces a monumental task "to overcome the deficiencies of past neglect."

Those who are in charge of the fighting forces of the United States do not share President Roosevelt's high opinion of the progress that has been made in his administration in building up the national defense. Their expert opinion coincides with the view that has been expressed in these columns, that after spending 7 billion dollars on the army and navy the safety of the nation against successful attack has not been made sure.

The money Mr. Roosevelt has asked for is being authorized unanimously by congress. But with so much spent and with results so inadequate, what reason is there to believe that the new expenditures will be more effectively made? If further proof was needed of the desirability of a change of executives at Washington, disclosures of recent weeks have supplied it.

ROSEMARY FOR REMEMBRANCE.

Memorial day it is, for tributes to the memory of the soldier dead. Decoration day it is, for the graves of all the others who are remembered.

* * *

During the last week devout and tender hands have been weeding and planting family lots in the 75 or more cemeteries in and around Chicago. Today there will be a great, quiet pilgrimage to see how the plants are blooming or to place cut flowers. The patriotic societies and veterans' organizations will make sure that no soldier has been forgotten; and the plain folks at home will bring their floral offerings to the lost armies of peace.

* * *

The monument to the fine soldier of Illinois who started all this, Gen. John A. Logan, stands in Grant park, facing any parade that may pass along South Michigan avenue, with its many bronze inscriptions and plaques half destroyed. Bronze work fixed to stone is a hazard for public monuments in large cities. Creatures of the abyss—vandal boys and groggy tramps—steal the metal to sell for a few pennies. They will even make off with the metal markers that the Grand army and the American Legion place on the graves of soldiers.

* * *

The inscriptions on the Logan monument could be restored by stone carving at a cost of about $3,000.

A GOLD STAR MOTHER PRAYS.

Dear Mary, Mother of God, because you know
A cross rough-hewn or one bleached white as snow
By Flanders sun is evidence of peace
That did not come, look down today and ease
All mothers' hearts. When force commands and greed
Leaps high; when justice hides her eyes, I plead
For intercession, that no other sons
Will face the fire of hostile, alien guns.

Bright poppies flooding fields in France today
Until the day your Son sounds reveillé.
Our plans and dreams lie buried, we who weep
Have known futility. Speed the day when
Peace built on brotherhood is ours. Amen.

What's Wrong with the World?—II.

We never have time to think any more! With buzzers and phones interrupting every minute, we can't stop for such a thing at work; our way to and from the office is inevitably accompanied by well meaning friends who require courteous rejoinders as they pause for breath; and our so-called leisure hours are taken up with household duties, doorbells, the radio, and family, and social obligations. I wonder what would happen if we had a world-wide "stop and think Sunday," and we all went by ourselves to think things over quietly for one whole day. When Monday came, I think we'd laugh at the foolish, thoughtless things we've been doing, and realize how shortsighted and pointless most of them actually are. For example, suppose the folks overseas stopped for a day to wonder what they are fighting about!

How to Keep a Map Up to Date.

The lobby of the new Bankers Life company's building in Des Moines, Ia., has maps as mural decorations. On one wall is the United States, with state lines and frontiers clearly marked. Opposite is the world, with no boundaries marked for the countries of Europe and Asia. Thus it is again demonstrated that life insurance executives are planners who take no chances. P. W. Keating.

MEMORIAL DAY PARADE.

There's the tramp . . .
And the tramp and the tramp
And the tramp of marching feet;
They're parading up the street
To the drums' impulsive beat!
There's the red . . .
And the white and the blue,
And the gold of Legionnaires
And the rat-a-tat-tat-a-tat-tat-a-tat-tat
As the high school bugler blares!

Boy Scouts
And Girl Scouts
And Cubs and Brownies, too,
In khaki and green and blue,
Put a lump in the throat of you.

Then with throttled-down motor
That throbs and hums,
The volunteer fire department comes,
With butcher and baker and gray haired chief,
Bringing a measure of smiling relief,
While dogs cavort and neighbors cheer
And so it's done, for another year.

Well, no, it's not entirely done;
A thrice repeated roar of a gun
Over the lilacs and thru the trees,
Borne on the sun warmed Maytime breeze,
Brightly above each veteran's grave.

Back out their cars from the chosen places,
Turn to each other and, worried, say,
"What's the latest war news today?"

Casual.

The World Moves Backward.

If the turning of swords into plowshares is symbolic of the arrival of the millennium, civilization is headed the wrong way. Tanks, which have become the most formidable weapon of land warfare, had their inception on the farm where the soft ground made it necessary to use caterpillar traction on motorized vehicles. From wheat field to battlefield! The millennium in reverse.

Maxellus.

When we find ourselves complaining about wet spring weather, let us be grateful that "it's raining violets" and not bombs. Besse Merrithew.

Lindbergh warned the New Dealers in 1933 about the dangers of using military planes to carry the mail, and they jeered at him. He warned the world last year about the German superiority in aviation, and the internationalists mocked at him as pro-Nazi. He spoke against war hysteria and for stay at home preparedness recently, and they're as sore as boils. Vive Lindbergh!

TROUBLESOME TOENAILS.

THERE is really no such thing as an ingrown toenail. The hornlike substance does not invade the flesh. On the contrary, the soft parts enfold the edges of the nail in a mass of tissue. Under ordinary conditions the sides are perfectly free altho they are overhung by normal skin. Where the hard material meets these margins there are slight grooves.

Sore toes are relatively common, especially among young people. Sometimes the increase in the size of the foot during the years of rapid growth may not be provided for by means of larger shoes. In consequence pressure—both on the nail and on the end of the toe—may be responsible.

As a rule, the great toe only is involved. One reason is that the protective covering is quite narrow in proportion to the width of the structure. In other words, there is far more "wall" on either side than in the case of the fingers. The right "big" toe seems to be more susceptible, altho both feet are affected in a fair proportion of cases.

There are two immediate causes: [1] shoes that are too short or too narrow, and [2] careless cutting of the nail itself. Those who go barefooted rarely if ever suffer while those who are bedridden because of a fairly prolonged illness and who have been afflicted find—when recovery comes—that the difficulty has disappeared.

Of course, we must not forget the rôle of stockings as hose that are not long enough may be at fault. As we can readily understand, when the skin is squeezed firmly against the nail edges, every step is equivalent to a stab with a dull knife. When the toes are in close quarters, the largest is obliged to accept most of the punishment because the others lie at a lower level.

Improper trimming is all too customary. We do not realize that we cannot use the same technique as we do with the fingers. Nevertheless some people clip them far more closely. The practice is universal because our lady friends particularly do not wish to wear holes in their stockings. Now, the more the edge is snipped off, the more deeply imbedded will be that portion which remains. When irritation is detected the victim blames the nail—whereupon the outer corners are again scissored away—leaving a sharp point to press into the flesh.

This makes everything easy and ready for infection. Then come swelling and redness. Soaking the extremities in hot water will bring comfort, but as soon as the oxford is donned in the morning the same process is repeated. Unless something is done for permanent relief, the puffy, tender areas will again overlap what should be a protecting cover. Sooner or later a tiny abrasion may appear. This means that bacteria are invited to gain entrance to the wound. We then face pus formation with a painful, disabling condition. Once microbes have added their forces to the battle there is little to be done other than seek a skilled physician who can remove the piercing fragment—with the aid of an anesthetic.

But if every one will exercise the precaution to cut the nails of all toes straight across—and not too far back so that the horny covering reaches the outermost tip—the trouble will not proceed to the acute stage. But the more we do to get rid of the "biting" margins, the worse off we are.

We can then make certain that footwear is long enough and wide enough. Temporary measures are usually without much value. One may attempt to tuck a bit of sterile gauze between the heaped up cells and the nail but—while this procedure may be helpful occasionally—it will rarely succeed permanently. Naturally—should an abscess arise—it must be opened. Good foot hygiene is the answer.

EGG WHITE.

H. B. writes: Does the white of the egg have any important use when digested?

REPLY.

Yes, an excellent source of protein.

INFUSION.

F. T. writes: What is an infusion?

REPLY.

HEAVY CHILD.

B. A. writes: Can a child who is overweight ever be thought of as undernourished?

REPLY.

Out of balance rather than undernourished. Fats and starches are stored instead of being used up. The protein ration may be too meager. Upon this factor depends muscular development.

CITRIC ACID.

T. S. writes: I was told that grapefruit and oranges give a lot of acid to the system. Is this true?

REPLY.

The fruits mentioned supply citric acid. In the body, this substance is changed into carbon dioxide and water—hence it furnishes alkaline elements.

ACIDOSIS.

Mrs. G. L. writes: My 3 year old daughter has been suffering from acidosis for seven months. She has been on a diet, but she does not seem to improve. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY.

Acidosis may accompany inadequate feeding, such diseases as diabetes, or conditions wherein minerals [alkalis] are lost from the body thru diarrhea, vomiting, etc. Something lies back of the condition, for it is merely a symptom. It may appear as a complication in pneumonia, scarlet fever, measles, etc. The disorder responsible must be treated. For temporary use, soda tablets [sodium bicarbonate] may be employed. Your physician should search for the cause and prescribe the proper remedy.

TODAY IN HISTORY

May 30, 1854

Kansas-Nebraska act passed by congress providing for "popular sovereignty" in the new territory. There was a race between pro and anti-slavery forces to settle the new country and determine its future. Emigrant aid societies were formed in the antislavery east, and Missouri slaveholders posted claims and warned away the "free soilers." There were election frauds and finally much violence between the opposing factions.

ECHOES FROM OUR LAST WAR.

Chicago, May 29.—Once again a drum and bugle corps composed entirely of disabled veterans of the world war will march down Michigan boulevard on Memorial day, even tho our uniforms are getting seedy looking and our instruments are getting tarnished.

Our war disabilities make it almost impossible for some of us to pound the drums all the way to the end of the march, and the gas we got into our lungs "over there" makes it hard for some of us to blow every note, but we will be in there trying.

Most of the spectators won't see us as we are now so few in number, and quite a few of them won't even hear us as we are getting weaker every year, but we feel in our hearts that our buddies under their crosses "row on row" over there will hear every note. VETERAN.

THE THIRD HELPING.

Michigan City, Ind., May 27.—When I was 10 years old I went with my parents and sisters to a Thanksgiving dinner at the home of one of my uncles. Altogether, it was a family party of six adults and twice as many children. Everything went off fine to my way of thinking until we got back home.

"Son," said my father, "I think I shall drag you across my knee and give you a good spanking. After all the pains your mother has taken to teach you good table manners, you brought shame to all of us. You passed your plate for a third serving—even specifying 'a little more of the stuffing, please!' Think of it! Stuffing yourself like a pig after everybody else was thru!"

The trouncing I got that day, in spite of the pleas of my dear mother, I have never forgotten.

How about table manners down at the White House? Is somebody going to get a good spanking before the year is over for passing the presidential platter for a third serving? As I understand it, George Washington himself established the rule that no invited guest to Uncle Sam's table should ever be permitted to receive more than a second helping. This wise rule of "White House table manners" has never been violated and it will not be violated now if every patriotic American citizen goes to the polls next November and discharges the duty he owes to his country.

FLAGS IN THE WINDOWS.

Elmhurst, Ill., May 28.—With two national holidays approaching would it not be opportune for Chicago and Chicagoland to revive that American custom of displaying the American flag, big or small, in the window of every home? True, we see a flag here and there, but there are thousands of homes that for some reason do not observe this outward act of devotion to their country.

AN AMERICAN MOTHER.

ONE OF HIS PESTS.

Chicago, May 27. — Among the many pests who give me a pain is the "gink" who always must draw a map on the back of a sales slip or card whenever he discusses the present war with you. And it is a foregone conclusion that, if you were to ask him what the Great Bahama bank is, he'd tell you: "A financial institution." MAXIMILIAN E. HUHNKE.

HER BROTHER SACRIFICED.

Chicago, May 29.—The writer had a brother killed in a shell hole in France, Oct. 10, 1918. God deliver our country from the war mongers.

THE GOOD AND THE BAD NEWS.

Chicago, May 28. — Last Sunday an American, Mr. George Herbert Jones, laid the cornerstone of the new Wesley hospital. Mr. Jones had donated more than 3 million dollars for the building of this monument of civic benevolence.

This hospital was dedicated to the people of Chicago with the hopes that the medical assistance they might derive from its scientific planning might help humanity in its course toward a fuller and better life. The construction of this building will provide a great number of Chicago's building mechanics with opportunity to continue the practice of their trades.

In a remote corner of your Monday issue you found a place to comment on the ceremony of this dedication while your front pages blazed with the unauthentic news of a war in Europe.

Please, for America's sake, print for each line of war news on your front page, an adjoining column of good that is being done in this nerve racking world and so give right an equal chance to defeat might. E. PHILLIPS.

"HALSTED STREET—1940."

Chicago, May 27.—To realize to the full extent the remarkably valuable and constructive work by Jane Addams and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, one should see the play, "Halsted Street—1940!"

It is a masterpiece in tolerance, good neighbor acts, etc. Mrs. Bowen and associates deserve all the "flowers" you can bestow on them. DAVID DEGEN.

A BUSTED TRIAL BALLOON.

Chicago, May 29.—After the New Deal coalition trial balloon exploded and became a stench bomb, President Roosevelt said:

"The idea was cockeyed."

He is adept repudiating trial balloons that backfire, and cabinet stooges are the goats. H. B. F.

WHY AND WHAT FOR?

Chicago, May 27.—As long as you have space for such a silly letter as today's "Two Young Wives," perhaps you could find space also for a silly question:

A POLE'S VIEWPOINT.

WAGE AND HOUR LAW.

Chicago, May 24 [Legal Friend of the People].—Can you tell me if there is a minimum wage and maximum hour law [for waitresses] in effect in Chicago? If there is how can I see to it that I am not forced to work 50 to 70 hours per week for 17½ cents an hour? I don't want to lose my job. R. C.

The 1937 eight hour law, based on the older 10 hour law, reads as follows:

"No female shall be employed in any mechanical or mercantile establishment or factory or laundry or hotel or restaurant or barber shop or beauty parlor or telegraph or telephone establishment or office thereof or any place of amusement or by any person, firm or corporation engaged in any express or transportation or public utility business or by any common carrier or in any public or private institution or office thereof, incorporated or unincorporated in this state, more than eight hours during any one day."

The Department of Labor, 205 W. Wacker drive, is provisionally interpreting "private institution" as an asylum, charity, college, etc., owned or operated by private individuals as distinguished from one operated by the state. The act excepts, with certain qualifications, nurses, phone, and telegraph operators with sleeping facilities, emergency operation of public utilities, canning establishments in season, nonmercantile long day staggered with a short day, and mercantile nine hour day or 54 hour week for not over four weeks per year.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LAND APPRAISAL.

Chicago, May 24 [Legal Friend of the People]. — A farmer has 40 acres and wishes to sell six. 1. What must he do to give a deed and abstract? Or clear title to the buyer?

2. Could he measure off six acres of land without a licensed surveyor and give a deed to the buyer.

3. Whom could a person get to appraise the acreage land? B. B.

1. He can employ an abstract maker to make and certify a copy of his present abstract. Executing the deed will be substantially like executing any other deed.

2. Yes, if both parties are satisfied.

CLEAN POLITICS BILL IS SENT TO FLOOR OF HOUSE

Resurrected by Vote of 16 to 8 in Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—The Hatch clean politics bill, bottled up in the house judiciary committee for many weeks, was reported favorably to the house today by a vote of 16 to 8. Ten Republicans joined six Democrats to resurrect the measure over the opposition of eight Democrats.

Passed by the senate after a long controversy, the measure was scheduled for death in the house via the committee pigeon-holing method. Tabling of the measure was once approved by an announced vote of 14 to 11. A scandal developed when 16 committee members declared they had voted against tabling. A petition to discharge the judiciary committee from its authority over the bill gained the signatures of 150 of the required 218 house members.

Finally Yields to Pressure.

The judiciary committee then yielded to this public pressure and revived the bill. A number of minor amendments were added before it was reported to the house today.

Representative John J. Dempsey (D., N. M.), house sponsor of the legislation, said he would demand an early house vote.

The measure extends to state employés paid wholly or in part with federal funds the prohibition now in force against federal employés indulging in political activity. Penalty for violation of the act would be dismissal from the violator's position. There are provisions granting any accused person a jury trial and requiring that findings be supported by evidence to be sustained in a court review.

Limits Campaign Funds.

Other provisions included a limitation of $3,000,000 on the amount a national committee could spend in one political campaign; a limitation of $5,000 on the amount any individual or committee might contribute to a political campaign, and a requirement that jobholders resign before running for office, with a provision that those already in political races may hold office during their current campaigns. If they resign their present positions upon taking office.

The committee vote follows:

DEMOCRATS—Emanuel Celler [N. Y.], Arthur D. Healey [Mass.], Charles F. McLaughlin [Neb.], Abe Murdock [Utah], John H. Tolan [Cal.], Sam Massingale [Okla.].

REPUBLICANS—U. S. Guyer [Kas.], Clarence E. Hancock [N. Y.], Earl C. Michener [Mich.], John M. Robsion [Ky.], Chauncey W. Reed [Ill.], John W. Gwynne [Ia.], Louis E. Graham [Pa.], B. J. Onkiewicz [Conn.], Raymond S. Springer [Ind.], and Albert L. Vreeland [N. J.].

AGAINST REVIVING BILL—8.

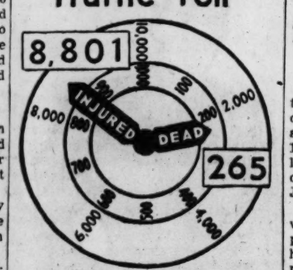
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: So Much Good in the Worst of Us

THE MASSACRE
Chicago's 1940 Traffic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an urban superhighway.

BERWYN WOMAN KILLED AS TRAIN DEMOLISHES CAR

Mrs. Margaret McKee, 34 years old, was killed last night when an eastbound flyer of the Burlington railroad struck her car at the crossing at Cowley road in Riverside. Mrs. McKee, who lived at 3256 South Maple avenue, Berwyn, was alone in the car.

Fred Meystrik, 56, of 2630 South Christiana avenue, was killed when he was struck early today as he crossed Kedzie avenue at 27th street by a car driven by Thomas Fogli, 23, of 4424 Greenview avenue.

The most dangerous thorofare in Chicago from the point of view of traffic deaths is Halsted street, where 10 persons were injured fatally in the first four months of the year, according to George W. Fleming, general secretary of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee.

Ashland avenue, with nine deaths, was second, and Roosevelt road and Archer avenue tied for third with seven deaths each.

No traffic deaths were reported in Cook county for the 24 hours ending at 4 p. m. yesterday. Up to that time 343 persons had been killed in the county since Jan. 1. Of these, 265 died in Chicago, where 8,801 were injured in the same period.

MARY ANDERSON, FAMED ACTRESS AND BEAUTY, DIES

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—Mary Anderson De Navarro, 80 year old American born actress, ill several years, died in Worcestershire today.

Born in Sacramento, Cal., July 28, 1859, she was educated at the Ursuline convent and Presentation academy, Louisville, Ky., and went on the stage when she was 16. In 1890 she married Antonio De Navarro. He died in 1932.

Her beauty and talent were admired on both sides of the Atlantic. She retired at the height of her career, at 30, because of illness. Many inducements were offered her to return, but she resisted until the world war when she appeared to help war charities. She was co-author with Robert S. Hichens in the dramatization of his novel, "The Garden of Allah," produced in New York in 1911 and revived in London ten years later.

H. B. GROMMON, 77, DIES; VETERAN FARM LEADER

Homer B. Grommon, 77 years old, former president of the Farmers' National Grain Dealers' association, died yesterday in his farm home six and one-half miles northeast of Plainfield, Will county.

Mr. Grommon, an outspoken critic of New Deal farm policies, was a director of the Transportation Association of America. He was at one time a member of the Will county board and during the war was chairman of a county draft exemption board.

Mr. Grommon was born in Garden Prairie, Boone county, but had lived in Wheatland township for the last 63 years. He leaves a son, Frank, and three daughters, Agnes, Sarah, and Helen. Services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the DuPage Presbyterian church, south of Naperville, with burial in Wheatland cemetery.

COURT REJECTS DEATH BED WILL MADE BY SIGNS

The Appellate court refused yesterday to recognize a death bed will which Miss Marie Burk, 47 years old, said Dr. Frank A. Stahl made by signs when he was no longer able to talk.

Miss Burk, who lives at 4517 Wrightwood avenue, said that Dr. Stahl spelled out "closet" by pointing at the letters of an alphabet. She looked in the closet of his room and found $25,000 worth of securities, which she said he placed in her hands, indicating that he means them for her. Witnesses said that Dr. Stahl, a gynecologist who died in 1936 at the age of 73, lived in Miss Burk's home at one time.

WILLKIE CONFERS WITH LEADERS OF G. O. P. IN ILLINOIS

Tells of Plans; Rakes New Deal Policies.

Wendell L. Willkie, New York utilities executive, discussed his informal campaign for the Republican nomination for president, with more than 100 Illinois Republican leaders at a luncheon in the Palmer House yesterday, at which Henry A. Gardner and James H. Douglas Jr. were hosts.

While Willkie said frankly that he would be highly gratified if the Republicans chose him next month and he would be doubly grateful if his opponent were President Roosevelt, his campaign is still an informal one in the sense that he is not asking delegate votes, volunteer committees are working for him, and he has no national organization.

Candidates at Luncheon.

Ten delegates to the national convention and many group leaders and candidates were present at the luncheon. Dwight H. Green, candidate for governor and Wayland Brooks, candidate for United States senator, were at the speaker's table. Willkie gave the whole story of his candidacy with a frankness unusual among politicians, and urged the delegates to vote for the man they thought could win in November.

In an interview later Willkie said:

"The basis for any foreign policy today is to be strong at home. If we are strong in our own domestic economy Hitler never will strike at us.

"We must put in as much unity as possible in the next five months and then put in an administration that can command unity.

Put Men to Work, He Urges.

"How to be strong at home? We must first rehabilitate our domestic economy and change it for one that will put men back to work. Our defense mechanism must be a complete coöperation with industry.

"The primary fault of the present administration is its basic policy. It has spent 60 billions, and we have a debt of 45 billions. There are 10 millions unemployed and the people are in discord, with fear on the part of business. If we had recovered from the depression as we did from others we would have an income of 125 billions, and the only reason we did not is the policies of the present administration."

A. K. Stiles, former Republican state chairman, is the Willkie committee head in Illinois. Willkie will leave today for Topeka, Kas., where he will talk with Alf M. Landon.

AIR FRAUDULENT USE OF DRIVER'S LICENSE RULING

Foil Hoodlum Plot to Escape Fines.

Hoodlums were revealed yesterday to be using the new state drivers' license law to escape punishment when they are arrested for violating traffic regulations. They insist that their driver's license be accepted as bond, as required by law, and then never return for trial.

By telling the secretary of state's office that they have lost the license, they can purchase a duplicate for $1. Thus they avoid paying a fine or going to jail.

50 Dodge Law in Cicero.

More than 50 motorists have dodged the law's punishment by this method in Cicero, according to Police Magistrate Henry J. Sandusky. The police magistrate said he has found by investigation that virtually all of those who failed to return had obtained duplicates.

Leslie Smith, attorney for the Chicago Motor club, said he is informed that La Grange authorities are holding a dozen licenses under the same circumstances.

The situation was brought to light by the arrest of Harry Slater of 550 Arlington place, a former employé of the Illinois Commerce commission, on a speeding charge in Cicero. The Cicero police refused to accept his driver's license as bond. Slater was forced to post $25 bond. He appealed to the motor club.

Take Steps to End Frauds.

When his trial was called yesterday, the police and magistrate explained the fraud that was being practiced on them by hoodlums. To prevent its continuation, they said, the police now file charges of violating the Cicero traffic ordinances against offenders instead of invoking the state traffic law. The police are not required to accept licenses as bond under their local ordinances.

Slater was fined $1 and costs.

But the case already had begun a widespread investigation. Charles Myles of the secretary of state's office attended the trial as an observer, that machinery may be set in motion to stop the fraud.

Filing of Charges Planned.

He said that those who have cheated the law probably will be charged with falsifying their applications for duplicate licenses.

Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the motor club, said strict enforcement of the license law will prevent such frauds. Courts, he said, are responsible for notifying the secretary of state within three days after a motorist using his license for bond has failed to appear for trial.

The courts, he said, have power to punish such motorists by revoking their license, fining them up to $100, or punishing them for perjury in case the motorists have falsified to get a duplicate license.

OBITUARIES

Charles A. Engelbracht.

Attorney Charles A. Engelbracht, 68 years old, a member of the American consular service for many years, died yesterday in the Auditorium hotel. Mr. Engelbracht, whose summer home was at Frankfort, Mich., was born at Berlin, Wis., and attended the University of Wisconsin. He was attached to the consular service at Shanghai, China, and in the Philippines for about 13 years prior to 1918, when he resumed law practice in Chicago. He is survived by his widow, Abby Higgins Engelbracht. Services will be held at Berlin tomorrow.

Brig. Gen. Lewis L. Field

Rev. E. Robert Fulkerson.

Canon City, Colo., May 29 (AP).—The Rev. E. Robert Fulkerson, 81 years old, former United States vice consul at Nagasaki, Japan, and president of a boys' school there for 18 years, died today. He was a field representative of the national board of missions of the Methodist Episcopal church for 25 years.

John J. Riley.

John J. Riley of the Riley-Weingart Clothing company, Aurora, died yesterday in his home at 427 South La Salle street, Aurora. He was 61 years old and a lifelong resident of that community. He leaves his widow, Mayme; a son, John Jr., a daughter, Sister Mary Jeanette of St. Mary of the Woods college, Indiana, and a sister, Mrs. Leander W. Hagerty of Chicago. Services will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in St. Mary's church, Aurora, with burial in Spring Lake cemetery.

Frank Collett O'Boyle.

Funeral services for Frank Collett O'Boyle, 64 years old, associated with the Barron G. Collier corporation for 25 years, will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the Covenant Methodist church, Evanston. Burial will be at Danville, Ill. Mr. O'Boyle died Tuesday in his home at 618 Clark street, Evanston, after a long illness. He leaves his widow, Mabel, five daughters and two sons.

Commander of Aircraft Carrier Saratoga Dies

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—Capt. Robert Patter Molten, commander of the aircraft carrier Saratoga, died yesterday aboard his ship. Death was caused by coronary thrombosis. The Saratoga was with the fleet, presumably in Hawaiian waters. Capt. Molten had commanded the carrier since March 15, when he was transferred from the office of chief of naval operations here. He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth Wylly Molten of Chevy Chase, Md.

This Is Yacht Clubs' Big Day: Season Opens

BY JUDITH CASS.

MEMORIAL day always is a great day to lovers of parades, to golfing enthusiasts, to those who enjoy the auto races at Indianapolis, and to those who take the opportunity for a long week-end in the country. But for yachtsmen it is a day set apart, for the yachting season starts officially.

There will be flag raising ceremonies and the boom of starting guns all the way from the south side to Lake Geneva, Wis. The Chicago Yacht club, entering its 65th year, will have ceremonies this morning at its Belmont harbor clubhouse and on Saturday at its Monroe street station. A buffet luncheon will be served at the Belmont clubhouse today, followed by races of various classes of craft, and a buffet supper. There will be a tea at the Monroe street station next Wednesday for new members.

The Jackson Park, which is to have a new clubhouse this summer; the Racine, Milwaukee, Southern Shore, and Chicago Corinthian Yacht clubs are all holding initial races this afternoon.

"A" boats will race this morning and "E" boats this afternoon at the Lake Geneva Yacht club. The first regular meeting of members will be held on Sunday, Commodore Harold R. Hough has announced. Weekly races for points for all classes of yachts will be held until June 29 when the first important cup race of 1940 for the Dr. Otto L. Schmidt memorial trophy will be held.

Challenge to Make Its First Public Appearance.

This morning will mark the first public appearance of the "A" boat, Challenge, under its new owner and skipper, A. Frederick Gartz Jr., who purchased the yacht recently from a former commodore of the club, Col. William N. Pelouze. Mr. Gartz has presented his championship-winning "A" boat, Big Foot Too, to his son, Freddie.

The sailing school for junior sailors again conducted by Herbert Taylor will begin the last week in June. New members of the Yacht club are Oscar G. Mayer and his son, Oscar Jr., who owns and skippers an "E" boat.

The Big Foot Country club at Lake Geneva will be opened officially today. Its president is Dr. Arthur R. Colwell of Evanston. The Chicago District Golfers association will hold a one day handicap tournament on June 7 at the Big Foot.

An army of gardeners, house cleaners, and decorators has been working at top speed in Lake Geneva getting lake shore homes in readiness. The Rawleigh Warners have spent several week-ends at their summer cottage. Mrs. Charles H. Wacker and Mrs. Earle Zimmerman have been occupied with the building of a new driveway at Fairlawn, their estate. Mr. Zimmerman has gone to Arizona for a brief stay.

Mrs. Clara Grommes Rehm and her little granddaughter, Roxanne LaRoche, are at Mrs. Rehm's home, All View, and the Addin P. Kayes have returned from Sarasota to their house on the grounds of the Chicago club. The two available cottages at the club have been taken by the Sanford B. Whites, who will occupy the John W. Fowler house, and Dr. and Mrs. Horace Lyons, who will have the Frederick G. Wacker cottage.

The Harry Doerings of River Forest have purchased the O. R. Hillstrom house on the south shore of the lake and will be permanent summer residents.

Group of Young Folk Going on Bicycle Trip.

Something new in the way of a Memorial day divertissment has been arranged by a group of young people who are going on a bicycle trip. Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams III., Frederick H. Scott Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Fentress, Miss Suzanne Morris, Miss Barbara Bastien, and some others are taking a train to a point in Wisconsin where they will mount bikes and spend part of the day pedaling thru the countryside. They will have luncheon at some little country inn.

The junior Denis E. Sullivans are flying down to Indianapolis for the automobile races with her brother, Wrigley Offield. They will take off for New York, where Mr. Sullivan has to be tomorrow on business, after the races.

The junior Philip D. Armours left last night by train, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Swigart Jr. motored down yesterday. Chalkley Jay Hambleton Jr., J. de Navarre Macomb Jr., and Rosecrans Baldwin are others who will be in the grandstands at one of the dangerous turns.

Several Chicagoans departed yesterday to spend the long Memorial week-end in comparative relaxation. The fishing at Coleman Lake, Wis., attracted the Michael Cudahys, who left with Gordon Palmer and the Walter Colemans to be away until Monday. The A. Watson Armours also had planned to be at Coleman Lake this week-end, but their trip has been postponed for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler departed yesterday for Harbor Point, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Press Hodgkins, accompanied by the junior John Cuff Notes.

Add Chicago literary renaissance notes: Peter De Vries, associate editor of Poetry magazine, has written a humorous novel, Who Wakes the Bugler, which will be printed soon. . . . And Mrs. L. Moholy-Nagy, wife of the head of the school of design, has an article in the current Harper's. She is the author of several novels and of a number of magazine articles. . . . George Dillon, editor of Poetry, will give a series of lectures at the University of Chicago this summer. . . . That handsome young man with the camera you may have seen about town these last few days is Jerome Zerbe, taking photographs of Chicago beauties for a fashion magazine. . . . The tall, blonde woman in the rose hat who lunched with friends at the Arts club yesterday was Dorothy Wright Liebes, San Francisco's famous weaver woman and designer of textiles, who last year headed the decorative arts exhibit at the San Francisco World's Fair. . . . Which is the best we can do on the goings-on of the town from the Passavant hospital bed where we are spending this week.

SPRING SUNSHINE ON OHIO STREET.

The houses here are smiling
Tho they're worn and very old,
For May has bathed and tinted them
In warm white gold.

Yesteryear Note.

(In the morning mail.)

Whatever has become of Cati Mount. She of the flaming toenails, art fairs, and entrepreneur of "artistic" exhibits. . . .

I used to work for her in the 1934 World's Fair, at "Merrie England," in an "artistic" sideshow called "Lady Godiva." This brilliant exhibit depicted the ride of the famous lady. However, the stage was too small for the horse, so we altered the theme a little. Instead of showing the actual ride we showed the lady on her way to the horse and the return from the ride. In other words, the modest little miss flitted across the stage twice, to the chagrin of the paying customers. O, yes, they also received a bit of dialog on this historical event. Our paramount interest was not concerned with the disgruntled customers, but keeping out the drafts so our star would not get pneumonia.

We did not make a lot of money, but we certainly had a lot of fun.

Ridge Artists Open Striking Show in Loop

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Ridge Art association has just opened a delightful exhibit at the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, to run to June 15. It is a gay and diversified show with emphasis on excellence placed upon the work in still life.

Leslie Binner offers a stunning study, "Japanese Latern"; Betty Gaston Bossi gives us "Day Shadows," a most unusual water color arrangement; Claude Buck is represented by a brilliant composition, "Zinnias" [as well as an intriguing self-portrait], and Smit Derk and Hazel Pronger both are worth investigating, the first for "Red Vase" and Miss Pronger for "Simplicity."

Tunis Ponsen contributes four paintings of merit, "Lifting Fog" with its grays being particularly fine. Mildred Heatherington has achieved a likable sense of relaxation in her clever study of a Negro boy, "Lazy Bones." L. M. Forbes swells the list of distinctive still lifes with his attractive painting and Nan Rice gives us two effective portraits, on a cunning child, "Jean," and the other, "Portrait of Frances," a young girl, beautifully expressed and the last canvas to have come from Mrs. Rice's able brush.

The South Side Art association, a group of painters who rank with those of the Ridge Art association—indeed in some instances the membership overlaps—is offering an entertaining and vivid exhibit at the Sherry hotel, 54th street and the lake. This is an unjuried show; the association has a more formal, juried exhibit hanging at the Auditorium hotel.

Among the likable paintings at the Sherry are "Portrait of Elizabeth Bensberg" by Nan Rice, "Pots of Flowers" by Louise Wilson [unusually well done], "Portrait" by Winifred Pleimling, "Zinnias" by Florence Ezzell Stevenson, "Autumn Fantasy" by William Eppens, "Northeast Gale" by Louis Jensen, "Still Life" by Zona Murray, and "In Trouble" by Harold B. Wolffs.

A stunning group of paintings of boats by Frank Vining Smith is at the Findlay galleries, 424 South Michigan avenue, to June 15. No one should miss it who cares for crowded canvas and blue seas. At the Findlay galleries, too, are water colors by Kenneth How and Helen Gaspen Oehler, two young eastern painters recommended by George Elmer Browne. Kenneth How seems particularly gifted; his work is strong, solid, colorful, and stirring. Another young American artist to watch.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

For your spring and summer costumes, which will probably be gayer and jauntier than they've been in years, you'll want your face to be pretty, gay, and jaunty, too. A casual, youthful hairdress, a lovely, healthy-looking complexion, and a lipstick that dramatizes the whole ensemble should be on your order book.

You can worry about the clothes, and by all means do what you can about the complexion—but we can tell you right bang off about the lipstick. It's the exciting candy cane red, and it's really something.

It shouldn't take you a minute to visualize that color. Candy canes were probably one of the pleasures of your childhood, and if you were anything like us, all that pleasure wasn't in the eating. Part of it was in feasting your eyes on the lovely red stripes that gave the canes such a special kind of oomph.

The lipstick shade has that same electric quality and, of course, it's the most beautiful kind of a shade to wear with frosty white clothes. There is a rouge to wear with it, and a nail enamel and if you don't like all three we'll take up another profession.

"Chum" ..... Baby Quintanilla

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

A "rose by any name" is said to "smell as sweet." By the same token "Forty Little Mothers" manages to intrigue much after the manner of the French film "Forty Girls and a Baby." Both are versions of the French comedy, "Monsieur Petiot."

Truth compels me to say that the foreign adaptation featuring Lucien Baroux had rather more finesse.

The former runs more to the burlesque side at times. But on the whole, the piece is comedy, cleverly contrived, and the guy in three cornered pants whose necessity makes frantic mothers of forty seminary misses and turns Eddie Cantor into the papa of a boy for once in his life, is the dearest thing that's cooed from a screen in many a long day. Baby Quintanilla, come up and see us again, please—SOON!

The story is—as I said in the other review, built on the "Bachelor Mother" theme. Only—as I said before—the baby in this case has forty bachelor mothers and one bachelor father. . . .

Said father is a professor who, after a long season of unemployment, at last lands a job teaching in a fashionable girls' school. On the eve of his embarkation on the new job he finds an abandoned baby, is won over by the desolate little stranger's charms and smuggles him into the school. . . .

The girls thereof are exceeding wroth over the departure of their beloved Prof. Lang with whom they had all fallen in love and who has been dismissed for that very reason. . . . For a time the new prof is unmercifully hazed by them, idea being to send him on his way. And then, they discover the baby. . . . And a few quiet words from the harried man put them to shame and make them his allies forever. . . . See pix for further developments.

The film has a lot of laughs and, in several places, sets you fumbling for your hanky.

You'll like Eddie. He sure knows his way about with an infant—and why not?

Infant Welfare Members to Turn Cooks for Day

Members of the Junior Hinsdale center of the Infant Welfare society will prepare and serve the food at the annual Hinsdale horse show, June 15 and 16, at the Oak Brook Polo club. Mrs. Junius F. Cook Jr., appropriately enough, is in charge of the refreshment committee. Adding to the entertainment of the show will be an exhibition by the Kuban Cossacks, a crack riding group of the Chicago Black Horse troop. The Infant Welfare society will receive the proceeds form the show.

Dolores Costello Sues Barrymore on Old Loan

New York, May 29 (AP).—Dolores Costello, in a suit filed today in State Supreme court, charged that her one time husband, John Barrymore, still owes her $3,650 on an old loan of $5,250. She asked $500 counsel fee and said Barrymore stopped making payments on Feb. 1, 1939. Her motion for a judgment is returnable Friday.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

The Passing Show.

Hollywood, Cal., May 29.—Last Saturday night, for the first time in 13 years, Walter Connolly called up the "Hoyle Poker club" in session for its regular Saturday night-to-dawn scuffle, and said that he couldn't make it. . . . "These varicose veins are still bothering me," he reported. . . . Thirty minutes later his chauffeur arrived with Connolly's checks for his losses of the previous Saturday night, and now Connolly is dead. . . . Hollywood is genuinely sad, because he was a fine human being. . . . I trust that at the Hollywood Park race track meeting they remember to sound "taps" for him, because horses were his passion [not to bet on, because he bet big only once]. . . . It was at Santa Anita that Walter bet $50 across the board on a horse. . . . The rumor had swept the track that Aces Wild was a sure thing, that the stable was betting heavily. . . . The bartender told Connolly to make a good bet . . . the horse finished dead last. . . . "I'm sorry," said the bartender, apologetically, "but it was a tip right from the stable." . . . Connolly nodded: "Don't feel badly. I own the horse; I'm the 'stable.' You touted me onto my own horse."

On the same day George Lamaze died. . . . While Lamaze, as a restaurateur, did not reach as many people as Connolly reached on the screen, George was a character in his own right. . . . He loved to prepare food and he was a great showman in its preparation, and in his spare time he fancied himself quite an athlete and liked to haunt the spring training camps of the big league teams. . . . He ranked with the all-time greats of the restaurant field, and like most artists of whatever line, he was improvident and careless of money. . . . "I don't need money," he told me once when I chided him. "All I want is a kitchen, some food to cook and a stove to cook it on."

Random thought: I wonder what Belgium's heroic Cardinal Mercier would have thought of King Leopold? . . . Joe Pasternak will use Tony Moreno in the Marlene Dietrich flicker. . . . Don't be surprised to see the picture lead to a terrific comeback on Moreno's part, because Pasternak's magic touch accomplishes miracles out here. . . . At Lakeside, Clark Gable boasting to Carole Lombard that he shot an 87, and Carole beaming. . . . Edgar Bergen and Joan Valerie dancing to Joe Reichman's swell music at Cocoanut Grove. . . . Keep an eye on that Ruth Frazee-Norman Krasna romance.

Short, short story: In his first picture in this country, Charles Boyer, now the heart-throb of the world, played the part of a chauffeur. . . . Because of his limited knowledge of English, Boyer repeatedly ruined the scene, and finally the exasperated director barked: "Some day, maybe you'll learn to say six words in English." . . . Years later, after he made "Conquest" with Garbo, Boyer ran into the director who had bawled him out. . . . "I can say six words now," smiled Boyer. . . . "They paid me exactly $135,000."

No great story of the war has yet come out of a Hollywood studio. . . . The reason is that Hollywood is still afraid to come out and tell the truth. . . . You can't tell a modern war story and make it strong enough to follow the newsreels that precede it, unless you admit into the framework the story of the frightened acquiescence of the allies to the reoccupation of the Rhineland, the story of the Munich betrayal of Czecho-Slovakia, the failure to aid Poland or Finland, the failure to support Anthony Eden, the sending of a flunkey to negotiate a Russian pact, the disorganized adventure in Norway. . . . The present situation did not just happen. . . . It was as much allied disorganization as it was Nazi organization. . . . If Hollywood is to turn out a war story that will mean something to audiences, the prologue will have to show the allied generals reading "Mein Kampf" and enjoying it under the impression that it was fiction. . . . Audiences know these things; the movies ignore them.

"Waterloo Bridge" turned out satisfactorily because the movies used the war as a background against which to pose the interesting situations of a love story. . . . But once the movies try to delve into the politics and morals and ideologies of the war, they are way over their heads and not as interesting as the short wave broadcasts. . . . Now we will have a cycle of fifth column movies. . . . The real fifth column was lack of honor, irresolution, aged fussbudgets like Chamberlain who carried an umbrella, altho it is to be doubted that he knew when it was raining.

Some day some producer will attack the subject of war obliquely and tell the dramatic story of a table. . . . The story would start with a Czech planting the seed of a tree in the forests of Czecho-Slovakia, the growth of the tree symbolizing the growth of the nation. . . . Then the tree, full grown, would be chopped down and sent to the lumberyard and the planers; and made into a table . . . the table at Munich across which the allies bartered the freedom of the Czechs. . . . It seems to me that such a tree and such a table would be more eloquent than any academy award winner, because on that table the maps of Europe were rewritten, and on that table men signed the death warrants of millions of men. . . . The forests that produced a Charlie McCarthy also produce those terrible tables that statesmen use at places like Versailles and Munich.

The Housewife

Women interested in fine furniture have an opportunity to see a number of interesting tiny reproductions of American colonial pieces which are on view here. These miniatures are made by a Boston furniture company and are duplicates of many of the large items in the line. So painstakingly done was the work on each little copy that it took 12 craftsmen 3,600 hours to make 50 chairs, tables, beds, cabinets, etc. All the miniatures are seen in appropriate room settings.

White Orchids Fill Shops for 30 Day Reign

BY REA SEEGER.

All thru the merry month of May when out of door garden buds and flowers were getting all the attention, nurserymen were coddling, petting, and pampering the canhamiana orchids against the romantic 30 days and nights of June. Canhamianas are the glorious snowy white orchids with magenta lips that only bloom in profusion for a month and that month usually June. They are extra large, with lovely fluttery white sepals and they are the only orchids that have that beautiful magenta contrast. Prices, too, are as exciting as the beauty of the blooms.

There are a couple of florist windows in town that show these romantic June orchids growing on trees, and these windows are well worth a sightseeing trip to town. Dozens of them fill the space, single blooms, two and even three clustered together all ready for bridal bouquets, suit jacket lapels, for wedding tables, for graduates, and all the summer parties that reach a peak in June.

They're packed with loving care, delivered in dramatic white or cellophane boxes. Some come with a tiny water filled tube with the stem inserted to keep them fresh and dewy. No foliage or ribbon is needed. Most florists simply wrap the stems in white or pastel tinted wrapping tape.

Orchids of all kinds and colors last surprisingly long with care for four to six days. They are as perfect with chiffons, gleaming bridal satins, with sophisticated daytime dresses of dull summer silk crêpes as they are with smartly cut tweeds and summer woolens. But the loveliest of all the beautiful orchids are these June beauties in white that are so plentiful and modestly priced for the next 30 days.

This Is Yacht Clubs' Big Day: Season Opens

P. Wilsons, left for their farm at Bengal, Mich.

Several New Babies Are Centers of Interest.

Moulton Loyal Andrus is the name Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Andrus [Dorelle Moulton] have given their first child, a boy born at the Doctors' hospital in New York on May 28. The baby is a grandson of the William A. Moultons of Kenilworth.

Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Miller [Florence Lowden] haven't yet named their second son, born on May 25 at the Chicago Lying-In hospital. Also nameless is the Sidney S. Gorhams' [Corinne McVoy] third son, born on May 22 at the Presbyterian hospital.

The Walter Webb Crawfords [Frances Richardson] have named their third son John Robert. The baby was born on May 21 at St. Luke's. Two other babies of interest here were born recently in New York. The junior Ralph H. Pooles [Kitty Wickes] became the parents of a daughter on April 20. The junior Charles F. Boweys' first child, a boy, was born on May 15. Mrs. Bowey Sr. and Mrs. Donald F. Bowey have gone to New York to see the baby.

Granddaughter Is Visiting Austin D. Jenkinses.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin D. Jenkins have their baby granddaughter, Martha Ritchie Munro, staying with them until her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Munro, and their young son move into their new home in Northbrook. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins will go east next month to bring home their younger daughters, Miss Janet Jenkins, who is being graduated from the Northampton School for Girls, and Miss Ann Jenkins, who is a member of the faculty of the school. Miss Janet Jenkins is among this season's debutantes.

Mrs. Richard S. Bull and the Howard V. O'Briens are rejoicing in a visit from their twin granddaughters, Sheila and Kathleen O'Brien, and their parents, the Bayne O'Briens [Ellen Bull]. Young Mr. and Mrs. Bull and the twins, 11 months old, are living in Santa Fe, N. M.

Miss Sally Bull is remaining at Smith college until after commencement. Mary Constance Bull, a student at Chatham Hall, probably will visit a classmate, Mary Ballard, at the summer home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard, in Maine, before returning to Winnetka.

Penn Hall Alumnae Hold Luncheon on June 15

The annual luncheon of the Chicago Penn Hall Alumnæ club will be held on June 15 in the Crystal room of the Palmer House. Dr. Frank S. Magill, head of the college, will come from Chambersburg, Pa., to address the meeting. Colored motion pictures will be shown. The committee in charge includes Miss Betty Kettlety, Miss Jean Prosser, Miss Marjorie Beebe, president of the alumnæ; Miss Virginia Clink, Miss Muriel Beach and Miss Jane Ward.

On the House

If you are concerned with making some room or rooms cooler in hot weather, there is a plate glass which you can use which absorbs the infra-red rays from the sun. . . . And if you have air conditioning equipment in a room, or in a house, this type of glass can be counted on to reduce cost of operating equipment, by reducing the total cooling load for a given window area.

LOUISE BARGELT.

Girls, Avoid Ride Offers from Stranger

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Why shouldn't he think you are "that kind of girl"? Why shouldn't he treat you with disrespect—if not worse?

You've been warned and warned, time and time again, that it is a highly dangerous practice. You've read in the news columns some pretty frightening tales about what might happen. Better to believe the worst about such invitations than to go on putting your trust in a complete stranger.

We hate to be melodramatic about these pickup affairs, but we think, for the sake of your reputations, young women, it is better for you, too, to be melodramatic than to suffer regrets over an experience you could so easily have avoided.

The season is on now for those worthless men who roam the streets with a "girl catcher" look in their eyes. No young man could be worth a bad dime who, in order to afford himself girl company, must get it this way. Gay adventure, you may call it. Well, granted it sometimes may be, does it still make a pretty picture of you, young woman? It doesn't. The mere gesture of hopping into that car willingly puts you in a class to which, we used to say, in the old days, INSULTS are coming. You may call it by any other name, young women, but in men's eyes you assume a certain character rôle from which no amount of persuasion will release you.

Returns for High School Diploma After 27 Years

Atlantic, Ia., May 29 [Special].—Earl Saunders, 41 years old, of Springfield, Mo., who left high school here 27 years ago, returned this week to take his final examinations and receive his diploma with the 1940 graduating class. He is a clerk in the medical center of the federal bureau of prisons at Springfield, Mo., and plans a college course next year.

The Fate of the Darmenys

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Madge Darmeny, knowing she has only a few months to live, sends for her relatives as she may select an heir. She is a widow and has no children of her own. Shirley Westall is her secretary, Amelia Pennyfeather, an eavesdropping dependent relative, lives with her, but her nearest kin is her niece, Leda, who is married to her husband's nephew, Frank. Geoffry, another nephew on her husband's side, is her favorite, for tho he is wayward, he gets around her with his charm. And there is 8 year old Betsy, Frank's child and Leda's stepchild. Alfred Barnes, a lifelong friend and solicitor, tells her of Geoffry's latest scrape. He gave a bad check for a diamond bracelet. Frank arrives first and Leda drives up later with Geoffry. Madge is shocked to see Leda wearing a diamond bracelet. She says a girl friend gave it to her.

INSTALMENT IV.

AN UPSET HUSBAND.

Leda had been given the most important guest chamber at Beechbourne, a huge, delightful room paneled in linenfold with great mullioned windows looking out over the Weald of Kent.

Shirley Westall had filled the bowls and vases with cottage roses and blue and mauve delphiniums, which toned in with the chintz hangings, and scented the air with a delicious breath of the countryside.

Next door were the rooms allotted to Frank. Madge Darmeny thought it more tactful not to put them together. There had been complaints at Christmas, and not having been given a bedroom of his own, Frank had slept in the dressing room.

Frank's first marriage was a boy and girl affair, romantic, beautiful and tragically short, for his wife died when Betsy was born. He had been a dour and saddened man until Leda flashed into his life, some three years ago, now.

Leda had lived abroad a lot, mostly in Spain with relatives of her mother, but when the revolution broke out she came to England on a visit to her Aunt Madge. By that time she had run thru a goodly inheritance and altho still young in years was over-ripe in experience.

For some unknown reason—for she had a throng of admirers—Frank Darmeny captivated her just as she captivated him, and she professed to adore motherless Betty.

But that was three years ago, and the woman who now faced Frank Darmeny had well gotten over her infatuation. There was only one thing, now, which prevented her from chucking him altogether, and that was the fear of being disowned by her aunt. Madge Darmeny disapproved of divorce, so that Leda's one hope lay in Frank's getting weary of the situation she had already established in their relations, and be the one to take the initiative and thereby the blame.

It was Geoffry who would come into the amenities of Beechbourne and the bulk of their aunt's estate, unless Leda was much mistaken, and moreover it was cold, ruthless and dissolute Geoffry Darmeny with whom she now believed herself to be no less wildly in love than he appeared to be with her. If they could keep their heady secret over a short week-end at Beechbourne, it would be an achievement.

On the way down from London they had warned each other repeatedly how difficult it might be, for altho Frank was as blind as a bat and as guileless as some children, the same could not be said for Aunt Madge. Already she had hit a nail bang on the head where that bracelet was concerned. How on earth could she have known that it came from Grandet's?

And now, here was Frank, looking as glum as a wet Monday, and by his very presence reminding Leda Darmeny that she still had a husband, and that a husband is still supposed to have some rights, even if it be only the right to an honest explanation.

She almost recaptured an old thrill when he took her hard by the arms and shook her.

"Why did you lie about that thing?" he demanded, eying the offending article of jewelry with disgust. "Why can't you tell the truth—ever?"

Very nearly she gave both herself and Geoffry away, then. But an instant's hesitation saved her.

"I suppose you lied because you know I loathe that Shotts girl," Frank added. "I think I'd almost admire you if you had the pluck to stand up for your convictions."

Leda unclasped the bracelet and dropped it into her handbag. There was a white lipped expression of revenge on her face. She'd get even with Frank for giving her such a fright—see if she wouldn't!

"Darling, need you be so dramatic? Suppose a man had given it to me?"

She waited breathlessly. Perhaps he was just being clever with her; perhaps he knew or guessed who had really given it to her.

"I think I'd probably kill him," Frank said, with a down twisted smile that was like a menace.

But that shot about being "dramatic" had gone home; it was something of which he was always accusing Betsy. It rather knocked him, for the moment.

"I just don't like Marta Shotts, that's all. I don't like your accepting valuable gifts from her. But I loathe your double dealing far more."

"And knowing you don't like Marta, I lied for the sake of your peace of mind, my love," Leda said serenely. "Only Aunt Madge is so devilish sharp. It almost looked as tho she wanted to make trouble between us. Frank, I won't wear it when you're around. But really, I do think I might have the privilege of choosing my own women friends. I don't interfere with you, do I?"

"I wish you interfered a little more," he said bitterly. A sudden longing seized him and he swept her into his arms, his starved passion getting the better of him, whereas he had proudly vowed to himself that if Leda did not want him he would not force himself on her.

She slithered away not ungracefully, with a sharp, excited laugh.

"Hilda will be coming in to unpack for me, and I suppose we ought to go down at once for tea. Aunt Madge is such a tartar for punctuality."

"All right," Frank said. He started towards his own quarters, but paused at the door.

"Make my excuses, will you? I'm going into the village to see Roger Westall."

"When do you think you'll be back?"

"Couldn't say."

"Well, do please remember that dinner is at 8, and Aunt Madge will expect you to dress."

"I ought to know by this time," he muttered irritably.

Frank Darmeny, with good reason, might have prided himself upon his strength of character, for among his associates he had a reputation for sober judgment and wisdom beyond his years, but just now his pride lay in the dust, trampled upon by his wife against whose physical charms he had struggled in vain.

That was one reason why his humiliation seemed complete, for reason told him that Leda did not possess and never had possessed anything to warrant a man's love, except what she expressed and could evoke thru the senses. For some men, that would have been enough, and it had been almost enough for Frank Darmeny, until she opened his eyes by playing the wanton with him.

Then he knew that it was companionship he had wanted, too; understanding and sympathy with his ideals.

At first, also, Leda had seemed to welcome the opportunity to mother Betsy, but very soon it became plain that even overseeing the care of the little girl was irksome to her. So Betsy had been sent to boarding school at a tender age, and went to her great-aunt for most of her holidays. And more and more Leda withdrew herself from Frank and Arlington, and lived her gay life mostly in town. In any case, from the start she had been the wrong sort of wife for a man of Frank's caliber.

However, what mattered most was, that unless something unforeseen happened, Leda and he were at the parting of the ways, and as yet Frank Darmeny had not reconciled himself to living entirely without her.

Her scarlet lips could whistle him back, the crook of her littlest finger beckon him. If there should be another man in her life and he found it out, he was capable of black jealousy that might lead to murder. Leda was that kind of woman. A man could easily kill on her account, and then perhaps wake up the morning after—as after a losing battle with the bottle—wondering at the insanity which had led him to believe the orgy was worth all the pain and suffering it brought in its train.

The victim of these disturbing thoughts made his way along the woodland path which was a short cut to Crane's Wood, heedless at first to the beauty all about him, but gradually becoming sensible of it as his temper subsided.

Allowances Must Be Made for a Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"How to Manage Your Child."

What a book that would make, if one covered the subject completely! Yet, in yesterday's column, I did try to touch quite a number of high spots in talking about right ways and wrong ways to manage your child. My idea was that we often don't see ourselves as we are until some one else holds up the mirror for us.

In connection with right ways to manage your child, I left one point to discuss today.

Any adult who has lived harmoniously with another adult knows that there has to be a great deal of "take" as well as "give" in the relationship. We can't make our associates over, our husband, our mother, our sister. We are what we are.

Since children are people, too, young human beings endowed with individual natures and varied reactions to the happenings in their lives, we should take their moods, their physical state, their whole personality into account in dealing with them, yet many adults do not accept this fact.

Children thrive best, develop best, are happiest, yes, are even most poised and controled, when their individual nature is taken into consideration, and, too, when their state or mood of the moment is taken into account. Let me give you some examples of what I mean.

A child who is sick can't be held up to the behavior you expect of him when he's well.

A temporary distaste for some one food should be regarded. The carrots or custard shouldn't be forced down his throat.

A baby's sudden reluctance to go to everybody's arms should gently be ignored. It isn't naughtiness. It's a subtle change of growth or a new fear.

In the older boy or girl, perhaps the adolescent, moodiness, withdrawal, or argumentativeness must not be resented by parents, but understood and treated tactfully.

With children, as well as with adults, we can avoid the unfavorable moment, choose the right one, and be tactful in handling them, as well as our peers.

Magic for Figure Problems

DRESS IN WOMEN'S SIZES.

If you have figure problems which make clothes purchases difficult, try sewing for yourself. You're certain to have just the frocks you want, and at minimum expense. The model illustrated today has lines to flatter away your excess pounds and bulges. Surplice lines, with or without a collar, are one trick; the high waistline is another, and the becoming full sleeves, either short or bracelet length, are still another. Use printed or plain silks, cottons, or linens, and if you use a monotone you might like the wide eyelet and organdy collar and cuffs.

Style No. 3316 is designed for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material for collarless dress; 3¾ yards of 39 inch, with ¾ yard of contrasting and 2 yards of ruffling, for short-sleeved version with collar.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the summer Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Even a small child can learn to make good muffins, they're this simple. First you sift the dry ingredients together. Then you pour the mixed liquids, egg, milk, and melted shortening into them. Third, you give a few vigorous stirs, enough to mix, but not enough to smooth out lumps. Muffin batter is an exception to the "beat the batter smooth" rule. We want it lumpy.

Plain muffins may be dressed up with the addition of chopped fruit, nuts, bits of crisp bacon, cooked sausage, or chopped ham. Sometimes, in adding fruit, we add a little more sugar to the batter, and occasionally we increase the amount of shortening, too, for a richer, more tender muffin.

Standard Recipe for Muffins.
[One Dozen Small.]

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Sift flour, baking powder, sugar, and salt together. Combine egg, milk, and melted shortening. Stir liquids quickly into dry ingredients. The batter should be somewhat lumpy in appearance. Fill well greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

SAUSAGE MUFFINS: These are good for breakfast. Cook bulk sausage until done. Add one-quarter cup of the meat to the batter just before turning it into the pans. Sausage fat should be substituted for butter.

BACON MUFFINS: These are good, too. Add as much chopped cooked bacon as you think you'll like to the batter, and use bacon fat for the shortening.

PRUNE WHOLE WHEAT MUFFINS: Substitute one cup whole wheat flour for one cup of white flour, and poke a cooked, pitted prune into the middle of each muffin after pans have been filled with batter.

TOMATO CHEESE MUFFINS: Add one-half cup grated cheese to dry ingredients and use tomato juice in place of milk.

CORN MUFFINS: Add a cupful of cream style corn to the liquids and reduce the amount of milk to about a fourth cup. Increase salt to three-quarters teaspoon and add a little pepper. Good with salad for a light luncheon.

Pattern for Playful Puppies

Lettuce-Crisp Look Vital to Your Charm in Summer

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We're getting around to the days that cry for the lettuce-crisp look, if they're not with us already.

Some women manage that crisp, clean look the year around, some get the urge for it in the spring, while others seem unconscious that such a look is timely at all.

Yet there isn't a nicer compliment in the world than to have it insinuated you are that dainty kind of girl, the girl with the crisp, cool, superbly clean look.

Vital as the daily bath tub or shower performance is, it is still not quite enough for the big summer show. There still is that little matter of deodorant use, of daily elimination without which there is no crisp impression. With this crispness comes an aliveness of eyes, of skin, hair, even of posture, and these can stem only from the clean inner being. So remember that while the external cleanliness is of infinite importance, the inner cleanliness is even more so.

Some women manage the look for a day out of the week, say, or two days, or three. They're not careless women about themselves, and their worst enemy could never call them dirty, but they just don't manage the crisp effect. There are a couple of features quite apart from baths and dusting powders which aren't always thought of in connection with this delightful crispness of appearance. These are the eyebrowns and hair treatment. Unless smartly treated these two features can undo all of the other good work.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

The term "dummy reversal" is used rather frequently these days, but so are a lot of other terms that are not too well understood. And, anyway, the mere definition of a term is of doubtful value; it is far more effective to illustrate and demonstrate the actual mechanics involved. Briefly, "dummy reversal" means to convert the dummy into the principal, or master trump hand, but the ways and means of this operation will be far better understood by close attention to the following deal:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's jump from two to four hearts was a decided stretch, despite his four-plus honor tricks and the solidity of his trump suit. An urging bid of three hearts would more truly have represented his values, but South was a player who thought well of his ability to get the last ounce out of the cards. Judging from his exhibition in this deal, I would be the last to decry his self-confidence.

West opened the spade king. Before playing from dummy, declarer gave considerable thought to the situation. As will be observed, there was no great ground for enthusiasm. The combined hands showed one spade loser and three of the "coldest" diamond losers imaginable. There was even a possibility that a club trick would have to be lost, so, all in all, the prospect of success was not alluring. To show what really can be done, however, if one sets his mind to it—and if the opponents are just a little kind—declarer brought home his 10 tricks with the greatest of ease.

The spade king was ducked and West, not unnaturally, continued with the spade queen. [Obviously, a shift to diamonds would have defeated the contract immediately, but I challenge any one to say that West could read the situation.] The spade ace won the second trick and a spade was ruffed by declarer. The low club was returned and, when West played small, dummy's nine spot was put in. When it held, declarer breathed his first sigh of relief. Dummy's last spade now was ruffed, East discarding the diamond ten, and declarer then laid down his remaining ace-king of trumps. The stage now was set for the finale. The club ten was overtaken with the queen, and the heart ten was hopefully cashed. South, of course, discarded a diamond on this trick and, when both opponents had to follow suit, the contract was home. Dummy's remaining club was led to the king and declarer triumphantly cashed the club ace for the fulfilling trick.

This might be called an almost classic example of dummy reversal play. It will have been observed that declarer used two of his own four trumps for ruffing purposes, which automatically made dummy's trump holding longer than declarer's. Thus, in effect, declarer managed to get a discard [of a diamond] on dummy's long trump. Perhaps it will not have been observed that West could have squashed this beautiful play, even after his continuation of spades at the second trick, by the peculiar device of putting in the club jack when declarer led up to dummy for the first time. This would have shut out the club nine as the vital second entry. But I seriously doubt that many players in West's position would have the tremendous foresight to make that extraordinary play.

Universal Day: Get down to facts today. Be realistic and put your thoughts and affairs in order. Put some serious thought on your plan of action and equipment for the days ahead.

Year Ahead: A splendid year for working hard to give concreteness to your ambitions and desires. This is not the year for dreaming, but for doing—not in a spectacular way, tho, but thru industry and systematic application. This is not the time to expand. Wait until after September before making any changes.

Names: Those whose names begin with an "O," or who have an "o" as the first vowel of the first name, have a strong domestic instinct which makes them try to make those around them comfortable. 33 CARS START 500 MILE RACE TODAY BEFORE 135,000

PREDICT NEW SPEED RECORD AT INDIANAPOLIS

French Soldier May Face Starter.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—The 500 mile Indianapolis automobile race, the Kentucky Derby for motorized thorobreds, will be run tomorrow on the two and one-half mile brick track of the Indianapolis Speedway. A throng of approximately 135,000, largest perennial crowd in American sports, will witness the contest among 33 of

Thirty-One American Drivers.

A thousand automobiles, many with improvised overhead platforms, were parked in queues in a cold drizzling rain outside the five entrances to the speedway late this afternoon. These early birds, men and women who will spend the night in their machines, are the forerunners of the peculiarly distinctive crowd that will be on hand when the starter's bomb dispatches the 33 brightly painted, noisy racers away.

Thirty-one of these mechanical steeds are owned and will be manned by Americans. Raul Riganti of Buenos Aires, Argentina, will be at the wheel of the 32d car, and the 33d will be handled, he and his associates hope, by Rene Lebegue, a French soldier. M. Lebegue, and his manager, Bernard Musnik, today were striving to get the innards of their Italian Maserati in shape for the 500 mile grind. They have until five minutes before the starting bomb sounds at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to get it repaired.

Mays Heads Pack.

The aforesaid starting detonation will see 11 three-car sections starting on the long trek around the brick oval. Heading them all will be Rex Mays, the Glendale, Cal., driver who won the pole position in the first row of three by driving the 10 mile quali-

A. A. STAGG and Mrs. Stagg have traded in their three year old coupé for a new one and after three round trip tuneups between Stockton, Cal., and Los Angeles they are now buying road maps for a trip to Chicago and then on to Springfield, Mass. . . . Stagg, 77 years old, maintains a yearly record of 20,000 miles in long auto trips. . . . Fred Wolcott, Uncle Sam's fastest high hurdler, will try out for the Rice football team next fall. . . . He has been confined to track since his freshman year. . . . Baseball fable: Once upon a time the home town fans had a "day" for their favorite player and didn't give him a traveling bag. . . . The Giants, under John McGraw, finished last in 1902 and second in 1903. . . . The $575,000 federal project at the University of Wisconsin stadium will provide facilities for boxing, wrestling, fencing, lockers and housing accommodations for more than 200 students. . . . There are electric refrigerators in every pit at the Indianapolis Speedway to keep supplies cool for the drivers in the 500 mile race. . . . The No. 1 objective of Northwestern golfers is to defeat Coach Ted Payseur. . . . None has turned the trick. . . . Pop Warner is carrying a cane for the first time in his life. . . . A recent illness has affected his right knee. . . . The second biggest gate for a dual track meet was the 13,400 paid admissions for the contest between Southern California and Stanford at Los Angeles three weeks ago. . . . It was exceeded by the number that turned out for the 1932 U. S. C.-Stanford meet when the 440 yard rivalry between Vic Williams of the Trojans and Ben Eastman of Stanford was the magnet. . . . Fred Browning of Fort Worth, Tex., manager of Lew Jenkins, recognized as lightweight champion by New York and California commissions, is attempting to sign Richard Menchaca of Port Arthur. . . . Menchaca is the Mexican boy who won Chicago's 1940 bantamweight Golden Gloves title. . . .

When the late Huey Long was senator from Louisiana and serving as "advisory coach" of the Louisiana State football team, he was observed one afternoon just before the start of a game in a huddle at one end of the field with the four officials. . . . Biff Jones, now head coach at Nebraska who was handling Louisiana State's eleven at the time, was puzzled about the conference but had no chance to learn details until the half when he asked one of the officials what it was all about. . . . This was the report to Jones: "When Louisiana State left the field for the dressing room after its preliminary warmup, Long called us together and said, 'Gentlemen, I know you are obliged to call a few penalties to make it look as if you are earning your wage. It may even happen that you will have to call some penalties on Louisiana State. But BE SURE you don't call any penalties on our team when we are in scoring position. If you must call some, call them on the other end of the field when it won't make much difference." . . . Bill Lee of the Cubs was the only 1939 opening day pitcher who stepped to the mound for the 1940 getaway. . . . Altho Chicago's Blackhawks led the National Hockey league in attendance, they were second to Toronto in gate receipts. . . . Toronto had 22 Saturday night games.

Memorial Day.

This is a day of Memory;
We roll the screen of Time away
And once again hear quietly
The plaintive song from days of Blue and Gray.
"Tenting tonight, tenting tonight,
Tenting on the Old Camp Ground."
Campfires fade, the song recedes,
But Memory still its power retains;
And now we hear exultingly
A marching song and martial strains.
"It's a long way to Tipperary,
It's a long way to go."
The marching hosts from Flanders' plain
Are ageing now—are dreaming dreams
While to their sons comes this refrain—
As cannons roar and shrapnel screams.
"My Country 'tis of Thee,
Sweet Land of Liberty, Of Thee I sing."
—Thomas Hart.

A Pledge Renewed.

Taps? No, 'tis reveille we hear;
Then comes the muffled, marching tread
Of soldiers who have served this land,
An endless army of the dead.
Dead? No, for on this day they live
To tell us how they fought to give
This country everything it has,
Its freedom and the right to live.
The mighty host that's passing now
Reviews our nation's history:
The men of Yorktown march ahead
Of those who found that victory
Their reason for a New Orleans,
With Andrew Jackson at their head.
Now come the boys from Mexico
Whom Santa Ana fled in dread.
A pause—and then we see the troops
Of Sherman marching to the sea;
Of Meade, who stood at Gettysburg
And Grant, who in the end stopped Lee.
Then men who fell in war with Spain,
Pass by us now and just ahead
Of Pershing's troops who fell in France,
To end this marching of the dead.
They've all passed by and in their wake,
A deep and solemn silence falls.
These were the men who forged this land
By heeding all our nation's calls.
Out of the past we hear a voice—
In pledge to legions of the slain,
Which binds us now, as Lincoln meant,
"These dead shall not have died in vain!"
—Web.

American Holiday.

I must go to the country now,
To a cabin in the trees,
Where leaves sigh softly when caressed
By a fickle, wandering breeze.
And here I'll savour simple fare:
New greens with crisp corn bread,
While near an outdoor fireplace
My table will be spread.
I'll take long walks down country roads—
Flanked by grass and flowers—
And seek vague paths in wooded plots;
Or cool, dim, fern-decked bowers.
Look at the stars, and pray:
"Please help our land to keep the peace
That it has known this day."
—Emily M. Hilsabeck.

From a War Orphan of 1918.

Father, I'm grateful you're not here
To see the shame and strife
That once again man's brought about
As tho no value's placed on life.

When you went over years ago,
You fought and did your best
But still they are not satisfied
And bursting shells disturb your rest.

You and Joe and Jim and Jack,
And Herb and Paul and Fritz
Kept crying for each country's creed
Till pals were blown to bits.

Then voices fell to lower pitch
And eyes grew dim with tears;
And fingers trembled to the touch
And hearts grew taut with fears.

But even when the Big Drive came,
It was the end—you seemed to know.
The thought that gave you bravery,
Was, "No more wars! My sons won't go:"

So now I'm glad you're not on earth
To hear the hate mad league;
And see the bloody ruins again
That come from mad blitzkrieg.

Do You Remember Way Back When:

On May 30, 1890, Charles T. Knisely of the Illinois Cycling club won the famous annual Pullman road race, which was the bicycle classic of that day?  Old-timers will remember the start was at the Leland hotel, Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard, and the route was Michigan avenue to 55th street, thence to Stony Island avenue [unpaved] and the race finished at the Hotel Florence, Pullman. —W. OLD MUCHO GUSTO TRIES TO REPEAT AT CRETE TODAY

Races Technician, Others in Peabody Memorial.

Peabody Field

Horse—	Wt.	Jockey.	Odds.
Nightland	107	J. E. Oros	2-1
†Technician	113	R. L. Vedder	5-2
*Chance Ray	105	C. Wells	7-2

Mucho Gusto	112	J. Flinchum	2-1
Manie O'Hara	112	S. Clark	10-1
*Gray Jack	109	C. Wells	7-2

*Davison entry. †Woolford farm entry.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The first holiday crowd of Chicago's racing season will gather this afternoon at Lincoln Fields to watch a program headed by the $5,000 Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap. With track conditions improving hour by hour under yesterday's fresh winds and intermittent sunshine, there seemed every prospect that the running strip would be no worse than slow if no rain falls today.

The overnight entries for the Peabody handicap, which is a gallop of a mile and a sixteenth, drew the names of nine horses. Among them is Mucho Gusto, the aged campaigner which had enough speed left in his veteran legs to win last season's Lincoln handicap, most important event of the meeting. Another year has slipped away, but a year more or less doesn't mean a great deal to the 8 year old Mucho Gusto any more. He has a way of coming out well bandaged every now and then and winning another race from horses which hadn't yet been foaled when he was enjoying the best days of his career.

Manie O'Hara to Run, Too.

It will be just like old home week for some of the Lincoln Fields regulars, because Manie O'Hara will be running, too. This little gray mare had a habit of coming up as unexpectedly as a little gray ghost in the closing stages of several of last season's events to push her nose ahead at the finish line. She won two stakes and ran a dead heat for first in another.

Technician will try again today, accompanied by his Woolford farm stablemate, Inscoelda. In last Saturday's Crete handicap, Technician ran third to Dolly Val.

Among the other contenders will be Shot Put, which won the Kentucky handicap on the closing day at Churchill Downs. C. E. Davison's pair, Chance Ray and Gray Jack, will get considerable support. Manymor and Nightland will complete the field.

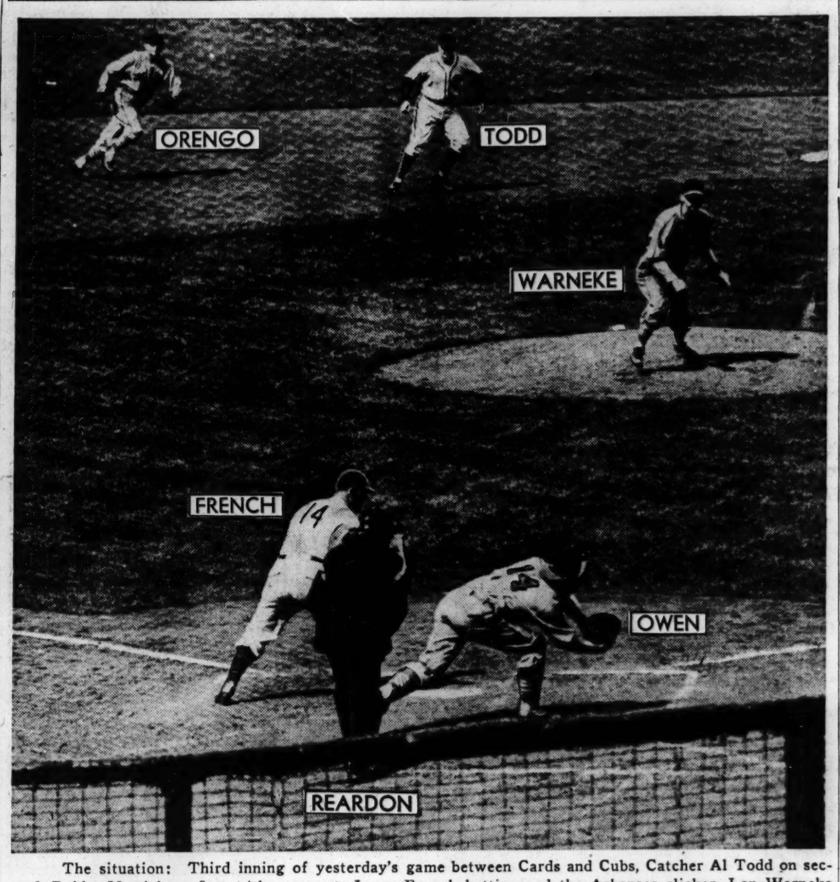
Operate Special Trains.

Extra train service will be put on to accommodate the Memorial day crowd. The C. & E. I. will operate specials from the Dearborn station, stopping at 47th and 63d streets. The first will leave at 12 o'clock and the last at 1:10 p. m. The Illinois Central lines will start trains from Randolph street, which will make bus connections at Homewood.

A major surprise of yesterday's program was the victory of Prefer Transit, paying $99 for $2, in the five furlong fourth race which drew a field of eight 2 year olds to the post. This horse had made only two previous starts, both of them at New Orleans last February. He finished seventh and eleventh in these two attempts.

His owner and trainer, Clyde Troutt, had him in good running condition yesterday. Breaking from the No. 6 post position, Prefer Transit went right out to race with Hunter, the 6 to 5 favorite, which was setting the pace. As Push Button weakened in the stretch, Jockey Charles Swain brought Prefer Transit up with a rush. He passed his weary rival and went on to win by two lengths. Sasnak was third.

An Arkansas Slicker's Pitchout Fails to Fool Cubs



The situation: Third inning of yesterday's game between Cards and Cubs, Catcher Al Todd on second, Bobby Mattick on first with none out; Larry French batting and the Arkansas slicker, Lon Warneke of the Cards, pitching. To foil French's obvious intention to bunt, Warneke throws a pitchout to Catcher Mickey Owen, the idea being to trap Todd. Shortstop Joe Orengo of the Cards is cutting back toward second, but Todd was on the alert and scampered back to safety. French later sacrificed and Todd eventually scored. The umpire is John (Beans) Reardon. Cards won, 8 to 2. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

TWELVE START TODAY IN $20,000 SUBURBAN STAKE

New York, May 29 (AP).—Twelve thorobreds, headed by Mrs. Payne Whitney's Third Degree and George D. Widener's Eight Thirty, will compete tomorrow in the 54th Suburban handicap, a $20,000 mile and a quarter race which is expected to draw a record crowd to Belmont Park.

Third Degree, winner of the Metropolitan mile, probably will be the favorite, since he also has the capable Hash as a running mate. Eight Thirty weakened in the stretch of the Metropolitan, but because of his fine 3 year old record last season and his victory in the Toboggan handicap he is certain to draw support.

Three Runs in Eighth Give Sox Split in Browns' Series

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 29.—The White Sox hammered across three runs in the eighth inning today to beat the Browns, 4 to 3, and split the four game series. Bill Dietrich, making his first start of the year, went all the way for his first decision of 1940. Bill yielded only seven hits.

The game was brightened up in the home fifth by a fist fight between Mike Tresh, Sox catcher, and Johnny Berardino, St. Louis relief infielder, after the latter had been tagged out at the plate when he tried to score shortly after driving in the first St. Louis run with a triple.

Tresh, only Sox to be chased this year, drew his second banishment in an odd decision by Umpire George Pipgras. Berardino also was bounced on recommendation of Umpire Bill Summers, who did not share Pipgras' excitement.

Two with Indians.

The Sox, entrenched in fifth place, moved to Cleveland tonight for a holiday double header with the ambitious Indians tomorrow before proceeding on their second invasion of the Atlantic seaboard.

The first threat of today's game started and faded fast in the Sox's second inning. Luke Appling singled to center and Larry Rosenthal, who later in the afternoon drove in the tying and winning runs, walked. Eric McNair failed in two attempts to sacrifice, after which Appling was plucked off second base. McNair then popped to Alan Strange and Tresh struck out.

Sox Take Lead.

Dietrich walked one batsman in each of the first two innings, but each inning ended with neatly executed double plays. Berardino led off the St. Louis third with the first Brownie hit, a single to left. He got as far as third on infield outs, but stopped there because the inning ended with Strange's fly to Taft Wright.

The Sox broke thru in the fifth. McNair opened with the fourth Chicago hit, a double to left, took third on Tresh's grounder to Strange, and scored on Dietrich's fly to Rip Radcliff. Bob Kennedy then executed his second strikeout.

The Brownies tied the score in their end of the fifth and precipitated the fist fight in which Pipgras made

WARNEKE HITS HOMER IN 8 TO 2 ROUT OF FRENCH

Dean Stops Foe in Relief Role.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The St. Louis Gas House gang called on Larry [Lefty] French yesterday in Wrigley field and demanded damages for the two shutouts he inflicted on them earlier in the season. They got just what they demanded and maybe a little more. Larry willingly took the short cut to the clubhouse stairs before the sixth inning was completed, leaving behind him two clusters of four runs, far more than the Gas Housers needed to make it two out of three in the series with the Cubs. The score was 8 to 2, and marked the third successive knockout suffered by the Cub southpaw. It was Larry's fourth defeat, as against five victories.

Lon Warneke, the Arkansas slat, who once was a Cub pitcher and who has been having trouble dodging defeats, was hit hard. But the bulk of the safe clouts came after he was comfortably fixed, first by the four run fourth and later by the four run sixth in which he himself let loose the blow that forced French to vacate. It was a homer with two on, Warneke's first round tripper of the season.

Meet Mr. Diz, Relief Pitcher.

With French eliminated as a participant, the 3,269 spectators were treated to a sight of Diz Dean, who has been in eclipse since his employers gave up on the idea he could fill the duties of a regular starter. Dean wasn't had, altho it's possible the Cards, having eight runs, weren't vitally interested in his technique. He halted their sixth inning surge, set 'em down in order in the seventh, yielded one hit in the eighth and two in the ninth.

The Cubs can easily be charged with being wrong in more than a few stages of the nine inning task. Hank Leiber looked none too energetic in one instance as a base runner and in another as a fielder. Billy Herman once overlooked going to second to handle a possible double play ball from Bob Mattick. But the big defects were noticeable on attack. In five of the nine innings, the first pair of Cub batters reached base and three of the five juicy opportunities netted nothing.

Cubs First to Score.

The Cubs didn't find out for sure until the third inning that there really was a first base somewhere on the premises. Al Todd opened with a single, which almost removed Warneke's Arkansas ears. Mattick contributed a single to right, and French bunted the two runners to third and second, whereupon the bags were filled on an intentional pass to Stan Hack. Todd loped home unmolested while Joe Orengo was throwing out Herman. Augie Galan finished the inning by fanning.

French yielded only one hit in three innings, but as soon as he had retired Enos Slaughter to start the fourth the total rose rapidly. Joe Medwick singled to left and Johnny Mize singled to center, putting Medwick on third. Mize went to second on the throw in. Moore was purposely passed, but the strategy failed. Orengo also walked, forcing Medwick to score. Then Mickey Owen did a real clean up job, lining a double into right center, and everybody ran home.

Hank Gets No Help.

Leiber asked for some help in a run getting job in the home fourth, but there were no volunteers. Hank led off with a single, but Bill Nicholson fanned and Hank apparently became discouraged. He jogged down to second on Glen Russell's tap to Mize and the latter, noting Leiber's leisure, threw to Orengo to force him. Todd

4 DOG SHOWS ON JUNE CALENDAR IN CHICAGO AREA

Midwest Group Sponsors Puppy Event Sunday.

BY BOB BECKER.

Purebred show dogs owned by Chicagoland kennels soon will be competing in several outdoor events which are unusual in several respects. Four local dog shows and puppy matches are on the calendar during the next month, and three of these are to be held outdoors. Each of the four shows will be held on successive Sundays—June 2, 9, 16, and 23.

The first of these events is an outdoor all-breed puppy match sponsored by the Midwest Puppy Match association which will be held Sunday at the Suburban club, two miles west of Hinsdale on Ogden avenue. It's a match for members only, but any one may join the association and show a puppy by paying a small membership fee before the judging begins at 2:30 p. m.

Mrs. Jack Cooper, Franklin Park; Adolph Baker, Chicago; William Adair, Deerfield, and Harry Weed, Chicago, will pick the winning puppies at this first outdoor match of the year. Children's handling classes will be judged by Mrs. Berndalyn Kewley, Chicago.

Scotty Show June 9.

The Scottish Terrier Club of Chicago will hold its 15th sanctioned puppy match next Sunday, June 9, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Griswold, Dundee road, Wheeling. George Hicks, Chicago, will judge. This match is open to all Scotty puppies between the ages of 2 and 12 months. Scotty owners who want more information should contact Robert Blain, 7801 Jeffery avenue.

The following Sunday, June 16, will find Chicagoland dog owners heading for the seventh all-breed dog show of the Northbrook Kennel club, which will be held in the new National Guard armory in Waukegan. The armory is a large, airy building with 14,000 feet of floor space and ample parking facilities, according to Mrs. W. J. Schloesser, secretary of the Northbrook club.

Skokie Show June 23.

The judging slate includes E. G. Tyler, Chicago; Alva Rosenberg, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. C. P. Dautel, Willoughby, Ohio; Hoyt Wilson, Walled Lake, Mich.; Harry Meyer, Indianapolis, and Harry Osborne and Livingston Osborne of Chicago.

Ludwig Gessner, Chicago, has been chosen to judge the obedience classes, and Mrs. Janet Henneberry, Golf, Ill., will judge the children's handling classes. Willy Necker of Wheeling, Ill., will stage an exhibition featuring his trained Dobermann pinschers.

On June 23 the Skokie Valley Kennel club will hold its one day show at the Hawthorne race track. The judging slate includes Lewis S. Worden of New York, E. D. McQuown of Springfield, O., and two Chicago judges—Harry Osborne and Alex Stewart.

MILLS AND COALS WILL OPEN TITLE RIVALRY TODAY

The Mills baseball team, idle the last two weeks because of inclement weather, will resume competition against the Spencer Coals in the first two games of a six game series for the semipro championship in Mills stadium this afternoon. Howard Berg, former University of Illinois baseball player, will pitch the first game for the Mills. The Coals will counter with Slim De Llon, their new right hander, who in his last start yielded one hit. Al Le Comte will work the second game for the Mills against Bill [Lefty] Stevens.

Time, 1:23 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Sweep Royal, $5.80 straight, $3.40 place, $3.20 show; New Discovery, $5.00 place, $3.80 show; Miss Curiosity, $7.40 show. Winner trained by E. Watt. Went to post at 3:17. Off at 3:18. Start good from gate. Won easily, place driving.

SWEEP ROYAL, much the best and away very slow, raced near the middle of the track the final half mile, moved with a rush to take command in the stretch, then drew away. NEW DISCOVERY in hand for almost five-eighths, held on fairly well but was no match for the winner.

FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs. Claiming. Two year olds. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, 1:00 flat. Two dollar mutuels paid: Prefer Transit, $99.00 straight, $26.40 place, $11.20 show; Hunter, $3.60 place, $2.80 show; Sasnak, $2.00 show. Winner trained by owner. Start good from gate. Won handily, place driving. Went to post at 3:47. Off at once.

PREFER TRANSIT raced with good speed from the start and, restrained until the final quarter, took command quickly as PUSH BUTTON weakened badly, and held HUNTER safe. The latter, away in a tangle and raced very wide, made up some ground early, could not improve his position on the turn, and closed well to the last 50 yards, where he hung.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, 1:07. Two dollar mutuels paid: Blue Delight, $4.00 straight, $2.40 place, out to show; Pate's Boy, $2.80 place, out to show; Mack's Dream, out to show. Winner trained by R. Goose. Went to post at 4:41. Off at once. Start rood from gate. Won handily, place driving.

BLUE DELIGHT, fastest to begin and taken in hand when challenged, regained the lead when ready, increased her advantage in the stretch, and won easily. PATE'S BOY, preserved early, raced very wide entering the stretch, came fast when straightened, and, altho unable to menace the winner, was much the best of the others. MACK'S DREAM, hustled forward on the inside, gave way after gaining a momentary lead and tired rapidly.

SEVENTH RACE—Six furlongs. Claiming. Three year olds. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, 1:22 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Jerry Rae, $10.40 straight, $4.60 place, $4.00 show; Valdina Boy, $3.40 place, $3.00 show; Sir Franklin, $6.60 show. Winner trained by C. Troutt. Went to post at 5:08½. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won sailing, place driving.

JERRY RAE, steadied along for three-eighths, moved forward when called upon, took command soon after entering the stretch, and, drawing clear rapidly, won with something to spare. VALDINA BOY, never far back, was put to straight racing in the drive, and finished well. SIR FRANKLIN, hustled into a close duel during the opening quarter, was unable to withstand the winner's challenge and tired in the drive.

EIGHTH RACE—Mile and an eighth. Claiming. Four year olds and up. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, 2:05 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Mr. Smith, $7.00 straight, $2.60 place, out to show; Chance Sweet, $2.40 place, out to show; Jay Bird, out to show. Winner trained by L. J. Wilson. Went to post at 5:36½. Off at 5:37. Start good from gate. Won driving, place same.

MR. SMITH, rushed to the front, held sway under light restraint, responded well when threatened and finishing under strong pressure, held Chance Sweet safe. CHANCE SWEET, sent forward after a slow beginning, offered repeated threats, was unable to overhaul the winner, but held on gamely. JAY BIRD passed tiring horses.

FAVORED HE DID IS EASY WINNER IN WILMINGTON

Stanton, Del., May 29 (AP).—Arnold Hanger's He Did, favored in the betting, romped to an easy six length victory today in the $4,000 added Wilmington handicap, feature of the opening program in Delaware Park's fourth annual race meeting.

He Did paid $5, $3.60, and $2.70 in the mutuels. The Greentree stable's Armor Bearer outfought Mrs. A. J. Abel's Honey Cloud to finish second.

Robert Bonner Elected to Captain Wheaton Nine

Robert Bonner of Collingswood, N. J., was elected yesterday to captain the 1941 Wheaton college baseball team. The team met at the estate of Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond at Aurora in a farewell to Coach Fred M. Walker, whose resignation takes effect this June. Thirteen men were awarded baseball letters as follows: Capt. Raube, Gustafson, Bonner, Patterson, Prigger, Gladfelter, Johnson, Wehling, Phillips, Schum, Patt, Spiro, and Seaburg.

Keller, Dickey Get Circuit Drives Behind Donald.

New York, May 29 (AP).—Atley Donald, the Yankees' 1939 pitching sensation who was stricken with sciatica this spring, made a belated bow as a starter today and held the Washington Senators to four hits for a 2 to 1 victory, the champions' fifth in a row. Knuckleballer Dutch Leonard limited the Yankees to six hits, but two were home runs by Charley Keller and Bill Dickey. Score:

RED SOX, 8; ATHLETICS, 3.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29 (AP).—Six foot 6 inch Wilburn Butland made his major league pitching debut with the first place Boston Red Sox today by whipping Philadelphia, 8 to 3. The right hander, who won 19 and lost 10 for Minneapolis last year, put the Athletics down for their sixth straight defeat. The A's got 12 hits, in addition to four bases on balls, but in the pinches the rookie was supreme. Score:

Yacht Clubs to Inaugurate Season Today

The Chicagoland yachting season will open today at more than a dozen clubs between Waukegan and Michigan City, Ind., with flag raising ceremonies and club course races.

Commodore Karl Nibecker will hoist the American yacht ensign at noon over the Belmont harbor clubhouse of the Chicago Yacht club. Racing between the R. Eagle, Tumlaren, Star, and the new 110 class sloops will begin at 2:15 p. m.

At 11 a. m. Commodore Milton Friend of the Columbia Yacht club will open the club's season at the Grant Park harbor headquarters. Racing on the club course off the Van Buren street gap will follow.

A fleet of nearly 50 motor yachts is expected to follow Fleet Captain Jason Smith's cruiser Loretta and Commodore Robert L. McBrien's flagship, as the Southern Shore Yacht club conducts its 15th annual Memorial day parade out into the lake this noon. The parade will start from the inner Jackson Park harbor.

The Burnham Park, Sheridan Shore, and Jackson Park Yacht clubs are scheduled to hold sailing races in addition to the formal flag ceremonies.

4 Games on Holiday Bill in Cricket League Today

Four games are on the holiday schedule of the Illinois Cricket league today. The undefeated Winnetka team, which is in first place with three victories, will face Oak Park on Skokie field at 1:30 p. m. Chicago and Hyde Park will play two games, at 10:30 a. m. and 2 p. m., at Wilson avenue and the Outer drive. Lake Forest will meet Lake Shore in Lake Forest at 1:30 p. m. The scheduled games between Washington Park and Milwaukee and between South Park and River Forest have been postponed.

WALTERS, REDS BLANK PIRATES ON 4 HITS, 4 TO 0

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 29 (AP).—Bucky Walters pitched, batted and fielded his way to his eighth straight victory today as the Cincinnati Reds trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 0, to win three out of four games.

Bucky Walters.

The 30 year old Red pitcher held the Pirates to four hits, all singles; got two of the Reds' eight hits off Joe Bowman, and started two double plays in a masterful fielding performance. In the third, Bucky's single advanced Lee Gamble from first to third from where Harry Craft's single scored Gamble. Bill Werber was passed and Frank McCormick's single scored Craft and Walters.

In the fourth, with two out, Billy Myers doubled and Walters scored him with a single off Bowman's first pitch. Score:

In the Wake of the News

Heroes, 1861-1865.

The veterans are few as they pass in review,
Quite in contrast to the last decade
When hundreds were in line, both yours and mine,
In Memorial day parade.

My heart beat with joy when as a boy I watched these Men in Blue, one by one,
With their heads erect, showing great respect
For their comrades who had since passed on.

These valiant heroes, they tell, went thru hell,
Fighting furiously and courageously that we Might enjoy from birth the richest country on earth,

—Will J. Moore.

* *

This Is My Land.

This is the land of freedom, where we worship and live and love.
And no one dares try to stop us while our flag floats serenely above.

Where we're not afraid that a sudden air raid will kill loved ones of you and me.

This is the land of happiness, where our laughs may live thru the years.
Where we're not in horror that on the tomorrow our laughs may turn to tears.

Let's keep the flag on this side— to keep us free and gay.
While our flag floats above, we can live, laugh and love, and be happy the American way.

—Doyne McReynolds.

The Wake Depends Upon Its Friends.

* *

Memorable Memories.

When I shall muse in solemn thought
On this Memorial day
Of veterans of bygone wars
In sorrowful dismay—
My sympathetic urge cries out
For those courageous souls
Ensconced in beds of forced fatigue
For whom time slowly rolls;
Those men who gave their country
All they had in life to give—
The war they fought is with them

—John C. Vivian.

Our Vets.

We cheered our boys one sunny day
As they went marching by—
We waved our little flags at them

We didn't think then of the pain
In the mothers' hearts whose fears
Would burn with aching hopelessness

And when our boys came back again
Tho some of them were well—
What of the ones whose shattered lives
Must live in painful hell?

We honor those who died for us,
To them all tribute pay—
But let's remember those who live,

—Anne C. Korpics.

Prayer for Peace.

Dear God:
Because I am the mother of a son—
Today in memory of those who died in war
I humbly ask of you to give us peace
And silence once again the cannon's roar.
Because I am the mother of a son
Who now is reaching up to man's estate;
I do not want to see him go and fight
Why should I have to see him maimed and blind
To satisfy a man's desire for greed
In hospitals? O God, with Thee I plead;
Not for my boy alone, and not for me,
But every son and mother in our land.
Our hearts are torn for those across the sea
The blackened nights and all the pain they stand.
And yet the tulips and the poppies bloom
Dear God, I humbly ask again for peace
Because I am the mother of a son.

—Hilda Butler Farr.

Memorial Day.

With flags and flowers for all;
Our freedom lies in this dust of clay
And the taps from a bugle call.

To the sweethearts forced apart,
To the sea of tears that's gone astray
With a mother's broken heart.

Forever lasting peace on earth,
To God we'll kneel and pray,
That no more wars procure a berth
On our Memorial day.

—M. L. W.

Ten Years Ago Today—Billy Arnold of Chicago won the Indianapolis 500 mile auto race. . . . The Cubs whipped St. Louis twice, but it was costly, for Rogers Hornsby's ankle was broken in a slide to third base. . . . Bobby Jones defeated George Voigt in the semi-final round of the British amateur, 1 up.

Lee and Root to Face Reds in Double Header

With the assistance of the Cincinnati Reds, the Cubs will experience their first double header of the year this afternoon in Wrigley field. Pitchers are scarce, so Manager Gabby Hartnett will put Bill Lee in one game and summon Charley Root, who will be making his second 1940 start, for the second. The Reds will employ Paul Derringer and Lloyd Moore.

Bill Lee's start today will be his 10th of the season, only four of which he completed. He lost two of his full games, but by low scores.

The run presented to the Cards by Larry French in the fourth inning yesterday was long overdue. It was the first he had given them all season. Up to then he boasted 21 scoreless innings against them.

PERCEPTION, BY ASTIGMATISM, IS "DERBY" WINNER

Baltimore, Md., May 29 (AP).—The annual Johns Hopkins hospital turtle Derby was won today by Perception, out of Focus by Astigmatism, an eye clinic entry. Five year old Sally Fisher's turtle, named Blockhead, won the Freakness, a $50 added classic.

Strong Derby contenders, before they pulled in their necks, included Mines, out of Kattegat, by Sweeper; Rosevelt, out of Office, by Two Thousand A. D., and Line Busy, out of How Izzy, by the Hundreds.

Spartas Ponder Decision Ordering 3d Title Game

If the Spartas are to be recognized as the national soccer champions they must make another trip east. They will meet later in the week to decide whether they will go to New York to meet the Baltimore, Md., team June 16 or forfeit. The national commission has ruled the rivals must meet a third time to decide the title. In the second game played in Chicago, the Baltimore team left the field after one overtime session failed to break a 2 to 2 deadlock, Sparta was willing to continue playing until a decision was reached.

Warneke's Bat, Arm Too Much for Cubs, 8 to 2

filed to Terry Moore for the third out. A bigger and better opportunity was overlooked by the Cubs in the fifth. Mattick and French opened with singles and nothing happened. Hack filed to Moore. Herman was folled in an attempt to beat out a bunt and Galan rolled to Eddie Lake.

Mize walked to inaugurate the sixth inning activity, but Moore was thrown out before the real parade got under way. Orengo singled out of Mattick's reach. Owen sent a long fly to right, but Leiber hesitated about backing, so the ball dropped behind him for a double, Mize scoring. One more pitch ended French's reign. This was the one Warneke hit into the wind, but hard enough to send it arching into the left field bleachers, Orengo and Owen preceding him across the plate. Then Dean came along and stopped the violence.

Another Cub Failure.

The Cubs' sixth also saw two men on the bases with none out. Leiber and Nicholson singled, but Russell poked into a double play and Todd tapped to Warneke. There also were two on in the eighth before anybody was retired, but this time the Cubs scored. Herman walked and stopped at third on Galan's double to right. Leiber's long fly gave Herman a chance to scamper home, after which Nicholson lofted to Slaughter and Russell popped to Lake.

Dean had a little trouble in the ninth. Lake and Stu Martin singled with one out, but found no means of getting to the plate. Then to carry out the two on and none out theme, Bob Collins and Mattick opened the home ninth with singles. Collins tried to go to third on Mattick's hit, but was cut down. Phil Cavarretta batted for Dean and fanned. Hack flied to Medwick to close the game.

BRADLEY BEATS NORMAL.

Peoria, Ill., May 29 [Special].—Bradley Tech defeated Illinois State Normal, 1 to 0, in 10 innings this afternoon. Wilbur [Whitey] White, who attracted four major league scouts to the game, got credit for the victory. Roddy Thompson, midget Tech outfielder, singled to score Don Schooley in the tenth.

his surprising decision. Myril Hoag opened with a double to right and went to third on Harlond Clift's fly to Mike Kreevich. Berardino tripled off the left field wall, scoring Hoag with the tying run. Bob Swift bounced a high one to Dietrich and Berardino broke for the plate. Dietrich made a nice play and threw to Tresh to retire Berardino four feet from the plate.

Berardino, after being called out on what appeared to be a simple tag maneuver, scrambled to his feet and attacked Tresh. Pipgras surprised even the home customers by waving Tresh out of the game. Later when Summers, one of the more capable umpires in the league, came up he reminded the confused Pipgras that Berardino, the obvious aggressor, should be ruled off.

Pipgras Recovers Poise.

By this time Pipgras had regained his poise and had fired Berardino. Later Berardino said Tresh had tagged him more than the requisite once. Tresh said Berardino had tried to spike him before the fistic attack.

The Browns took the lead in the sixth. With one out Walter Judnich singled to center and went to third on George McQuinn's single to right. Judnich scored on Radcliff's fly to Kreevich.

Clift took a cheap ride around the bases to give the Browns a 3 to 1 advantage in the seventh. Clift was awarded a single when his grounder bounced out of Appling's glove. He advanced on Lyn Lary's sacrifice, took third on a passed ball, and scored on a wild pitch. Auker then walked, but was forced by Strange.

That Deciding Eighth.

The Sox in the eighth lined up three hits with other occurrences to make three runs and decide the game. Joe Kuhel pushed off with a single to right, took second on a passed ball, and went to third when Swift retrieved the passed ball and threw it into center field. Kreevich walked, then Wright doubled to the top of the right field screen, missing a homer by a foot. This smack scored Kuhel, Kreevich stopping at third. Appling, who had singled his previous three times, struck out, but Rosenthal lined a single to center, scoring Kreevich with the tying run and Wright with the winning marker.

SOX PLAY TWO TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 29.—All four starting pitchers in tomorrow's Sox-Indian double header in Cleveland will be left handed, and two will be named Smith and two Al. Al Smith and Al Milnar will be the Cleveland starters; Edgar Smith and Thornton Lee have the Chicago assignment.

The Sox did not have to swing aboard a train in the railroad yards as is the custom on the St. Louis to Cleveland jump. The Browns had to start for Detroit, so the teams agreed that no inning would start after 5:30 o'clock.

Tomorrow will be the eighth anniversary of the White Sox's famous ganging up on Umpire George Moriarty. On Memorial day, 1932, in Cleveland, Lew Fonseca, Charley Berry, Frank Grube and Milt Gaston gave George the business after he had challenged the entire Chicago team in a runway leading from the Indian dugout in League park. Something will be taken from ceremonies celebrating the anniversary tomorrow, for the doubleheader will be played in Cleveland stadium, on the lake front.

Dutra Tells a Canterbury Tale; Resolves to Even an Old Score

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The fellow was in a big hurry, but you couldn't blame him, for he had only a half hour between trains leading to two important destinations—a brother who was just coming out of the shock of an auto crash and a golf tournament which he won once and is trying to win again.

Olin Dutra.

He couldn't be missed in the detail of passengers piling off of the City of Los Angeles streamliner at the North Western station, this huge California caballero from Los Angeles, who is easily identified as Olin Dutra, winner of the 1934 national open championship.

He Remembers Canterbury.

Olin left Los Angeles Monday night. Last evening he arrived in Detroit to visit another golf professional, his brother Mortie, who was involved in an auto crash a couple of weeks ago, en route from Grand Rapids to his Detroit club. Mortie's wife was more seriously injured than he was and big Olin was anxious to get on and see both of them.

Following that visit, Dutra planned to run over to the Canterbury Golf club, near Cleveland. There are a flock of golf yards around this nation, but Canterbury next week will become exclusive by reason of the fact that it will be the scene of the national open tournament, opening one week from tomorrow.

Los Angeles is some distance from Cleveland, but Señor Dutra well remembers Canterbury, for there it was, in 1932, that he made his first serious try for a major title—the western open of that year. And he had it all wrapped up until the 69th hole, where his partner, Walter Hagen, began to get warm while Olin himself was cooling off. But Dutra tells the story better himself.

Birdie Seals the Result.

"Walter and I came to the last nine holes of that tournament with me leading him by one stroke," Dutra related. "On the 10th tee the old boy came over to me and said, 'Well, it's you or me, Olin. We've got the rest of the boys weeded.' It looked like Dutra, he meant, for I got a deuce at the 11th and Walter took a five to my four on the 14th, giving me a three shot edge. On the 15th tee Hagen said, 'It's in the bag for you, kid.'

"But it wasn't. I three putted the green, and the Haig dropped a 40 footer. He knocked one stiff on a pitch shot into the wind at that long, long 16th, and we were even. He was 15 feet away from the cup on the next hole, and holed out for a birdie after I had rolled off the green. He held that one stroke edge thru the 18th and won his last major title while I was losing my first.

"Canterbury is a grand test of golf. I understand it has been lengthened and changed in places, and feel that the winner's score should be between 284 and 286.

Demaret's Chances Good.

"I don't like to pick a winner, but I know that Canterbury will be windy, and I'm thinking of a kid that beat me in the first round of the San Francisco open two years ago. He did it in wind and rain that wasn't easy. His name is Jimmy Demaret, whom I consider the greatest wind player among the younger fellows.

"And don't count Benny Hogan out. He missed out as a regular qualifier, but today they admitted him as an alternate, and he'll go into the open relaxed. And how about Old Man Wood and his 264 in the Metropolitan open? Don't skip him."

Olin admitted that he has worked harder on his own game for this open than any other since he won at Merlon in 1934. He has devoted most of his time in the last five years to his duties as pro at the Wilshire club in Los Angeles, but he now feels that Canterbury owes him something after his failure in the Western of 1932, and he's going back for payment.

He has stressed driving in his drills, for he feels that no open winner is better than his tee shots. In the last 36 holes of his 1934 victory Olin hit 34 of the final

SUGAR BILL TIED UP AGAIN IN NEW HOUSE DEBATES

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—The question of sugar legislation bogged down again today, causing two warring factions of the industry to cry out against impending "ruin." The west's beet industry and the refining interests of the east blamed each other for alleged unfair treatment.

After listening to congress members argue, the house rules committee deferred action on a request to give legislative right of way to a measure to continue the 1937 marketing quota law another year. The existing act expires at the end of 1940.

Rep. Peterson calls quotas "absurd."

Demand Limit for Islands.

Refineries demand that congress include in any bill continuing its life a limit on importations of refined sugar from Hawaii and Puerto Rico. Beet state congressmen assert President Roosevelt will veto the bill if it contains such a provision.

Representative Lawrence Lewis [D., Colo.], a committee member, said failure to reenact the quota system would destroy the whole industry. He urged the eastern members to bring in a separate bill to deal with their plight, adding, "Don't try to pull us down."

Representative John W. McCormack [D., Mass.] told the committee the whole sugar question should be shelved until next year.

Calls Quota System Absurd.

Representative Hugh Peterson [D., Ga.] said the whole sugar quota system was "an absurd proposition," adding that if, however, there was to be sugar legislation, congress should guard against giving Puerto Rico "a whip hand" over the mainland industry.

Similar appeals came from Representative Frank C. Osmers Jr. [R., N. J.] and Leon Sacks [D., Pa.]. Sacks insisted that in any case the way should be left open for amendments from the floor of the house.

BONDS RECOVER GOOD SHARE OF TUESDAY'S LOSS

New York, May 29 (AP).—The bond market acted with considerably more composure today, recapturing fractions to 2 or more points of the losses sustained yesterday.

Many domestic rails, utilities, and industrials as well as obligations of some of the warring European powers were in steady but moderate demand and closed near their best prices.

The United States government list was quiet but the few issues changing hands were up 1-32 to 16-32 of a point.

CHICAGO STEEL RATE JUMPS 8 POINTS IN WEEK

At 83 Per Cent, It's Highest in Nation.

Activity at steel mills in the Chicago and other great steel producing centers yesterday was reported again to be picking up speed. Orders for industry's basic raw material continued to pour into steel company offices, indicating continued production gains.

The Chicago district operating rate was the highest in the country at 83 per cent of theoretical capacity, Iron Age estimated, and the national rate was placed at 78 per cent. The increase in the Chicago mills over last week was 8 points. The Pittsburgh rate climbed 5 points from last week to 78 per cent of theoretical capacity.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation lighted another blast furnace at its Gary works—the largest individual steel mill in the world. This brought the number of blast furnaces operating at Gary to 10 out of 12. Eight of the company's 11 furnaces are operating at the South works in South Chicago.

Operate at Last Fall's Peak.

With 18 of the company's 23 Chicago district furnaces in use, Carnegie-Illinois now has as many operating as it did during the peak period of last fall when its mills were running close to capacity.

Orders coming into the Chicago mills in substantial amounts are for steel to be used for heavy machinery, machine tools, road building equipment, household appliances, and tin plate, which is used for a variety of purposes including containers.

The automobile companies are said to be continuing to take fairly large amounts of steel. The railroads still are buying cautiously, most of the steel they are taking being for track maintenance.

Orders from France and England are picking up and with the possibility of air bombardment of Europe's mills it is expected that greater dependence will be placed on the American mills. The British are reported to have divided their first order for shell billets, amounting to 36,000 tons, among three companies. France is expected to buy 140,000 tons.

U. S. Steel Rate Rising.

In the present upturn in activity, the operating subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation are reported to have been increasing their activities more rapidly than the so-called independent companies. One reason is the wide diversification of the United States Steel mills, which are equipped to produce every type of steel required by industry—both for peace and war needs.

During the last 10 years the independent companies generally had the edge on the United States Steel units, increasing their rates more rapidly during advances in the industry.

Meantime, evidences of the increasing part that steel is playing in the national defense are coming to light. The American Car and Foundry company has already begun delivery, altho in fairly small numbers, on its 6 million dollar tank order from the army. By the end of the week it will have shipped 17. The present government order is for 329 tanks.

Plane Factories Buy Steel.

Substantial orders for steel have been received for additions to airplane plants and for improvements to military fields. Among such orders were those for 1,750 tons for the Pratt & Whitney plant at East Hartford, Conn., 2,500 tons for a hangar at Wright field, Dayton, O., 2,200 tons for a naval air station at Jacksonville, Fla., and 2,000 tons for an addition to the Boeing company plant at Seattle, Wash.

LABOR CUTS PAY TO ENCOURAGE HOME BUILDING

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 29 (AP).—Organized labor in the building trades here is voluntarily reducing wage rates 20 per cent in an effort to stimulate home construction.

The cut will apply to about 20,000 members of the American Federation of Labor. A contract setting up the reduction includes guarantees against strikes and similar work delays.

"Labor contends that price savings are needed in the small home, single and double dwelling field to improve the chances for wage earners to own their own homes," stated Charles J. Lawrence, chairman of the building and construction trades council committee.

Union leaders said owners would save about $800 in construction of a house now costing $10,000.

MARKETS, BANKS CLOSE TODAY

In observance of Memorial day, the chief financial and commodity markets and most banks of the United States will be closed today. These include the New York Stock exchange, the Chicago Live Stock Market, Board of Trade, stock exchange, and commodity markets. Naval stores markets in Savannah, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla., however, will remain open. The New Orleans cotton futures market will reverse its usual practice and close for the day. Exchanges in Canada and abroad will operate as usual.

Sears Official New Federal Buying Chief

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau today announced the appointment of Donald M. Nelson, executive vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, as acting director of procurement, effective June 1.

Donald M. Nelson.

Nelson succeeds Capt. Harry E. Collins, who has resigned to become manager of the export department of the Bell Aircraft corporation at Buffalo, N. Y. It is understood that Nelson will assume Collins' post as chairman of the President's interdepartmental committee coördinating domestic and foreign military purchases in this country.

Handles Federal Buying.

The procurement division handles all of the government's purchases, other than those of the army and navy.

Nelson has been in government service before as assistant to the chairman of the old NIRA, as chairman of the textile industry committee of the wages and hours administration, and as a member of the business advisory council of the department of commerce.

GETS LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Donald M. Nelson, executive vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., will not sever his connection with the company but instead will take a leave of absence to serve as acting director of government procurement, Thomas J. Carney, president of Sears, said last night. Nelson was named yesterday to succeed Capt. Harry E. Collins.

How long he will be away from the company will depend upon the problems of his new position, Carney said. His duties with Sears, Roebuck will be carried out by Carney and Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board, until he returns, Carney said.

AVIATION OFFERS JOBS TO COLLEGE JUNE GRADUATES

Minneapolis, Minn., May 29 [Special].—Aviation, which was virtually at the bottom of the list a year ago, now is among businesses offering the largest number of steady jobs to June college graduates, King Merritt, vice president of Investors syndicate, revealed here today.

Merritt's estimate was based on a questionnaire to placement and employment officers of colleges and universities. The replies were not affected by President Roosevelt's national defense program of May 14, the questionnaires being tabulated four days earlier.

"Aviation," said Merritt, "is exceeded in number of graduate job openings this year only by teaching, engineering, business administration, and salesmanship.

"Leading aircraft, engine, and parts makers are offering graduates jobs. Aeronautical engineering likewise has jumped from virtually last place in 1939 to fifth place this year. From the architectural profession, too, comes a demand for aeronautical training."

BOARD OF TRADE OFFICIALS TALK WITH WALLACE

Three officials of the Chicago Board of Trade were in Washington, D. C., yesterday conferring with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. While the nature of their visit was not revealed, it was believed they discussed the "price floors" placed under all grain futures trading on May 20 at Wallace's request.

John G. McCarthy, president of the exchange, Vice President C. D. Sturtevant, and Secretary Fred H. Clutton made the trip.

Minimum prices on grain futures were established by all American exchanges at Wallace's request after a decline of more than 30 cents a bushel on wheat and 10 cents on corn during the week ended May 18. Trading on the exchanges has been light since the action, with most grains hovering slightly above the minimum prices.

CANADIAN LAKE SHIPS MAY BE SENT TO BRITAIN

Ottawa, Ont., May 29 (AP).—A fleet of 21 Canadian Great Lakes freighters may be sent to England shortly for coastwise trade around the British isles, it was reported here today.

The British government chartered eight such lake freighters from the Canada Steamship lines last autumn, and the British authorities have opened negotiations now thru the Canadian shipping board to acquire the additional fleet.

Final arrangements for transfer of the boats to Britain's service will be completed shortly, but names and present owners of the vessels could not be learned.

Charges Pyroil Company Misrepresents Product

Washington, D. C., May 29 [Special].—The Federal Trade commission today announced it has charged the Pyroil company of La Crosse, Wis., with misrepresentation in the sale of its lubricating product. The commission holds that the product, when added to gasoline or motor oil, does not double the life of an automobile engine, increase power, add mileage, reduce friction, lower temperatures, or eliminate carbon, as claimed.

Stocks Achieve Gains Running to Three Points

New York, May 29 (AP).—Wall street took a more hopeful view of business prospects today and leading stocks rose as much as 3 points.

Two technical factors underlaid the improvement: Covering by many short traders, and adjustment of trading accounts in preparation for the Memorial day closing.

Large Buying Orders.

Opening trades today were, consequently, based on fairly large overnight buying orders. Prices jumped a point or so before lethargy set in and the ticker tape dawdled the rest of the session with few important changes in prices.

The Associated Press average of 60 selected stocks rose 0.4 of a point at 38.4. The turnover was 657,082 shares, compared with 1,263,510 yesterday. Of the 733 issues appearing on the ticker tape, 469 closed higher, 121 lower, and 143 unchanged.

As the slowest day in three weeks, the session showed operators relaxing from previous hysterical dealings.

Steels Lead Upswing.

Steels led the upturn, largely on the basis of reports of increased operations because of allied and United States government orders, coupled with a building up of inventories by consumers, who feared government priority orders might cut into their supplies.

Among the best performers were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Harvester, Caterpillar Tractor, Sperry, Lockheed, American Telephone, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Eastman, Santa Fe, and Great Northern preferred.

CHICAGO STOCKS RECOVER.

Active stocks on the Chicago exchange yesterday recovered from the shakeout of Tuesday and closed generally higher. Of the 96 issues traded, 57 advanced, 19 declined, and 20 remained unchanged. Only 20,000 shares changed hands. Gains among the volume leaders included Commonwealth Edison, ¼; Borg Warner, ¾; Sundstrand Machine Tool, 1⅛; United States Steel, ⅞, and Hall Printing, which rose 1 point.

DE SEVERSKY DROPPED FROM BOARD IN TIFF WITH AVIATION HEADS

Wilmington, Del., May 29 (AP).—Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky, speed pilot and airplane designer, was dropped from the board of the Republic Aviation corporation at the annual stockholders' meeting here.

Maj. A. P. de Seversky

Asserting he had disagreed with experimental policies and choice of company executives, De Seversky said: "I felt it my duty to advise the stockholders of these differences so that they may form their own opinion as to the merits of the controversy and, if necessary, resort to the courts."

President of an aviation company bearing his name that was a forerunner to Republic, De Seversky asserted unless Republic revamps its future policies "its facilities will be lost for defense." President Wallace Kellett and six other directors were reëlected.

BRITISH POUND RISES DESPITE WAR REVERSES

Despite a stream of reports describing the seriousness of the allied army situation, the British pound rose two cents in relation the dollar in foreign exchange trading at New York yesterday. It closed at $3.19½.

Some traders said the rise was probably due in part to extensive coverings by short holders who wished to avoid going thru the Memorial day holiday with any but necessary commitments on hand.

The French franc advanced .01½ of a cent to 1.81 cents, while the Canadian dollar was down ⅛ of a cent to 78½ United States cents. The Swiss franc moved up .01 of a cent.

Executives Forego Holiday; Ready for Defense Call

Schenectady, N. Y., May 29 (AP).—The General Electric company has canceled a two weeks' camping period for executives at Thousand Islands because, a spokesman said today, "we want to keep key men on the job in case of government emergency defense program demands." The camping period was to have begun July 6.

April Exports of Pork Near All-Time Low

Pork exports from the United States last month fell to 4,957,096 pounds, the second smallest April shipments during more than 50 years for which government records are available, the department of commerce reported yesterday. The total was only 17 per cent of the average of January and February exports this year, and 61 per cent of the shipments during April of 1939.

The record breaking decline since early in the year was due chiefly to restrictions placed on purchases of pork by Canada which was a heavy buyer the first two months of the year.

Quota Reduces Exports.

Total January exports of pork, including huge shipments to Canada, were 28,587,458 pounds. The February sales were 27,682,121 pounds. Canada placed a quota on imports from the United States late in February, with the result that total exports for March dropped to 4,701,917 pounds, an all-time low for that month.

The department of agriculture has advised producers of hogs in the United States that they cannot expect much increase in British pork buying before late this year or early 1941, despite the fact that England has been cut off from most of its continental European markets.

Pork production during the last few months has been increased sharply in England because of the heavy slaughter of hogs necessitated by a shortage of feed, according to the department of agriculture. England has also arranged for larger pork purchases from Australia and Canada.

Four Months' Total Higher.

Because of the large sales during the first two months of 1940, total exports of pork for the first four months of this year were heavier than in 1939. The total was 65,928,592 pounds, compared with 35,613,275 during the first four months of last year, and 28,923,943 two years ago.

Lard exports last month dropped to 18,848,807 pounds, the smallest for any month since April of last year. They compared with 20,654,210 pounds in March, 25,132,915 in February, and 27,588,373 in January. The total for April, 1939, was 17,531,127 pounds. Lard exports for the first four months of 1940, at 92,224,305 pounds, compared with 92,692,419 pounds a year ago.

Beef Exports Increase.

Beef and veal exports last month were the largest for April in three years at 1,491,057 pounds, compared with 709,971 pounds a year ago. The four months' shipments, at 5,907,625 pounds, compared with 3,703,874 pounds a year ago, and were highest for the period since 1934.

Imports of pork last month were only 456,208 pounds, the smallest for any month since April, 1935. They compared with 5,207,976 pounds in April last year. The four months' imports, at 2,221,541 pounds, the smallest in five years, compared with 18,064,097 pounds a year ago. Beef and veal imports during April were 4,928,391 pounds, the smallest for April in six years, compared with 8,858,833 pounds a year ago. The four months' total, at 25,639,624 pounds, compared with imports of 23,114,441 pounds a year ago.

SEEKS REHEARING OF OIL CASE ON DEFENSE BASIS

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—The nation's defense program was cited today as a reason for reconsideration by the Supreme court of its decision that the Sherman antitrust act outlaws "any combination which tampers with price structures."

In its May 6 decision, the tribunal held specifically that 12 major oil companies and 5 individuals had violated the act by conspiring to raise the price of gasoline sold in 10 midwestern states.

William J. Donovan, former assistant attorney general, told the tribunal in a petition for rehearing that it had held in earlier opinions that "a plan whose direct purpose and aim is to remove a competitive evil is not condemned merely because it incidentally results in fairer or higher prices."

"The effect of such a change is particularly important at the moment," he said. "We are confronted by the dislocations of a war program with the consequent destructive effects of scarcity on prices."

PLANE EXPORTS SKYROCKET ON ALLIED BUYING

Act to Counter Nazi Strength in Air.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—The important place of air attack in the war overseas was reflected tonight in export statistics on airplanes and other aeronautical products. The department of commerce reported that the United States shipped 192 per cent more airplanes, engines, and parts in April and 215 per cent more in the first four months than a year ago.

The desperate attempt of the allies to bolster their air forces and combat the numerically superior Nazi air fleet made France and the United Kingdom our best customers.

Shipments in April were valued at $21,795,643, of which 90 per cent went to France, the United Kingdom, Canada, China, the Netherlands Indies, and Rumania. The April total compared with $20,736,000 in March and only $7,460,819 in April, 1939, and was exceeded only by shipments of January and last December.

France Largest Buyer.

Aeronautic exports in the four months amounted to $88,209,488, compared with $28,019,152 in the corresponding period of 1939. The 10 leading markets this year were: France, $47,184,988; United Kingdom, $10,517,887; Australia, $8,001,153; Canada, $5,129,569; Finland, $3,140,597; Sweden, $2,330,265; Turkey, $1,831,524; China, $1,683,033; Norway, $1,441,771, and the Netherlands Indies, $1,286,282.

The April export total consisted of 233 airplanes complete with engines valued at $12,862,198, and $8,933,445 worth of engines, parts, accessories, and parachutes. Our parachute sales totaled $73,692 in April, of which $25,000 worth went to Australia, $24,159 to Canada, $16,576 to Rumania, $7,829 to Brazil, and $128 to Greece. These sales were made before the Nazis used parachute troops to such an advantage in the invasion of the Low Countries but are significant in that they reflected some concern over the need for such equipment.

168 Shipped to France.

Our leading aeronautic customers in April were: France, $14,443,071; United Kingdom, $2,908,621; Canada, $728,929; China, $556,473; Netherlands, Indies, $541,049, and Rumania, $360,501. The remaining 10 per cent of April exports was divided among 46 other markets. Germany bought none. Italy bought only $1,248 in parts and accessories, bringing her total to only $3,149 for the four months.

Of the 233 airplanes shipped in April, France got 168; Belgium, 2; the United Kingdom, 23; Canada, 4; Brazil, 8; Iraq, 5; Turkey, 5, and the Netherlands Indies, 3, with the rest widely distributed.

Turning from this booming traffic in airplanes, other export statistics today showed another side of the picture—the loss of important food markets thru the war. A breakdown of export trade figures showed that our food exports in April dropped 7 per cent from a year earlier, amounting to $23,551,000, against $21,940,000.

Wheat Shipments Fall.

The drop was caused chiefly by smaller shipments of wheat, which fell to 1,833,000 bushels valued at $1,630,000, from 5,924,000 bushels valued at $3,260,000 in April, 1940.

The United Kingdom took larger quantities of canned fruits, vegetables, salmon, and sardines, but smaller amounts of dried and evaporated fruits, as well as fresh fruits. Lard shipments to the United Kingdom dropped to a negligible level. Bacon exports were nearly three times as large as a year ago, at 1,776,000 pounds, against 561,000 pounds, with France, normally a minor market in this item, taking most of the shipments.

United States exports of chemicals and related products totaled $19,350,000 in April, compared with $14,658,500 last year, the department reported. Since the outbreak of the war, exports of the products have increased about 50 per cent, it was said. Exports totaled $167,353,500 in the eight months ended with April, against $108,939,500 in the eight months ended a year earlier.

Complicates Farm Problem.

Confronted with loss of export markets the administration's farm problem has become more complicated. Its only solution so far has been to pay out more money for farm relief.

The department of agriculture today announced the purchase of 32 million pounds of lard and 15 million pounds of salt pork for distribution to relief families and for use in school lunch programs. The purchases were made thru packers under an $8,000,000 surplus removal program begun last December. Previously, 41,600,000 pounds of lard and pork products had been purchased.

The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation said additional purchases of pork products will be made soon.

National Tube Contracts for New Blast Furnace

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 29 (AP).—A contract for construction of a blast furnace with a capacity of 1,000 tons per day at the National Tube company plant in Lorain, O., has been awarded to Arthur G. McKee & Co. of Cleveland, the tube company announced tonight.

PROPOSAL FOR ARKABUTLA DAM—U. S. Engineer Office, Vicksburg, Miss.—Sealed bids will be received here until 10 a. m., C. S. T., June 25, 1940, and then opened, for furnishing all plant, labor, and materials, and performing all work for constructing Arkabutla Dam on Coldwater River approximately seven miles northeast of Prichard, Mississippi, and approximately nine miles southwest of Hernando, Mississippi. Further information on application.

Heads Illinois Bankers

CHARLES R. REARDON.

Charles R. Reardon yesterday was elevated to the presidency of the Illinois Bankers' association, of which he was vice president during the last year. He is vice president of the First National bank of Joliet, and, as head of the bankers' group, succeeds John J. Anton, vice president of the First National bank of Chicago.

Earl C. Adams, executive vice president of the Jersey State bank, Jerseyville, was named treasurer of the association, and William Busse Jr., president of the Mount Prospect State bank, was chosen treasurer.

Martin A. Graettinger, executive vice president of the association, and H. C. Hausman, secretary, both of Chicago, were reëlected.

UNDERWRITERS WITHDRAW AIR STOCK OFFERING

New York, May 29 (AP).—The underwriting group formed to market a new issue of Eastern Air Lines, Inc., common stock has been dissolved and the unsold portion of the securities distributed among participants of the syndicate, it was learned today.

The underwriters absorbed about 100,000 shares of the 110,909 first offered stockholders of Eastern Air Lines at $32 a share, financial circles reported.

The group had intended to offer publicly the unsold part of the stock, if any, at the same price stockholders paid. When the drastic drop in market prices upset this plan the underwriters arranged to lower the offering price to $30.75, but before this plan could mature a fresh wave of selling further unsettled markets yesterday and, it was reported, finally induced the group to withdraw the issue.

BANK OF AMERICA DROPS PLAN FOR STOCK OFFERING

New York, May 29 [Special].—The Bank of America National Trust and Savings association of California today announced it has agreed to terminate the arragement it had with a group of underwriters for public offering of any of the $30,000,000 of convertible preferred stock not taken by the stockholders under the offering which expired Monday. It is understood that only about 50,000 of the 400,000 shares of $50 par $2 dividend preferred offered to stockholders—outside the Transamerica corporation —were taken up.

"Disturbed international conditions" was the reason given for abandoning the offering. The company said alternative arrangements will carry out its plan of adding $30,000,000 to the bank's capital stock.

AIR ASSOCIATES TO BUILD PLANE PARTS FACTORY

New York, May 29 [Special].—F. Leroy Hill, president and general manager of Air Associates, Inc., one of the largest United States manufacturers of airplane accessories, today announced plans to build a factory immediately on a tract recently purchased at Bendix airport, Bendix, N. J.

Estimated to cost $300,000, the plant will cover about 70,000 square feet and will double the floor space now occupied by Air Associates in four hangars at Roosevelt field. The company will give up its present Long Island quarters when the new building is completed in the fall.

May Retire When He's Old, but 88 Is Still Too Young!

It's not a young man's world after all. William O. Merrick, 4334 Greenview avenue, proves that point. Merrick was 88 years old yesterday. As usual, he arrived at the H. G. Adair Printing company, 107 North Wacker drive, at 8:30 a. m., took off his coat, and began his work as secretary, as he has for the last 40 years. Retire? "Not unless I get to be an old man!" he exclaimed.

QUIT WORRYING OVER GOLD PILE, NATION ADVISED

Goldenweiser Terms Hoard an Asset.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The country was advised yesterday to stop worrying about the possibility that the 19 billion dollars of gold owned by the United States treasury will lose its value. The advice came from Dr. E. A. Goldenweiser, director of research and statistics for the federal reserve board.

Dr. E. A. Goldenweiser.

The economist admitted that the future value of gold is uncertain and that it may be affected by the outcome of the war in Europe.

"Gold might lose much of its value," he said, "if the post-war world into which we emerge is completely unlike the world in which we are now living. If that comes to pass, however, the loss of the gold will be but incidental to other and greater losses that we will have to bear."

Termed Great Asset.

It is near the truth to state that the gold owned by the treasury is so much "velvet" for the country, Goldenweiser told the bankers.

"It did not cost the national treasury anything to buy the gold," he said. "The only expense to the treasury was the cost of printing the gold certificates it issued to the central banks of the reserve.

"Insofar as the incoming gold was acquired as payment for American goods sold abroad, the purchase has had a stimulating effect on our economy.

"The individual exporter in the United States did not get gold for the goods he sold; he received payment in American money. Meanwhile, American industry, which has been operating far under its potential capacity, has felt the stimulating effects of the export sales and employment has been created that would not have existed unless we had been willing to trade our goods for gold.

Part of It Is "Velvet."

"To the extent that gold has been accepted for payment of goods we may regard the employment that resulted as so much 'velvet' to us economically. About one-fifth of the gold that the United States has acquired in the last eight years has been sent here to pay for the excess of American goods sold abroad."

A much larger part of the gold that has flowed to the United States, he added, represented refuge capital that was seeking protection from confiscation or taxation in foreign countries.

"We hold about 8 billion dollars of this foreign capital," Goldenweiser said. "It has been used to purchase American securities and in the creation of foreign balances in New York."

A large part of the foreign security holdings and the foreign bank balances in this country are now being rapidly used to pay for American goods for the allied countries, he said. To the extent that they are used in this manner the effect on our economy will be the same as that resulting from the gold shipped here to pay for goods, he asserted.

Otherwise a Threat.

Under other world conditions, Dr. Goldenweiser admitted, the existence of large foreign bank balances in New York, subject to withdrawal on short notice, might constitute a threat to the economic system.

"Under present circumstances," he asserted, "there is faint prospect that foreign countries will withdraw their funds."

It is a fallacy to assert, the reserve economist said, that the price of $35 an ounce that is paid by the treasury is the magnet which has drawn gold to this country.

The value of gold, he said, is the same the world over. Its value in this country has not been higher either in the amount of money for which it could be exchanged or in the sense that its purchasing power in terms of commodities was greater.

The economist disputed the charge

BRITISH BUYING OF FLOUR LIFTS WHEAT FUTURES

Profit Taking Cuts Gains in American Markets.

Purchases of Canadian flour by the United Kingdom had considerable influence on American wheat markets yesterday. Prices advanced about 1 cent a bushel early on the Chicago Board of Trade while at Winnipeg there was an upturn of over 2 cents. Profit taking developed on American exchanges late in the session, with the close here ¼ to ¾ cent higher. Winnipeg was up 2 to 2⅛ cents at the close.

It was reported that the United Kingdom has purchased about 1,000,000 barrels of Canadian wheat flour recently. Fears of air raid damage to English mills and the fact that flour can be more readily stored in small quantities than wheat were said to be responsible for the large purchases.

Corn Declines ½ Cent.

Corn, which showed independent strength recently as compared with wheat, turned downward yesterday on reports that farmers were more willing to sell cash grain. Futures closed ½ cent lower. Oats finished unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Rye declined ⅛ to ¾ cent. Soy beans finished unchanged to ¾ cent lower, all deliveries closing at the minimum prices at which trading can be conducted.

About 500,000 bushels of Canadian barley were reported to have been purchased by American interests in the last few days. The grain will be shipped from Fort William to Chicago, Milwaukee, and Duluth.

Ship Corn to East.

Chicago elevators loaded 1,039,000 bushels of corn into lake steamers Tuesday for shipment to eastern ports. A large part of it was said to be government owned grain, representing part of the sale recently of 25,000,000 bushels to the United Kingdom.

Lard futures closed unchanged to 2½ cents per 100 pounds lower on the Chicago Board of Trade. Announcement that the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation had purchased 32,000,000 pounds of lard and 15,000,000 pounds of salt pork for relief purposes was not received until after the close of futures trading.

DEFENSE COUNCIL TOLD ILLINOIS IS NATURAL CENTER

Urged to Begin Expansion Program in Midwest.

Advantages available in Illinois and the midwest in facilitating the national defense program were called to the attention of the newly appointed advisory commission to the council on national defense yesterday in a letter from the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

The strategic geographical location, the wide variety, and the extensiveness of industries, the availability of supplies and material, and the abundance of experienced labor were emphasized.

"The strategic advantage of this state from a military point of view on account particularly of its geographical location is a matter of common knowledge," W. Homer Hartz, president of the association and president of the Morden Frog & Crossing Works, wrote.

State Has Facilities.

"The importance of the airplane as an instrument of national defense has been well demonstrated in the European conflict.

"This state, on account of its location, on account of the large variety of industries which either now are or could be readily equipped to manufacture parts and accessories for airplane production, and on account of the facilities available tiruout the state for the creation or expansion of airplane research and manufacturing facilities, as well as for the training of pilots, is, we submit, the logical center for the development of this industry as an instrument of national defense," the letter stated.

Many Machine Tool Makers.

It referred to 35 machine tool manufacturing establishments in Illinois employing nearly 5,000 men, and to the 90 manufacturers with nearly 3,000 employés manufacturing machine tool accessories and precision tools.

The letter submitted a long list of airplane parts and accessories manufactured in the state, adding that over 200 manufacturers in Illinois specialize in airplane equipment, in addition to hundreds of firms able to turn out airplane parts if needed.

The proximity of the great steel mills in the Chicago area, the large meat packing plants, the clothing manufacturers, and petroleum refineries were also listed among Illinois' advantages.

Chicago Business Activity in April Exceeds Last Year

Business in Chicago during April showed substantial improvement over April, 1939 and in many important lines was better than in March, 1940, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday. In only two lines did the indices used by the association show declines as compared with last year, altho a considerable number were lower as compared with March.

Real estate transfers declined about 14 per cent as compared with April, 1939, and bond transactions on the Chicago Stock Exchange also eased.

Building Shows Big Gain.

Among the lines that showed distinct gains over last year were building contracts, which jumped almost 110 per cent, the April, 1940, total being $14,419,000 compared with $7,747,000 in April, 1939. Bank clearings also advanced substantially.

Use of electric power showed a large gain over 1939 and the number of telephones in use was higher. The number of passengers carried by the Chicago Surface Lines exceeded the April, 1939, total by almost 2,000,000.

Travel at the Chicago airport was much increased. Activity in the steel mills and the stock yards also was higher. Automobile sales in Cook county set an all time record for the month.

Many Gain Over March.

Activities which showed gains as compared with March included building permits and cost, construction awards and cost, real estate transfers, retailers' occupational tax collections, department store sales, stock market activity, and freight car loadings. Those which declined from March included the employé and payroll indices in the manufacturing industries, bank debits, power use, surface lines passengers and steel mill and stock yards operations.

Goldenweiser Terms Hoard an Asset.

that the gold owned by the treasury is lying idle in the government storehouses and is performing no useful economic function.

"The gold circulates by proxy in the form of bank deposits which represent our chief medium of exchange," he said. "For all practical purposes it circulates as much as it ever did. When we had gold certificates in general circulation gold performed its function also by proxy. Now the certificates are held only by the central reserve banks and gold still circulates by proxy, but one stage further removed."

Cites Inflationary Factor.

The only potential danger to the economic structure of the big gold hoard is its inflationary influence, he said. Already, he observed, the inflow has lifted the reserves of the banking system 6 billion dollars above legal requirements.

"This," he said, "is potentially dangerous, but we can meet the problem thru our present banking machinery if we recognize what the problem is. There is no serious danger of inflation now nor has there been in recent years because our economy has been operating so far below par.

"Inflation becomes an immediate threat only when we near our full plant capacity and competitive bidding for goods starts. We are far from that point now, altho we may have isolated bottlenecks in our industrial set-up."

The danger may become more real, he added, if the heavy allied purchases in this country and the domestic rearmament program result in a rapid stimulation of industry.

BUILDING AWARDS REACH LARGEST FIGURE OF YEAR

New York, May 29 (AP).—Engineering construction awards for the week ended today totaled $78,575,000, the highest of the year, Engineering News-Record reported. The total was 79 per cent above the previous week and 97 per cent larger than a year ago.

Beginning of work on the $28,500,000 Fort Loudoun dam in Tennessee by the TVA contributed to a sharp gain in public contracts.

	Last week.	Prev. week.	Year ago.
Private	$18,304,000	$15,091,000	$ 4,266,000
State, municipal	17,906,000	23,587,000	31,287,000
Federal	42,365,000	5,179,000	4,334,000

AVERAGE HOTEL ROOM FURNISHED AT COST OF $393

Leonard Hicks, president of the Greater Chicago Hotel association, which will be host to national hotel week activities starting next Sunday, revealed a few facts about hotels yesterday:

First elevator used in America was installed in a New York hotel.

HEAVY SELLING FORCES BUTTER TO SEASONAL LOW

November butter futures declined almost ½ cent a pound to a new seasonal low of 26 cents on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday on selling attributed to cash houses. A minor rally lifted the closing price to 26.05 cents. Turnover of 2,131,200 pounds was the largest for 10 weeks.

Butter production set a new April peak at 147,745,000 pounds, the department of agriculture reported.

Egg futures gained 0.20 cent a dozen early then sagged to close with a loss of 0.05 cent at 17.95 cents. The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation bought 2,311,440 dozens in producing sections Tuesday and 681,510 dozens in Chicago and New York yesterday to support prices on the cash market.

Curtiss-Wright Considers Restricting 'Incentive' Pay

Stockholders of the Curtiss-Wright corporation will vote at a special meeting on July 2 on a proposal that no "incentive compensation" is to be paid officers and employés in any year starting with 1940 unless a dividend of at least 10 cents a share is paid on the common stock. The incentive plan, adopted last year, provides that 10 per cent of the net earnings of the company shall be distributed by the board of directors to officers and employés. Based on the 1939 operations $258,050 was distributed to 25 officers and 159 employés.

Tool Firm Makes Plant Addition for Arms Needs

Cleveland, O., May 29 (AP).—Warner & Swasey company, machine tool making organization, announced today plans for a second addition to its plant here in anticipation of increased production for a national defense program. C. J. Stilwell, president, said the new construction would add 20,000 square feet to a 30,000 square foot addition now partly completed.

HOG PRICES HOLD ABOUT STEADY AT TUESDAY LEVELS

The severe decline of hog values that swept the country Tuesday was checked yesterday. Most classes held about in line with the average of the day previous, some sales showing small gains, while others were slightly lower for the day. Both the top and average were unchanged, at $5.55 and $5.25 a hundred pounds, respectively.

Strong to higher prices prevailed for other live stock. An abrupt decrease in cattle receipts sent prices of many classes of steers and yearlings up to 15 to 25 cents. Heifers sold strong to 15 cents higher. Advances of 10 to 15 cents were made in beef cows, canners, cutters, and bulls.

Fully steady prices were paid for lambs. Best native springers sold at $12.00.

Wage and Hour Division to Open 20 New Offices

The wage and hour division of the department of labor is organizing 20 new field offices in Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, Thomas O'Malley, regional director for the division, announced yesterday. He said this will mean an increase of almost 100 per cent in the field staff in this region.

HUDSON'S BAY.

What is the business of the Hudson's Bay company? Is it related to the company in early American history that established trading posts in Canada?—K. M.

Answer: Hudson's Bay company, probably the oldest corporation in the Western Hemisphere, is one of the world's leading fur dealers. It also sells Canadian real estate and conducts a large retail and wholesale merchandising business. The company was incorporated by royal charter in 1670.

When the company was formed by Prince Rupert and associates, King Charles II. of England granted it territorial rights to all the land roughly west of the Great Lakes to the Pacific and from the Arctic ocean to the Spanish settlements in what is now California. In 1870 the company yielded its rights to the Canadian government.

Originally started as a fur trading enterprise which bartered with Indians and fur trappers in the Hudson Bay region, the company developed a general trading business with retail stores as an outgrowth of its trading posts.

The fur trading department is still an important source of the company's income but it has been affected by modern developments. The company now uses airplanes to collect and transport furs as well as to inspect farflung trading posts.

Increased taxation and curtailment of international trade as a result of the war reduced the company's profits last year. The fur trade was impaired by wartime restrictions on imports, according to the management's annual report. Net profit in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1940, dropped to $359,000 from $550,000 in the year ended Jan. 31, 1939, and $846,000 in the year ended Jan. 31, 1938.

In the latest fiscal year the company sold 51,596 acres of land and held 1,777,817 acres last Jan. 31. This is the remainder of the original land owned by the company after it surrendered its territorial rights to the dominion government.

The capital stock of the company is composed of $7,000,000 of preference shares and $12,461,000 in ordinary shares. The stocks are traded on the London Stock exchange. The company has no funded debt.

CURACAO.

Answer: The Royal Dutch company for the Working of Petroleum Wells in the Netherlands Indies, a holding company, owns thru a subsidiary a large gasoline refinery at Curacao, Netherlands West Indies. The company recently transferred its headquarters from The Hague to this island after Germany conquered Holland.

CHEMICAL FIRM'S NEW PLANT TO OPEN IN AUGUST

The Dewey & Almy Chemical company of Cambridge, Mass., announced yesterday that its $125,000 plant at South Meade avenue and 51st street, Stickney township, is expected to begin operations in August. Construction was begun in February.

The company manufactures sealing compounds, sealing machines, and adhesives for the canning and shoe industries, as well as other chemically engineered specialties. The new plant, which will provide for about 30,000 square feet of floor space, will produce metal and glass container sealing compounds and adhesives.

E. G. Blake and Fisher Hills, both of the Cambridge plant, will be in charge of sales and manufacture.

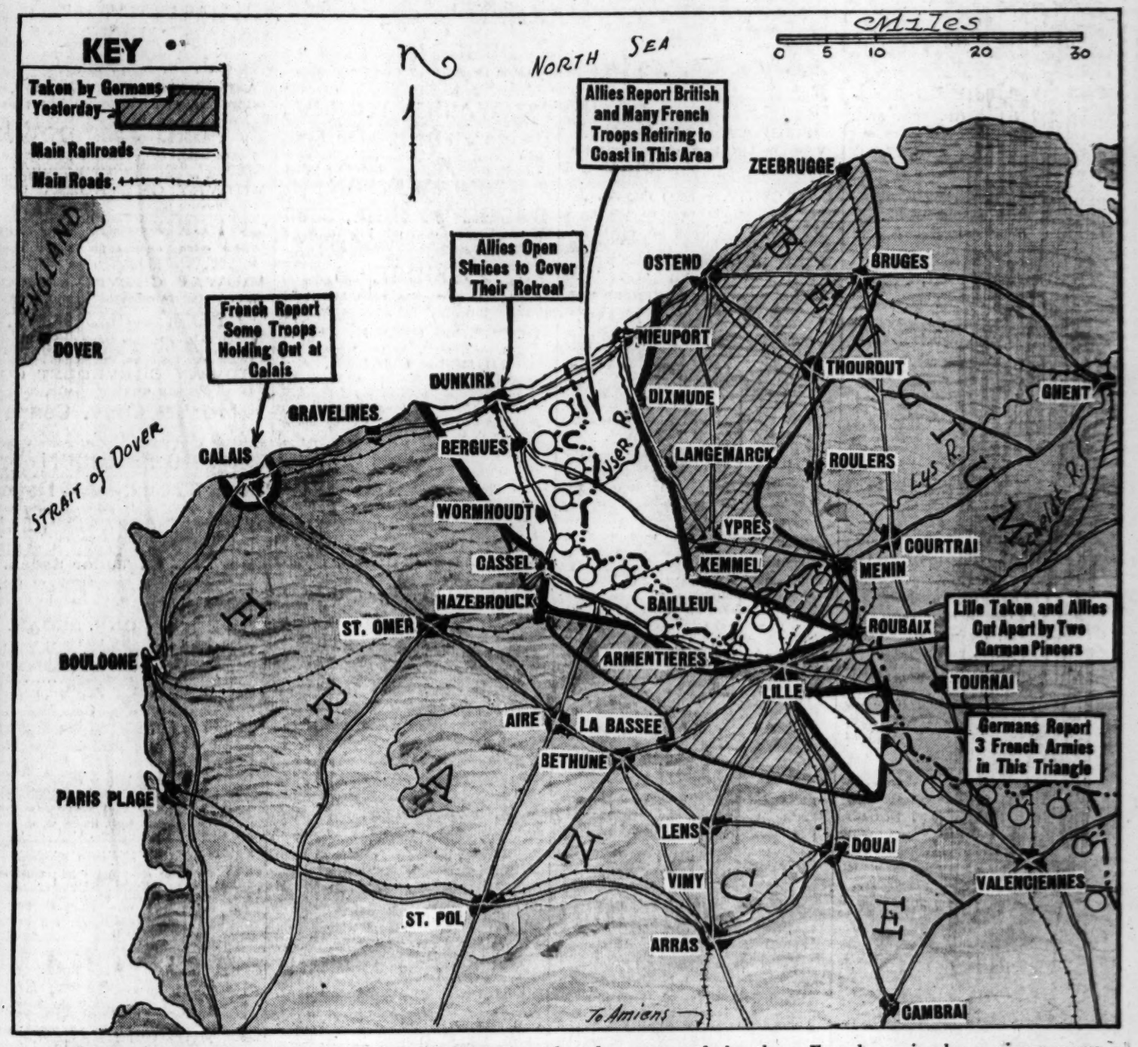
General map of the war situation, giving not only the battle line in the Belgian fighting front, where allies are being forced back toward coast, but also the line along Somme and Aisne rivers, which French have been consolidating.



Detail map of northern war zone, where Germans say they have trapped the three French armies by a pincer movement that took Lille. The allies report the main body of their troops in the northern field, retreating toward Dunkirk. The battle line is according to Berlin sources.
